Arrangements are now underway to secure a game with Jewett City for Oct. 9, to be played here.

JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE FOR CHAUFFEUR GUS EVANS

Gustave J. Evans, the Groton public service operator who was convicted in the superior court Saturday of manslaughter in causing the death of July 21st of Peggy Wentworth of Fall River, Michael Francis of Boston and James McKetrick of Woburn, Mass., who were in the rear of the Buick of the Hotel Griswold at Eastern Point and were hurled from an automobile owned by Evans, was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $100. Evans was bound from New London to the hotel, was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $100. Evans, George E. Hillman in the superior court here Wednesday morning.

In sentencing Evans, Judge Hinman said that he could under the law sentence Evans to state's prison but he did not propose to do that. He was satisfied in imposing the lighter sentence by the fact that Evans was shown not to be a habitually careless driver of a public service car, that he had been severely punished by confinement in jail as long as he had been and that he had shown remorse for the unfortunate occurrence. The fact that he has a wife and two children was also given consideration and these facts led to the imposition of the jail sentence. Evans broke down and wept when he was sentenced.

Congregational Women at Park Church

Delegates from Jewett City, Franklin, Groton, Tatville, Greenville, New London and all the local Congregational churches, were in attendance at the meeting in the interests of the Women's Home Missionary Union of Connecticut, held at Oggood Memorial Parish House on Wednesday.

Mrs. Curdon F. Bailey of Norwich Town church presided at the opening session, which convened at eleven o'clock. After the singing and reading of the Scriptures by Mrs. S. H. Howe, prayer was offered by Mrs. J. Beveridge Lee of New London. In the unavoidable absence of Mrs. George D. Colt, president of the Park Church Home Missionary society, Miss Mary A. C. Avery, vice president, gave a brief address of welcome, following which, Mrs. Will L. Stearns, a delegate from the United church to the missionary conference at Northfield last summer, told in an interesting way of her impressions received from a week's stay in the place pervaded by the spirit of Moody, of instructive lectures and many pleasant sight seeing trips included in the program of entertainment.

The feature of the morning was a round table conducted by the president, Mrs. Curdon F. Bailey, on the subject of "The Home Missionary Union of Connecticut." Many questions concerning the aim and purposes of the union were answered by Mrs. Thayer, who proved to be a veritable fund of valuable information, in explaining the duties of the five national societies, which all work together under different heads, to reach the people of the world. The Congregational Home Missionary society, Congregational Educational society, American Missionary Association and Church Building society. The obligation laid on every church to pay its allotted apportionment was urged above any other privilege to contribute its share—each parish to consider it a welcome privilege to contribute its quota, and having promised its support to fulfill such financial obligations.

At the close of this talk, a basket lunch was enjoyed. The hospitality committee, composed of Miss Alice Cogswell, chairman; Mrs. Wallace S. Allis and Mrs. W. H. Geer, serving hot coffee to all present. The afternoon session began at 1:45 o'clock, with the reading of the fourth of New London in charge. Devotional services were led by Mrs. Charles S. Avery, after which Mrs. H. P. Bishop announced the selection of officers for the New London county branch of the state Congregational Home Missionary Union, as follows: Mrs. Curdon F. Bailey, chairman; Mrs. Norman Ruddy of New London, vice-chairman; Miss Elizabeth Huntington, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. William H. Dawley in charge of the young people's work. There are sixteen of these branches or associations in Connecticut.

An entertaining report on methods was given by Mrs. Allen Latham, who was also a delegate to the Northfield summer conference. These methods consist in pleasantly informal way with the preparation of missionary programs, at once instructive and amusing to the participants, laying stress on personal contributions towards making such meetings a success. Original and uncluttered methods which would arouse and hold interest were made by Mrs. William H. Dawley regarding the young

SHIPPING FACILITIES AVAILABLE FOR STATE'S COAL SUPPLY

Calling upon all those connected with the production and distribution of an article to produce the maximum, to allocate deliveries according to the urgent needs of Connecticut and to do away with the inconsistencies of price and deliveries now complained of in order that sufficient coal may be obtained without invoking the extraordinary powers of the president, the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce resolution was drawn up at Hartford, Wednesday, passed by the committee appointed for that purpose.

The personnel of the committee appointed by President Charles E. Chase of the state chamber following the vote of the board of directors of that body at the meeting in Hartford, September 11th to consider the coal shortage, was Frank Cheney, Jr., of South Manchester; Major Morgan G. Bulkeley, Jr., of Hartford; Robert W. Huntington, of Hartford; Edwin D. Root, New Haven and F. J. Kingsbury of Bridgeport.

The resolution was based on the information received at the meeting when it was stated that facilities were available for bringing into Connecticut enough coal for its winter needs. The question at present is the allocation of deliveries. Franklin T. Miller, adviser to the United States Senate Committee on Reconstruction who came up from New York to advise the meeting, stated that the senate committee found the coal shortage responsible for the coal shortage; speculation due to exportation of coal, and use of water transportation. Mr. Miller said that the Shipping Board had frequently offered tips for coal shipment which were not used because all rail shipment is cheaper than the rate to Boston, for instance, being 5 a ton all rail and $8 rail and water.

Further assurance in regard to sufficient transportation facilities was given by the Shipping Board, which has organized a transportation for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, who was present in an advisory capacity. He said that the New Haven road is in a position to accept and carry all the coal offered them up to the normal supply, provided it comes at a normal rate of speed. He stated further that since 750 open top cars had been repaired in the last two months and 32 new locomotives had been received, 12 more being on the way to New Haven, the railroad would be even better equipped to handle the coal than on now.

The fall text of the resolution follows: Whereas the localization of the sources of anthracite coal in the United States in a small area and the restriction of their ownership to a small group of interests constitute a close approach to a natural monopoly in one of the prime necessities of human existence; and Whereas, there is conclusive evidence of an unprecedented shortage of supplies of hard coal at the disposal of the retailers of Connecticut with the approaching winter close at hand; and Whereas, the general state of mind of the public in this country and abroad is such as to place upon the owners of the sources of anthracite coal a grave responsibility, not only to themselves but to all believers in private ownership of property; and Whereas, it is the duty of the government to defend the public interest in the distribution of a grave responsibility, not only to themselves but to all believers in private ownership of property; and Whereas, a strike of the coal miners, in defiance of an award of the federal government and the order and administration of the president of the United States, to deepen the growing distrust of the public of the ability or inclination of labor to enter into and keep agreements; and Whereas, certain unexplained discrepancies in price and deliveries as between

(a) the so-called "company" or "old line" producers, and (b) the so-called "independent" dealers and "brokers" have given rise to rumors and suspicious calculations to undermine the confidence of the public in the fairness of price-making and the allocation of deliveries; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, which is a state-wide organization made up of 35 local chambers and associations and 751 individuals and 125 companies, representing the five groups of Trade and Commerce, Banking and Insurance, Industries, Public Utilities and Agriculture, calls upon the owners of the mines, the workers in the mines, and the transportation lines, forthwith to push production and distribution to the maximum, allocate deliveries according to the urgent needs of the state, and to guard against and remove the inconsistencies in price and deliveries now complained of, to the end that the needs of the people may be immediately supplied and the invocation of the extraordinary powers vested in the president by war legislation may not be called for; and

Resolved, further, that the Chamber requests from the several parties to whom these resolutions are presented an acknowledgment of the receipt thereof, together with such comments, explanations and assurances they may deem of mutual service in the premises.

This resolution is to be presented to the leading coal operators, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the United States Shipping Board, the Anthracite Coal Bureau of Philadelphia and to the Connecticut senators and representatives. It may be decided to send a personal representative of the state chamber to the coal operators to hand them the resolution and otherwise bring to their attention the serious shortage of hard coal in Connecticut in an effort to divert as much as possible to this state before the cold weather begins. The sending of such a representative and other plans to relieve the coal shortage will be decided at the meeting of the executive committee of the state chamber in Hartford today.

FALL HAT PRICES REASONABLE.

IN VIEW OF COSTLY MATERIALS
New autumn hats appear in increasing numbers daily. The headwear of the summer season is certainly no longer suitable for formal occasions and begins to have a faded and by-gone look for street wear.

Shoppers do not need to delay hat choosing because they fancy prices abnormally high this fall. Considering the quality of the materials in use, the rich character of trimmings, etc., the cost of a handsome hat is very reasonable—especially when one considers the number of weeks and months during which the average purchaser expects such a purchase to remain nice and to do duty.

An attractive bit of millinery noticed during Wednesday was a rolling sailor of black velvet antique, with red panne facing. Its effective trimming was an ostrich tassel in black.

A smart model in broadcane panne velvet, a distinctive sport hat, had the gold ribbon trimming.

Charming was a pointed turban, its trimming pastel tips in different modish

NEW-AMBULANCE FUND DRIVE STARTS TODAY

This (Thursday) morning will start the ball rolling for the raising of a fund to be used for the purpose of obtaining a new motor ambulance for the Wm. W. Backus hospital. The old ambulance which belonged to the hospital and did such good service in the city and vicinity was destroyed in the fire of the A. C. Swan garage some weeks ago.

Through the wide awake spirit of the Norwich Rotary club it was decided to start the campaign and to have an attraction a ball game between the business men of New London and Norwich, as an event of this kind always draws widespread interest and is sure to be the occasion of much merriment.

The grounds of the Norwich State hospital on which there is a first class diamond has been secured for the game and Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 6th, has been chosen for the date. The full lineup of the teams is to be given out later.

The committee in charge earnestly hopes that every man, woman and child in Norwich will interest themselves in making the new ambulance fund a huge success as it is not only a most worthy cause but to have an up-to-date ambulance in the service of the city and one which anyone can call upon for transferring sick or injured at any time is something that all should be vitally interested in.

Tickets for the game which will cost $1.00 can be secured at all drug stores in town and by personal calling upon the stores and homes.

Any boy who wishes to sell tickets can do so and it is hoped that a prize of an autographed baseball by the star batter Babe Ruth can be given to the boy or young man selling the most tickets. The committee is now in correspondence with the navy recruiting station, 50 State street, New London.

DIES SUDDENLY WITH HEMORRHAGE IN STREET

While walking in Broad street, New London, Wednesday afternoon, William C. Jones of 25 Morgan street, that city, died suddenly with hemorrhage. His wife was with him when he died.

Mr. Jones had recently been compelled because of poor health from his position as commissary in the dining car service of the New Haven road.

For Itching Eczema, Old Sores and Piles

"I guarantee my ointment," says Peterson of Buffalo, "to cure eczema, to stop the itching at once, and any reliable druggist will cheerfully refund your money if PETERSON'S OINTMENT doesn't do everything I say it will do."

William A. Carley of Franklin, N. Y. is surely a wiser man. He writes: "I used PETERSON'S OINTMENT on a little boy suffering terribly with eczema. It did the work."

Then there is Alex. Loutlet, a brave fireman of Buffalo, who is glad to write as follows: "I had an old sore on my leg for many years. The best doctors failed. PETERSON'S OINTMENT entirely healed the sore quickly." And from over in Canada comes a letter from A. Bloeker, stating: "The best thing I ever had for itching piles is PETERSON'S OINTMENT. A box for 25 cents. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y."

Prepared for during the season. The new physical director, Mr. Fritz is fixing up his program of classes and athletic events and is working daily on the apparatus and painting the game lines and when the gym opens early next month everything will be in readiness for the large number of men and boys who will in all probability be on hand. The committee on entertainments reported that a fine course of four entertainments had been arranged and these will be held in the Community house on Church street. The committee on boys is expecting an interesting season for the younger element of the membership. A dozen new membership applications were reported.

PREPARING FOR SEASON AT Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. directors was held Tuesday evening at the association building with a good number present and the session was an interesting one.

The reports of the various departments, especially on the plans for the work, were full of interest, and the fall and winter season will doubtless be a busy one. The social activities will begin with a big reception early in October, and a schedule of social evenings will be arranged.

The Slim Silhouette In Suits and Frocks

It is a positive fact that the skillful tailoring and careful designing which is an important feature of Apparel Shop Suits and Dresses, will produce the desired lines in almost any figure. Among the Suits the features which are noteworthy are the longer coats—the vertical rows of stitchings, — the convertible collars of self material or fur—and the use of long narrow panels and pleats.
