GREENEVILLE
The Ladies Aid society of the Greenville Congregational church met Thursday evening in the church parlors at 8 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Jennie Lathrop, presiding. Reports from the various committees were read and accepted and other business matters were talked over. The committee on the food sale last Friday afternoon reported a very successful sale and a special interest that was shown by all the members with contributions. Everything was sold and they realized about $100.00. The committee will be working for some good cause. After the business meeting refreshments were served by the entertainment committee. The tables were decorated with flowers and leaves and the room was attractively designed to form an autumn woods with the Stars and Stripes waving in the breeze.
David Whitely and family of Prospect street have moved to Oakridge street.
The new house recently built for Harold Stone on Page street is completed and he and his family are occupying it.
The cement cradle that was being built in the lot between North Main street and Central avenue on Scofield's Hill has been completed by the city. It consists of three cement cradle-shaped pedestals that will hold a huge iron tank on it to hold oil for the streets of the city. The oil will be put in the tank at the top on Central avenue, which is near a switch on the railroad track and a convenient place to draw and when it is being used will be drawn from the bottom on North Main street, a very favorable and suitable place for such a tank.
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Revell of Baltic street have moved to Rhode Island, where he will take a position as a color mixer in a bleaching factory.
Dr. R. R. Agnew of Central avenue has moved his family to his new bungalow in Norwich town. Dr. Agnew's house on Central avenue has moved his family there and will resume the usual office hours in that place.

TAFTVILLE
The village fans are sadly disappointed on the outcome of yesterday's game between Brooklyn and Cleveland, as the latter is a favorite here.
Dr. David Sussler has returned from attending the annual convention of the 10th division at Asheville, North Carolina.
Work is being rushed on the new houses now under construction on Norwich avenue, as before long cold weather will set in.
The village clerk missed the half holiday yesterday as the stores have discontinued half holidays now that it is getting to be cooler weather. Half holidays on Thursdays started last April and continued through the summer and the last half holiday being Sept. 24, it is rumored around the village that some merchants are in favor of closing on Thursday afternoons for the whole year.
The soccer football team will practice again this coming Saturday.

Attended Putnam Meeting.
In attendance at the semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Union of Connecticut, held Wednesday at the Second Congregational church of Putnam, were Mrs. Gordon P. Bailey, Mrs. Doughty W. Avery, Mrs. James A. Bidwell and Mrs. Curtis Bernard from Norwich town and Mrs. Frederick W. Crozier and Mrs. William H. Dawley from Norwich.

The law on game birds goes off today (Friday) and sportsmen will be liberty to hunt them until next winter.

Catarrh Will Go
Help Comes in Two Minutes—Completes Relief in a Few Weeks
Don't go on hawking yourself sick every morning. It's cruel, it's harmful and it's unnecessary.
If after breathing Hyomel, the wonderworker, you are not rid of vile catarrh you can have your money back. No stomach dosing—just take the little hard rubber pocket inhaler that comes with each outfit, and pour into it a few drops of Hyomel. Breathe it according to directions. In two minutes it will relieve you of that stifled up feeling. Use it daily and in a few weeks you should be entirely free from catarrh.
Breathing Hyomel is a very pleasant and certain way to kill catarrh and get a Hyomel outfit today. It's sold by druggists everywhere with guarantee to quickly and safely cure catarrh, croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and bronchitis or money back. It's inexpensive. Lee & Osmond Co. can supply you.

MI-ONA
Ends indigestion
It relieves stomach misery, sour stomach, belching and all stomach disease or money back. Large box of tablets at all druggists in all towns.

THREE BULLET MARKS IN TELLOW HOUSE

Marks made by at least three bullets in the home of Dr. Herbert W. Rathbun of Pawtucket, Stonington, on June 11 when he was shot and killed by Mrs. Mabel I. Kenyon, wife of Alvin Kenyon, were described by Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher of this city, when he went on the stand in the superior court early Thursday afternoon. He was the first witness called to the stand by the state in opening the trial of Mrs. Kenyon on the charge of first degree murder in shooting Dr. Rathbun.
One of the bullet marks was on a radiator in Dr. Rathbun's sitting room, another on the floor and carpet, in the same room and the third through one of the risers of the front stairway that leads from the first to the second floor of the house.
Taking of evidence in the case began at 2:15 in the afternoon session of court in the superior court resumed its session at 1 o'clock after the noon recess of an hour, one more juror was needed to make up the twelve. The juror whose name the state called was George E. Pitcher. He was secured at once, as Albert G. Avery, 40, of Bozrah, the first juror to be examined in the afternoon was found acceptable to both the state and the defense and was at once added to the eleven men who had previously been called out from the 57 examined Wednesday and Thursday.
Seven jurors were secured Wednesday, Thursday morning and the trial resumed last Thursday afternoon, making the members of the jury the following:
John H. Wilson, Preston.
Louis A. Starkweather, Franklin.
Myron Smith, Bozrah.
Robert A. Peckham, Preston.
John D. Rogers, Norwich.
Frederick W. Cary, Norwich.
Edward D. Tarbox, Lisbon.
Edwin Byron Gallup, Voluntown.
Isaac G. Larkin, Lebanon.
Otto F. Ernst, Norwich.
Frank K. Noyes, Lebanon.
Albert G. Avery, Bozrah.
During the course of Mr. Pitcher's examination, Judge George E. Hinman declared a short recess during which Mrs. Kenyon retired to an ante room, where she was attended by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy. She had slept but little Wednesday night and felt the nervous strain of the opening of the trial, so that her counsel, Attorneys Herbert W. Rathbun and J. J. Dunn, had the physician sent for. In court her husband occupied a seat next to her as she sat at the lawyer's table with her attorneys.
State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull opened the case by calling to the state Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher of this city, who produced a plan of the location of West Broad street at the corner of Washington street and Williams street in the Pawtucket section of Stonington. The civil engineer explained the plan in detail when it had been placed on the blackboard in court. The map included the Dr. Rathbun house at 141 West Broad street, on the corner of Washington street, the residence of the state engineer, 143 Williams street, and the residence of Mrs. Kenyon's home, 145 West Broad street, on the opposite side of the street and the two houses No. 1 and 3 Williams street, named by Mrs. Kenyon's home. There was a plain view from the front porch of the Kenyon house to the Rathbun house, said Mr. Pitcher, and the distance was 157 1/2 feet.
Mr. Pitcher also explained a floor plan of three floors of the Dr. Rathbun house showing sitting room, library, kitchen, and bath room across the front of the house on the second floor, a bedroom and store room over these rooms on the third floor. Other parts of the house were described by Mrs. W. A. Thurston, George Gaudette and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor and their families. There was a porch on the Washington street side of the house outside Dr. Rathbun's sitting room window.
The civil engineer also explained from the plan the location of the furniture in Dr. Rathbun's sitting room, as it had been pointed out to him by Dr. Scanlon of Westerly as Dr. Scanlon found it on the day of the shooting. Dr. Scanlon pointed to finding a black mark on the radiator in the northeast corner of the room, 27 inches above the floor. The mark was a bullet mark, said Mr. Pitcher, 23 inches above the floor. Mr. Pitcher did not find this bullet that hit the radiator, but found another bullet mark in the floor between the center table and a book case near the radiator. The mark in the floor and carpet showed that the bullet had come from the east and from the westerly side of the center table and near the door from the hallway. From the door to the table there was a distance of 8 feet 2 inches.
Another bullet hole was found, Mr. Pitcher testified, through the mattress on the front stairs in the stairs press through which the back of the stairs run, he found a felt hat hanging on the front stairs. The hat had a hole through the crown and a broken plaster on the floor and a bullet mark on a cast iron soil pipe in the hallway.
The bullet was found on the floor of the clothespress, said Mr. Pitcher, who identified it from one of several that Major Hunt showed him. The bullet had white plaster marks on it. It went in to the trial of the case as exhibit 3. The chair was marked as exhibit 1 for identification.
The state attorney concluded his direct examination of Mr. Pitcher at 4:30 and Attorney Rathbun began his cross-examination at once. To the attorney, Mr. Pitcher said he thought anyone firing the bullet that went through the stair riser would have been standing on the third, fourth or fifth tread.
The attorney asked Mr. Pitcher about the several trips he made to the Dr. Rathbun house, the first being with Counselor Franklin H. Brown on the day after the shooting. They were there about an hour, Mr. Pitcher did not remember seeing any broken glass or a gold fish globe.
Through his questioning Attorney Rathbun learned that the finding of the bullet in the hallway was brought about when one of Mrs. Thurston's boarders came home to dinner while Mr. Pitcher was at the Rathbun house and called attention to the hole in his hat where it was hanging in the clothes press.
Mr. Pitcher answered him that he had discovered the bullet hole in the riser, and then looked around and saw the bullet mark on the soil pipe and found the bullet on the floor.
The attorney questioned the civil engineer closely about the character of the bullet that came from the floor and carpet in Dr. Rathbun's sitting room and why he thought the bullet had come from the direction of the doorway entering the room.
Attorney Rathbun was asking questions Mr. Pitcher when court adjourned at 5 o'clock until the next morning at 10.

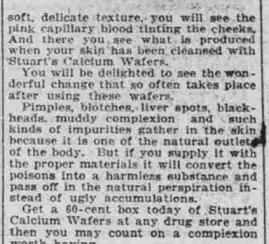

Choosing the Jury
As soon as court came in Thursday morning the work of selecting a jury was resumed and twenty-two men were examined before the full tale of twelve was chosen.
The following men were examined:
Edwin Byron Gallup, 74, Voluntown, accepted as eighth juror.
Warren E. Tanner, 31, Voluntown, excused by the defense.
Hans Larsen, 45, Norwich, excused by the defense.
J. Frank Rogers, 45, Salem, excused by the defense.
Clarence Lewis, 49, Colchester, excused by the court, opposed to capital punishment.
Noe I. Caron, 24, Sprague, excused by the defense.
John W. Ely, 33, Lisbon, excused by the state.
Isaac J. Larkin, 70, Lebanon, accepted as the ninth juror.
Adelberg H. Young, 75, excused by the court, deafness.
Otto F. Ernst, 50, Norwich, accepted as the tenth juror.
William H. Dawley, 52, Voluntown, excused by the defense.
Frank K. Noyes, 74, Lebanon, accepted as the eleventh juror.
James Johnson, 69, Colchester, excused by the court, opposed to capital punishment.
Elmer G. Miller, 47, Preston, excused by the defense.
Fairfield Gray, 81, Colchester, excused by the state.
Arthur C. Bliven, 34, Voluntown, excused by the court.
Beriah E. Burdick, 29, Preston, excused by the defense.
John F. Craney, Norwich, excused by the state.
Devaughn Walsh, 30, Lebanon, excused by the court.
Frederick Hoxie, 49, Lebanon, excused by the state.
Clinton C. Eldredge, 63, Norwich, excused by the defense.
Albert G. Avery, 40, Bozrah, accepted as the twelfth juror.
As soon as the twelfth juror had been secured, Judge George E. Hinman clerk of the court called the roll, and administered the oath to them. Judge Hinman directed that the trial should proceed and Clerk Parsons called the names of the grand jury's indictment of Mrs. Kenyon for murder in the first degree, and State Attorney Hull called the first witness for the state to the stand.

RALLY DAY CALL IN
UNIVERSALIST PASTOR'S CALL
The rally day call is for us all. Ministers and laymen—young and old—men and women, to be present at the organization to which we belong, said Rev. George H. Welch, in his rally day sermon at the Universalist church, Church of the Good Shepherd, Sunday morning.
It is significant that Jesus comprehended the nature of His spiritual message to the world, said Rev. Mr. Welch, a few moments ago, when He would gather only a few about Him. The few short years of His life were not sufficient to produce any visible effect on the thousands of people for whom He labored.
The visions of the Apostles as given by Jesus have known nothing but a triumphal march down through the ages. Our purpose this morning is to emphasize this enlarged vision.
The Christian church of the United States has failed to grasp completely the opportunity that opened before it. A few individuals, scattered in the remotest corners of the church in the face of a great impending calamity, conceived the notion that in union there would be strength, and before they came together a couple of years ago to call upon the churches to unite in a program that should be a permanent program. They formed the great Interchurch Movement, wonderfully conceived, promising and hoping for blessings far outnumbering the cost. It failed, however, because you know it failed. It failed because everything except to take a careful survey of the religious world and great needs, and to bring in millions of dollars. The people of the church, themselves, were not ready to acknowledge that there could be even a brotherhood in the churches to do anything of the kind. In other words the great basic fact of religion, which Jesus held up as foremost of His doctrines, the inherent goodness and inherent rights of all men, to be treated with that basis, was not recognized, and was denied by more people of the Christian church today than would dare think. The great South and the great West broke the backbone of that movement, and in moments of glory for the world than anything that Christians have undertaken since the days of the Apostles. It is absurd for the Christian people of America to even think that the nations of the world can get together and work together with a better understanding and less trouble, when these same churches will not do that. The great trouble in the industrial world today is that neither the employer nor the employe will recognize the rights of the other side.
With particular reference to Rally Day, Rev. Mr. Welch said in closing:
The rally day call is for us all. Ministers and laymen—young and old—men and women, to do something for the organization to which we belong. This is not a rally for general things. It is for a particular object. It is for the Universalist church. It is for the single purpose of banding together to place the emphasis on those great and eternal, universal things that shall make us a greater force in our campaign to Christianize the world.
