The Cooler Days Make the Heavier Suits Imperative
We Are Now Showing a Wonderful Variety of Plain and Fur-Trimmed Suits

Have you seen them? If not, you have missed a truly delightful half-hour. The dainty fabrics of this Autumn, so soft and velvety are deceptively light, for there is an unexpected warmth in them, but so delicate is the finish, and so supple the weaves, that the strength and warmth is practically concealed.

YOU WILL FIND VELDYNE, CHARMOL-STYNE, VELOUR DELAINE, DUVET DELAINE, SILVERTONE, GOLDTONE, TRICOTINE, BROADCLOTH AND SOME WORSTEDS—A VERY COMPREHENSIVE ASSORTMENT, AND IN ALL OF THE COLORS ACCEPTABLE THIS SEASON.

MOST OF THEM ARE EXCLUSIVE DESIGNS—NO DUPLICATES
A Comprehensive Showing Many Fur Trimmed
At $45.00 At $55.00
Others Up to $169.50

A Little Sale of Bungalow Aprons
SPECIAL PRICE $1.49

It is really an extraordinary value, which you will do well to take advantage of. They are all made of a first rate Percal, in a very attractive assortment of patterns, and are of two types. One style has an elastic waist-band, and the other is loose-fitting. As the price is so very low we can accept no returns, place none on approval, and cannot send them c. o. d. Better bring your pocket book with you and get several.

Apron Department—Shannon Building

FOR SATURDAY
A SPECIAL SHOWING OF HATS
AT $10.00

Dress and Tailored Hats which are worth considerably more than ten dollars will be shown Saturday at that price. You know what Boston Store Millinery values are, and certainly you cannot fail to appreciate these. There are many exquisite models, both large and small—some smartly tailored, and others which are more dressy. As the number is limited we advise an early choice.

The Autumn Sale of Toilet Preparations
BEGINS THIS MORNING

Long lists were published in yesterday's papers. There were hundreds of specially priced items, and there are many more which we were unable to mention. But, we are pretty sure that the ones you always use were included, and that this is the time to lay in your winter's supply.

Talking the New London Postmastership

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—The traditional Old Father Time must have felt an unusual twinge in his old white forelock during the present week, and it is reasonable to presume that he laid aside his syringe and hour glass and sat by the roadside and began to think. It is a bit of an old copper cent to the old-time three-cent piece that he has not yet removed his thick cap. While there is no reason to doubt the result of the presidential election, yet it is a fact that no change of administration will come before next March. Still there has been a great deal of talk since the nomination of Senator Harding for the presidency, a pronounced candidate for appointment as postmaster at New London, although the commission of the present incumbent does not expire until near the tail end of the next administration. Even the old saw of the early bird and the worm is not applicable in this case. It never is in the game of politics.

Thomas F. Dorsey has been assailed, but just by whom the deponent knoweth not, that he would receive the postmastership appointment. It is safe to presume that the assurance came from someone high in the party, or the astute Mr. Dorsey would never have allowed the report to travel uncontradicted for the place and honor of personal acquaintance with Senator Harding and many other big guns in the political battery. He really went on intimate terms with the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Therefore the report created no real local surprise. Mr. Dorsey has always been an earnest party worker and spent considerable of his time in advocacy of the best interests of the party. The only surprise was that he had received the assurance of appointment so early in the game.

While the general Mr. Dorsey was content as to his political future, the report was disturbed when the information came to him that he was not the only pebble on the political beach, even thus early in the season. His opponent was to be no less a personage than the Hon. E. Frank Morgan, the present mayor of the city, and whose term of office expires one year hence. It could not be learned just where the mayor was to receive the influence that would land him in the office, unless through his old-time chum, Congressman Freeman. Even chums sometimes part and old friendship is changed by circumstances.

Mr. Dorsey had hardly figured this report to his satisfaction when along came still another report to the effect that John M. Mallon was slated for the place and that he, and no other man, would have the real support of Congressman Freeman. Added to this report was a small but brief notice that Senator Brandegee would do nothing to block the appointment of Morgan or Mallon or any other M, and that he was not against the postmastership being doled out to his old friend Dorsey, the friend of every republican politician of high degree. There you are, gentle reader, you have the reports just as they came to the humble newsman. Take out your pad and pencil and see if you can figure out the ultimate result. It's a problem that cannot be solved at the present time, and probably not for the next three years to come. The views of Senator Brandegee or Congressman Freeman were not obtainable.

There was no trouble in locating the democratic nominee for congress, Thomas H. Murray, heretofore known as "Square Deal Murray." As he has made the bald statement that he is to be the next congressman, and seems to be serious in the statement, the reports were revealed to him. Mr. Murray straightened up, spread out his chest, lighted his pipe, and declared that he had made no pre-election promises. He had therefore not given any of the gentlemen named assurance of his support, and he did not propose to. He volunteered the opinion, however, that he believed Senator Brandegee was inclined to favor Dorsey. He considered Mallon to be Freeman's first choice, as they had long played the political game from the same slant, and are intimate friends. Sure, Freeman and Morgan were close chums years ago, but that was years ago, and so far as he knew the tie that binds may not have weakened. Then Mr. Murray said: "Why these early entries in the field for the postoffice? They may be dashed in the first heat. Why this talk about what Freeman may or may not do? Haven't I said without reservation that I am to be the next congressman from the district? So what's the fuss? And 'Square Deal Murray' meant just what he said.

There are republicans who realize that it is not a question of after distribution that is of special interest about this time. They believe it is best to find the tree before seeking the persimmons. Overconfidence is not a winning virtue and therefore the wise heads in the party are devising ways and means of getting out the party vote, and the determination to win. That's the proper spirit. It has been demonstrated right here in New London this week, when the party nominated for representatives to the legislature such promising candidates as former Mayor Street, Rogers and Mayor Morris B. Payne. Such nominations will increase the chances of Cornelius Costello for the whole ticket. That's the spirit that counts and every one of these candidates will work incessantly for the general success of the party ticket.

Former Mayor Rogers is an accomplished politician and he is magnanimous in stepping aside and letting other party men step forward, in the interest of party unity. He probably could have been mayor of New London for another term, but he stepped aside for Mayor Morgan, just because three years previous he stated to Morgan that he would not be a candidate for the office of mayor. Thus a party row was averted. Rogers in turn was promised by the party management that he would be the next mayor of New London for still another term. Then he was urged to step aside to make way for Mr. Harwood. He was then promised that the senatorial nomination this year would be handed to him. His hands were almost outstretched to receive the nomination when he was again urged to step aside for Comy Costello, as it was Governor's year for the nomination. Rogers acquiesced and he has been rewarded with the nomination for representative. The city is fortunate in these times to have a man of the character and reputation of Mr. Rogers to accept the nomination. It ought to be a pleasure for every elector in New London to vote for him.

The same can be said of Mayor Payne, as he is a most suitable running mate for Rogers, a regular blue ribbon matched team and once the race is started out to win out in a canter. Major Payne before the world was connected with the coast artillery corps of the Connecticut National guard and went overseas with his command and returned with a creditable record. He was recently appointed captain of the new Tenth company, for the best soldier in his company, and therefore a native soldier, he is a captain. This does not cut any figure with Payne. A year ago he was elected an alderman from the Second ward and was also appointed as the representative of the board of common council on the board of water and sewer commissioners, and only this week received the honor for another year. Being a civil engineer, he makes a valuable member of the board. It will be noted that the republican delegation from New London to the 1911 session of the legislature is made up of Senator Cornelius Costello and Representatives Ernest E. Rogers and Morris B. Payne. Can you beat this? No, it is the very emphatic answer. Afterward Payne has just been appointed to succeed Alderman Chappell as head of the public works committee by Mayor Morgan.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Roller have returned from a short visit in New York. Mrs. Hiram Hawes, committee for the town of Canterbury, visited the children's home at Putnam, Thursday and attended the official dinner.

Rev. A. J. Hetrick is entertaining his sister from Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Wright have been recent Worcester visitors.

Among grange members from this place who attended the sessions of the county zodiac grange at Hampton Saturday were Rev. Robert Hambery, Samuel Carpenter, Mrs. Hawes, Mrs. Dorothy Bennett, Mrs. Lillian Frink and Mrs. H. B. Brown.

Miss Hannah Hatch is home after a visit with her son's family in Groton. A week end guest of Miss Hannah Eaton was her niece, Mrs. Turner, of Rhode Island.

Miss Florence Exley of Hartford visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Exley, the first of the week. Black Hill is confined to the house by illness. Mrs. Melissa Smith has been visiting this week at H. B. Brown's, who is teaching at Watgreen, visited over Sunday with her brother, H. G. Brown, of Worcester.

The women of Canterbury have gone on the warpath and last Monday night, with Mrs. Lillian Frink as standard bearer, advanced upon the town hall and took it storm. They began balloting for representative at 8 o'clock and when after nine ballots the leading statement of the town had demonstrated their inability to nominate anybody, they consented to refrain from voting upon the next ballot so as to allow E. Fitch Johnson, the leading candidate, a chance to get the majority of the ballots cast on the tenth ballot, which he succeeded in doing by a majority of one. With Mr. Johnson out of the way, the balloting was resumed with renewed vigor and at 1 o'clock a. m. the women succeeded in landing their candidate for representative with a majority of two against the field. The candidate is Mrs. Lillian Frink.

Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford preached in the Congregational church Sunday morning. His subject was Home Missions and he took his text from the 11th chapter of Judges, 15th verse. His discourse was very interesting and ended in his remarks that he had visited every church in the state with the exception of five or six. While here he was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith and daughter, the daughter of Franklin were guests Sunday of Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac G. Geer.

Miss Lulu Seizer of Versailles was a week end and Sunday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seizer. Miss Gladys Holdridge was the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening. Both the democratic and republican caucuses were held Monday. Leslie P. Gray was nominated by the democrats for representative, but he has declined to run and the democratic committee will have nominated Charles A. Gray in his place. The republicans nominated Henry W. Huribut of Gales Ferry for representative. Samuel B. Holdridge was nominated for judge of probate on both tickets. Archie Holdridge and Ray Holdridge, sons of Judge and Mrs. B. E. Holdridge, leave Tuesday for Storrs college. The former is to take a two years course and the latter to be employed in the poultry department, where he was employed last winter. Mrs. Louise Brown of Groton was a week end visitor with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Geer. Mrs. Brown is the aunt of Mr. Geer. She attended confirmation at St. James church. Miss Catherine Lee of New Haven is

The board of selectmen, town clerk and registrars of voters were in session in Union hall Saturday. In all 61 voters were added to the list—15 women and 46 men. There will be another session on Tuesday, Oct. 19th. There are 23 applicants still on the list who are expected to appear on that date, as this will be the last date for the purpose of making voters.

Monday evening the republican voters met in caucus in Union hall. Several women accepted the invitation of the chairman of the town committee and took part in the proceedings for the first time. John N. Lewis was chosen chairman and Howard E. James clerk. Thomas Brown was nominated for representative.

The democratic caucus was held in Union hall Tuesday evening. George R. Dawley was chosen chairman and R. James clerk. William H. Dawley was nominated as a candidate for representative.

Both parties have named popular men for representatives and, whoever wins, the town will be well represented in the state legislature. The state highway department had men at work in town this week giving the state road a coating of tar and gravel.

A number of fans went to Bradford, R. I. to witness the Bradford-Ashland ball game Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barton and Miss Mabel McHugh visited relatives in Norwich Sunday.

GALES FERRY

The business meeting of the Village Improvement association was held Monday evening at the Country club house. The president, Rev. Allen Shaw Bush, presided. A stereoscopic lecture was given, one of those sent out by the state board of education, and was on Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia. Rev. Mr. Bush read the lecture and the slides were shown by Walter M. Buckingham.

This was the first number of the social evenings arranged for the fall. The October meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Sarah L. Lattimer, the president. Miss Caroline B. Freeman, presiding. Mrs. G. H. Wright conducted the devotional exercises. Miss Freeman yielded the chair to Miss Lattimer, who had prepared the afternoon program. Miss Lattimer read a paper on Who is My Neighbor? Mrs. R. Irving Huribut read a selection, Up Hill and Down. A solo, Was That Somebody You? was sung by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham. Clippings bearing on mission work were read. Miss Freeman told of the work of the Belgian lace workers. The Song of the Factory was read by Mrs. Fanny A. Mollthrop. Miss Alice Satterlee conducted the home mission entanglement, closing with an article read by Miss Lattimer on Tithing. The society, Mrs. Emma Bennett chairman, shipped a barrel of fruit and vegetables last week to the Deaconess home in Providence, R. I. Notice was given the public last week that the Gales Ferry public library would be closed until Friday, the 15th, when it opened at 2 o'clock, the books having been transferred and arranged in the charge of Stephen H. Norman. About 800 visiting for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Geer. An enjoyable birthday party was given Miss Barbara Goodenough at the residence of Mrs. Earl B. Geer by the young people of the church Thursday evening.

The members presented Mrs. Lawson (Dyeweta Richards), recently married, a linen hosiery cloth, hand embroidered.

Mrs. A. L. Morgan of the submarine base went to Philadelphia, Sunday to spend two weeks. Eugene Perkins and his daughter, Miss Edna Perkins, with Mr. Perkins, sister, Mrs. Julia Brown, and a friend, all of Stonington, motored to the village Sunday to call on Mr. Perkins' relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins.

Mrs. Mar's Calkins of the submarine base is spending some time in Springfield. Mrs. Charles Wiedermann gave a birthday party for her daughter Ethel on her third birthday Wednesday from 1 to 5. The guests were Barbara Irwin, Richard Lattimer, Edna Lattimer and Eleanor Wiedermann. The little friends brought birthday gifts. Mrs. Wiedermann served sandwiches, cake and ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hamilton and daughter, Miss Ruth Hamilton, of Norwich were callers in Gales Ferry Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Henry W. Huribut, of the Misses Mathewson and Miss Caroline B. Freeman were in Norwich Thursday.

There will be a farm bureau meeting at Montville Center this (Saturday) evening to consider plans for a market for the milk of this region. W. E. Wilmarth of Willimantic, agent for the Providence Dairy Company, will be present with the county agent. Mr. Wilmarth will state what his company is willing to do.
