

THE SOCIAL CORNER

IT'S AN EVIL RECKLESSNESS NOT TO WEIGH ONE'S OWN DEFICIENCIES.

SOCIAL CORNER PORTER.

The frog of old Windham. In years long ago, jumped on the water.

The low sun was sinking. The low sun was sinking. The low sun was sinking.

The king of the frogs. Called a counsel that night. To search for more water.

A procession was formed. Through that old Windham town. All seeking for water.

And the noise those frogs made. Was like booming of guns. The big guns that were used.

The people of Windham. From their soft beds did groan. They were scared cold and stiff.

With times and with words. They were not in the night. Expecting with the British.

Imagine their amazement. Those frogs to behold. As they tried to catch other.

They returned to their beds. To sleep and to pray. To be safe from the frogs.

No, no, never more. No, no, never more. No, no, never more.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES. MRS. BUNNENBERG: You have been enrolled among the Social Corner members.

MISS BRIGHT, CHEERFUL AND HELPFUL WRITERS. Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: How to you all do this bright autumn morning?

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just a few heavy lines to think who were so kind to me while I was in the hospital by sending cards and bouquets.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am sending a few notes. Thanking you all again. I remain your sister.

NORWICH PROOF

Should Convince Every Norwich Reader.

The frank statement of a neighbor, telling the merits of a remedy, bids you pause and believe.

The same endorsement. By some stranger far away. Commands no belief at all.

Here's a Norwich case. A Norwich citizen testifies. Read and be convinced.

Hiram U. Neff, 464 East Main Street, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for a number of years for attacks of kidney trouble and rheumatic pains. The pain settled mostly in my back, across my kidneys and at times I could scarcely get around. I could hardly stoop or straighten on account of the pain when I had those attacks. My kidneys also acted irregularly and the secretions have been unnatural at such times. I have bought Doan's Kidney Pills at Sevia & Son's Drug Store and they have always removed the pains and regulated my kidneys."

home. In the first place, make a good soup of some pure white soap and warm, hot water. Then put your sweater in that and wash it around gently.

When you rinse it be sure that the water you use is of exactly the same temperature as that in which you washed the garment.

When it is clean, squeeze out as much of the water as you can process all over again, starting with a layer of the macaroni and following with layers of the cheese, the cream sauce and the meat.

Do this until the dish is hot and pour the remaining sauce over the top. Cover with a light sprinkling of grated cheese and bake for about twenty minutes.

Here is also a nice dessert to go with it. Sweet Fruit Salad—Arrange alternate layers of finely sliced or shredded cantaloupe, ripe peaches, sliced bananas and sliced oranges on a dish, sprinkling each layer with powdered sugar as it is put on, and chill before serving. Garnish with a few crisp and very tender leaves of lettuce at the supper hour.

MARY J. NONE OF US PERFECT. Dear Sisters of the Corner: If we go through life by the path of rectification we shall never travel either pleasantly or swiftly.

What's the use of living in perpetual battles of reprisal? Why not just past wrongs and injustices be past—let bygones be bygones. Why carry the memories of the past day over into the present?

Why not be generous and self-forgetful and overlook that which made yesterday hard? Why carry attention on the nights and the harsh speeches of others? They are things of course, for none of us are perfect.

PRETTY HOME DECORATIONS.

Dear Social Corner: It is an unfortunate fact about modern life that a great many of the prettiest and most desirable things are also the most expensive.

Pretty clothes are always more costly than homely ones and pretty articles of furniture and decorations more expensive than less attractive ones. But this is not an absolute rule and the woman of good taste and a little ingenuity need not live with ugly clutter or an ugly home, no matter how poor she may be.

I wish I could give Doris some real help on her job. Doris comes to me for one of the most delightful forms of beauty in flowers. Every home should have something that is green and growing in the heart of its room. This does not necessarily mean that you must have a standing order at the florist for cut flowers—far from it. An expensive way of bringing beauty into the home. Growing flowers and plants are quite as pretty and much more interesting than the most costly bouquet of cut flowers. No family is so poor that it cannot afford one geranium plant—and geraniums are among the easiest and prettiest of flowers to grow. They are so easy to grow that you can have them in a window box or on a table, and they will give you a constant supply of flowers. They are so easy to grow that you can have them in a window box or on a table, and they will give you a constant supply of flowers.

If you live in any part of the country where you can gather bayberries or holly, or holly, or even the evergreen laurel, you can fill your home with bouquets that will last you weeks. You can gather these things in the woods or in the fields, and they will give you a constant supply of flowers. THE BRIDGES KITCHEN.

Dear Sisters of the Corner: I know the kitchen is getting well skinned. I know that the kitchen is one of the rooms of the house to which the bride cannot come. These are the things that I know before the bride is able to find it out by experience.

There should be a high stool with a revolving seat to save many steps. A double boiler should be included among the sauce pans, also a four quart covered kettle, two sizes of frying pans, plus a pudding pan and a drip pan.

Life does not include so many things of more importance than slight and careless criticism and grudges seem not worth minding. The thought necessary to prevent it.

It's only the person who thinks himself perfect that is so hurt when he finds that someone else does not approve of him. Why should we expect to please everyone when even the wisest and best on earth have so signally failed here and there?

Life must be largely made up of compromises and wise overlooking of differences. Sudden resentment and continued policy of retaliation bear only bitter fruit and are not worth cultivating. S. E. D.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I had the pleasure of attending one of your gatherings which was at Auntie No. 1's. It was the first time I had attended one of your picnics and I enjoyed it very much.

The dinner I thought was very nice and will give the Social Corner sisters credit for a very good one.

I am giving you one of my recipes which I think is very good: Tomato Marmalade: Two quarts tomatoes, one quart sugar, one quart lemon juice, one-half cup of raisins. Cook slowly until thick, and put in hot cans and seal. I drain my tomatoes in my colander after I get them cut up for a few minutes. It doesn't take so long to cook.
