

National Umbrella Week

OCTOBER 18th to 23rd

To properly observe this event we have put in a number of Umbrellas, no doubt the most complete ever seen in Putnam—PLAIN UMBRELLAS, COTTON UMBRELLAS, SILK UMBRELLAS, BLACK UMBRELLAS, COLORED UMBRELLAS — from popular prices to the most expensive, from plain handle to the most ornate.

N. B.—Although these Umbrellas were "BORN" in Baltimore, they can be successfully "RAISED" in Putnam, so we have no hesitation in offering this line for your inspection and consideration.

MONTVILLE

Mrs. E. G. Lyon reached her 83d birthday Sunday, when neighbors and friends called to express congratulations. Mrs. Lyon was remembered with gifts and cards.

The Ladies Aid society is to hold the bi-monthly meeting this week Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Chapel.

Community library is in receipt of 50 books which are being catalogued and placed on the shelves. The books are the gift of Mrs. Ralph H. Melzer of Uncasville.

At the meeting of the farm bureau held Saturday night in the chapel at Montville Center there was a large attendance. Plans were discussed for the shipment of milk among farmers in the town. County Agent Johnson of New London and W. E. Wilmarth of Willimantic represented the Providence Dairy company. An agreement was reached whereby the milk should be sent to the Providence Dairy company if any way of transportation could be arranged. A meeting to consider this matter was appointed for tonight (Wednesday) at the home of Walter Moran. This promises to be a big problem. An executive committee was appointed consisting of Walter Moran, Joseph Church, James Lathrop and John Doyle.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Margaret A. Jeffers this week include Mrs. Pauline Allen Murray and Miss Annie J. Allen of Little Falls, N. Y., Mrs. Maude A. Williams and the Misses Mary, Harriet and Olive Allen of New London.

Rev. F. Mitchell continued Sunday night his series of addresses on the wedding ring, his subject being "What is Home Without a Father?"

Mrs. Charles Turner and Mrs. Ray Woodmansee were guests this week of friends in Chesterfield and at Lakeside.

Southampton.—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Gridley of Queen street celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home Tuesday. In connection with the wedding celebration Mr. Gridley also celebrated his 75th birthday. He was born in the house where he and his wife reside. Another coincidence was the fact that Tuesday was also the birthday of their daughter.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The following appearing editorially in a Hartford paper is of much local interest, as Mr. Ames formerly lived in this town:

An American's plea for the Americanism which includes the retention of American independence is printed elsewhere today over the signature of Charles L. Ames, whose place as an educator is a guarantee that, when he deals with history, he deals with something with which he has more than passing acquaintance. Mr. Ames' letter which is a vigorous argument against the league of nations, points out clearly the dangers to this country lurking in the covenant. In view of the contention that the object of the league is to secure peace, Mr. Ames' reference to the "peace" new "raging" on misten battle fronts in Europe is particularly apt.

Mr. Ames refuses to believe that the constitution of the United States is a dead letter and he protests against its violation, as he does against the tying of the hands of Uncle Sam, which have been used in behalf of humanity more than once. The letter is well worth reading—and thinking over after reading.

Mr. Ames is president of the Brown school at Hartford and a member of the state board of education, long one of the best known educators of the state, and from taste, education and vocation well versed in the history of the United States.

"Hold fast that thou hast," Mr. Ames' advice in the communication relative to the league of nations which inspired the foregoing editorial comment.

Killingly hunters to venture into the country east of here are cautioned to be careful about getting over the state line into Rhode Island, on the eastern border of this town. The hunting season has not opened in Rhode Island and there are heavy penalties attached to hunting in that state at this time.

A ditch digger has been at work in past Main street and Otis street in Dayville making ready for the laying of pipes that will supply water to tenements of the Asawagon company, which has been engaged for many months past in making numerous and important improvements to its property in the nearby village.

Wauregan republicans rejected that touch of old-time campaign vigor and enthusiasm into the campaign, when Monday evening they turned out a uniformed company of 30 men, who participated in a parade, led by the newly organized and finely uniformed Wauregan band, the parade preceding a lively rally in Wauregan hall, where the addresses were delivered by W. Irving Bullard, state president of the Merchants' National Bank of Boston, and Supt. Chapman of the schools of the town of Plainfield. The speakers were introduced by Secretary Fred Leavens.

The Wauregan marching club, with its torches and uniforms, brings back alluring memories of campaigns long since past. The Wauregan men are equipped with white caps, which have a blue band, and white capes and leggings, the entire rig giving the men a very natty and attractive appearance. It is expected that surrounding towns, possibly Danielson, may see this club, before the end of the campaigning season.

Mrs. Melissa A. Robbins, 83, died Monday at her home in East Killingly. Mrs. Robbins was the wife of Thomas J. Robbins and had lived in East Killingly for many years.

PUTNAM

Burial with full military honors will be accorded the body of Rev. Anselm Mayotte, chaplain of the United States army, who died here as the result of injuries received when he fell from a horse. Father Mayotte was an assistant of St. Mary's parish when he volunteered for service during the World War and the local post of the American Legion is named for him.

The body of Father Mayotte is due to arrive in New York from Hartford today (Wednesday). According to information that has been received here, the body is not expected to reach Putnam for about a week.

In the meantime arrangements have been well worked out by the Legion post for an impressive funeral cortege in which the patriotic societies and the societies of St. Mary's church will participate.

All ex-service men have been invited to join with the Legion in doing honor to Father Mayotte's memory, as have the members of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, Spanish American War Veterans, Red Cross and other organizations.

At Monday evening's meeting of the Legion post, Rev. Charles F. Bedard, pastor of St. Mary's church, was present and made a statement relative to plans for the funeral, which will be very impressive.

It is held that he engaged to do secret duty for the hundreds who are expected to participate in the funeral procession, the exact date of which is yet to be determined.

James Charron, James Murray and Attorney Archibald Macdonald make up the Legion committee of arrangements.

Cotton manufacturing plants of this city will begin curtailing working hours this week. It has been stated that this action is forced by the upset condition of the business world at the present time. A bright spot in the situation, however, is that there is no great surplus of manufactured goods, so the curtailing period is not expected to be drawn out. In some of the city's cotton mills westerners will go on a schedule of 26 hours a week.

Friends here were saddened Tuesday morning, when they learned of the death of her home in Cambridge, Mrs. Edith Flyn, who has been living in Cambridge, where her husband was engaged in business.

She leaves her mother, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Ryan of this city, her husband and two children, one only a few days old, and a sister.

The funeral is being held in Cambridge today (Wednesday).

Patrolman Ernest Chandler has been re-instated and was again on duty on Monday night. He had been suspended for being absent without leave. He was reinstated Tuesday. The reinstatement of the officer followed a hearing before the city committee of the common council.

Grangers from this section of Connecticut will be among the 1000 members of the organization in Connecticut who will meet in New London, where it is conferred in Boston during the meetings of the National grange, Nov. 10-14. This was announced by Secretary Leonard H. Lee of the state board of agriculture whose home is in North Woodstock. Secretary Healey also stated that the executive committee has also voted to place an exhibition in Mechanics hall, Boston, where sessions of the National grange will be held. The display by the Connecticut grange will be a reproduction of the one for many years.

Careless and unbelievable as it may seem, government agents have been investigating in towns in the section of eastern Connecticut with a view to obtaining clues that might aid in solving the mystery surrounding the bombing of the Morgan bank in New York a few weeks ago and the killing and founding of many people. Evidently the trail of some of the plotters leads into this section of New England.

Mrs. Mary Reynolds, Miss Ella Staley, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Miss Mary Weaver, Miss Myrna Dunn and Miss Jennie Williams returned from a motor trip through the Berkshire region and over the Mohawk trail, where the surrounding countryside is now said to be glorious in its autumn dress.

Frank Moore, of the West Side, was one of those who took the start, which started out in Providence, took the riders down to Cape Cod, back into Boston, down into Connecticut, through Danbury, southward to New London, thence to Westport and over the Boston Post road back to Providence. Because of a severe injury to his hand that he sustained some time ago, Mr. Moore did not finish the run. Only a comparatively few out of the number of starters completed the long grind, which was almost as much a test of men as of machines.

Killingly High school boys were very industrious about the business of Tuesday afternoon securing signatures to a petition addressed to the selectmen. This petition requests that the privilege of using the town hall for basketball practice and games by the Killingly High school squad be granted to the students. Signatures seemed to be coming in to the canvassers very regularly Tuesday afternoon, and scores of business men and men about town appended their names to the petitions which will be presented to the selectmen forthwith.

Up to 4:30 Tuesday afternoon, 85 applicants to be made voters had appeared before the selectmen, town clerk and registrars at the selectmen's office in the town hall building. As has been the case this fall at each sitting of the board, most of the applicants were women. Again the republicans benefited more than did the democrats as far as caucus registrations were concerned, the women registering in favor in great majority the republican party.

Notwithstanding warnings that have been issued from various official sources, there continue to be number of cases of negligence in the matter of burning leaves, which now fill the sides of some streets to a depth of near three feet. The suggestion is again made that no fire of leaves or other debris be left for the night before being thoroughly wet down.

Henry C. Benton of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

A meeting in the interest of Boy Scout organization brought a number of representative citizens of Killingly together Tuesday evening.

The Present State of the Gypsy and Brown Tail Moth will be the subject of an address by Irving W. Davis, former deputy state entomologist, at this week's meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R.

George V. Chester of Lowell was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

East Killingly people hear that there is little present prospect of restoration of trolley service on the P. & O. line of Danielson line. No encouraging word about the future of this road has come out of Providence since service was suspended on October 2.

Miss Bernice Oregon of Fall River is visiting friends in Danielson for a few days.

Lawrence Perkins, of Pomfret and Putnam has just published a book, "The Cross of Ares, World War reminiscences." Mr. Perkins was a U. S. secretary with the Yankee division overseas, but also served in other capacities with the American forces over there. He was attached to the Yankee division during its entire service at the front and saw much action. The volume he has just issued is made up of sketches, true to fact, as to all essentials of actual circumstances during the period covered by the narrative.

A reviewer has stated that the sketches are presented with a steadiness of vision, a purposefulness and an ultimate optimism that cannot be frightened and will not despair.

Ares was the Greek God of war; hence the title of the volume is most descriptive of pages reflecting the youth of the author.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupify, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Let's Think It Over.

There is such a thing as saying too much on any subject, and the "grand-stand" talker sooner or later becomes a bore. The truth is always welcomed, and the truth reiterated and confirmed is more than welcome—it reaches your innermost soul.

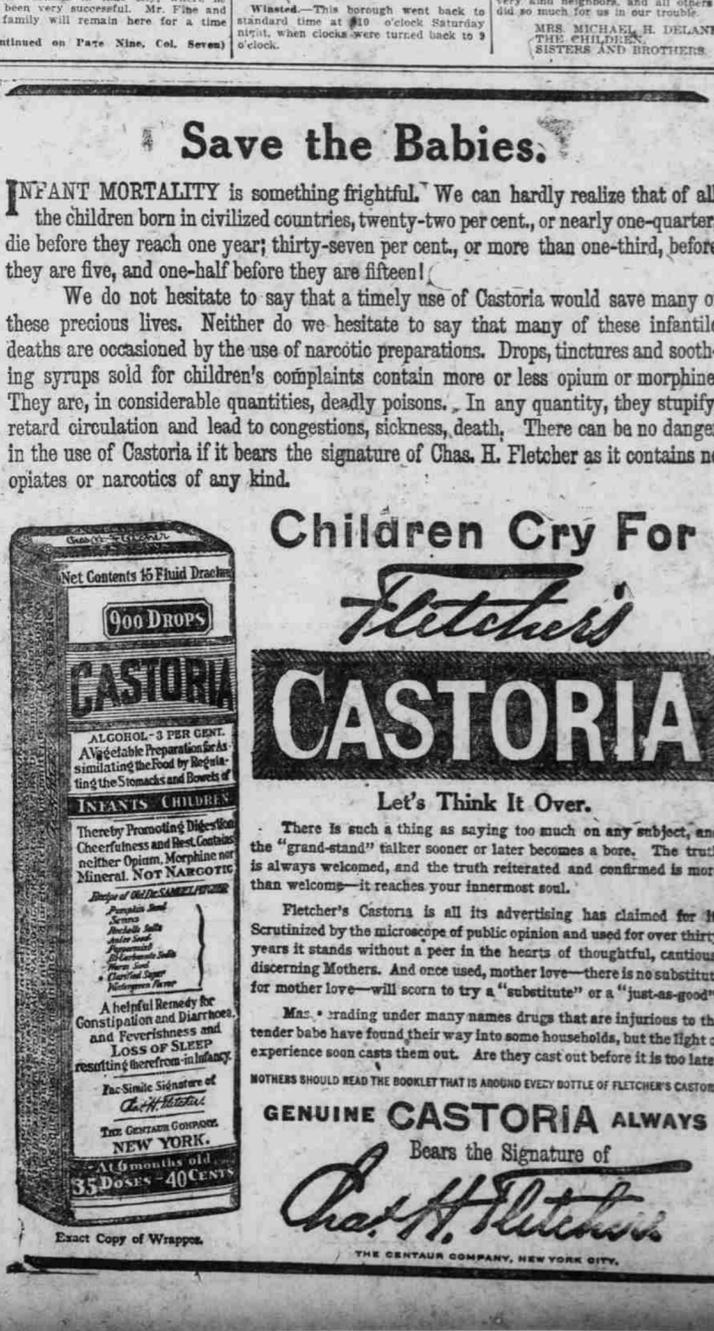

Fletcher's Castoria is all its advertising has claimed for it. Scrutinized by the microscope of public opinion and used for over thirty years it stands without a peer in the hearts of thoughtful, cautious, discerning Mothers. And once used, mother love—there is no substitute for mother love—will scorn to try a "substitute" or a "just-as-good."

Manufacturing under many names drugs that are injurious to the tender babe have found their way into some households, but the fight of experience soon casts them out. Are they cast out before it is too late?
