

PRIVATE SEAL AS GOOD AS EVER

Private Seal always occupied a place of honor at picnics, on the porch, after the game or outing, at the time of relaxation after a hard day's work.

No reason to change from this old friend now. It is still made of the best hops and malt, still brewed and aged with the same infinite care.

You liked Private Seal in the past; it is as good as ever today.

MONTVILLE CENTER

Rev. Edward P. Ayer of Mansfield Center occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church here Sunday.

Mr. Ayer has been taking a motor trip through Massachusetts the past week; points of interest visited were Northfield, Amherst and Millbury. Raymond Schofield of this place drove for him.

Mrs. Paul Glasbrenner will entertain the Ladies' Social union at her home this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Henry Darling and Miss Ray of Salem have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moran.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral of Francis P. Parker, held at his home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. E. P. Ayer officiated at the services. He regretted having had no personal acquaintance with Mr. Parker but felt that he knew him by reputation.

Mr. Ayer laid particular emphasis upon Mr. Parker's love for and proficiency in music. At the close of his talk Mr. Ayer sang very effectively The City Four Square. A quartette, the Misses Lynch, Frederick W. Chapel and Ray Woodman, sang by request Crown Him With Many Crowns and O. Could I Speak the Matchless Worth. The floral tributes were of great beauty. Relatives present from out of town included three nephews, Rev. William S. Beard, Edward and Morrie Beard, of New York, cousin Mrs. T. R. Parker and son, Raymond Parker, and wife of Willimantic, Clarence Parker of New London and Mrs. Olive Bishop and daughter Alice of Norwich. Burial was in the family plot in Raymond Hill cemetery. The bearers were George H. Bradford, John Fellows, Frank Schofield and Edward Comstock.

At the high school Killingly students showed through a straw vote that they were decidedly in favor of Harding's election, though there were some sturdy supporters of Cox.

At Central Village Tuesday evening provision was made for receiving election returns over a speaker wire and many of the men of that place gathered to listen to how the nation had voted.

The postoffice hours have been readjusted to the old schedule in effect before the opening of the special session. The office now opens at 8:30 a. m. instead of 5:30 a. m., and does not close until 7:30 a. m., a fact that is appreciated by a great many people.

A purse that contained a gold locket valued as an heirloom, some papers of value and a small amount of money was recovered by Mrs. George Williams of Davyville on Tuesday. The purse was lost Sunday while they were motoring home from Providence in the Hartford avenue-Litchie Road car.

George Williams acted as moderator at the voting since in Davyville during Tuesday's election, and at East Killingly Claude Moran was the moderator.

Still no prospect of restoration of trolley service between Danielson and East Killingly and Providence. East Killingly people are beginning to lose hope that the service will be restored.

Threatening weather did not serve on Tuesday and not serve on Wednesday to keep any considerable number of voters away from the polls in Danielson. Those who wanted to vote found plenty of opportunity, as arrangements had been made for transportation.

Danielson people who own motor cars will be interested in the announcement that the state highway improvement work between Putnam and Chenoweth is practically completed. Long stretches of this much used route have been closed since early summer while several miles of highway were being built.

Industrial engineers have a new source of revenue—collecting empty lakey bottles which are re-filled with the killing beverage. The boys who collect the bottles know the haunts of the lakey drinkers and may be seen any morning on a hunt for the empties, which bring a cent each.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Waston Briggs, who will be 99 years of age on the 11th of the month, was one of the voters who cast his ballot in Tuesday's election. Mr. Briggs, father of Herbert Briggs, is a resident on the West Side and a voter of the town of Brooklyn.

Pay envelopes found in his suit case indicated that the body of the man found lying under a pine tree in woodland territory just north of the Sacred Heart church at Waukegan was that of Thomas McLaughlin, a man who may have been one of the voters at the election. The body was viewed where it was found by Coroner Arthur G. Bill on Tuesday morning and he gave permission for its removal to the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy.

There was really nothing but the skeleton left. The man's gray hair, which had fallen away from his scalp, lay in a little pile near where the body was found. The skull was entirely bare of flesh and the clothing that the man wore covered nothing but his bones.

That the man's death occurred some time after August 16 of this year is indicated by the fact that one of the envelopes found bears that date. The envelopes indicate that the man had been employed during the past year at the Adams mill at North Sterling, Conn. at Griswoldville and at Manohag, Coroner Bill said Tuesday afternoon that he will get in touch at once with this manufacturing concern and hopes through information that he can get to trace relatives of the dead man. No one had been found in this city on Tuesday who knew McLaughlin.

No indications were found about the body to indicate how the man died. It would appear that he went into the wooded section where his body was found, selected a really restful place on mossy ground under the low-hanging branches of a big pine and lay down to sleep from which he never awakened. There were no signs to indicate that the body had ever been seen or disturbed until found Monday afternoon by two youths who were hunting through the territory.

Even their keen scrutiny would not have detected the body were it not for the fact that they happened to see the man's suit case and one of the envelopes which investigation and the discovery of the body.

McLaughlin was well and comfortably dressed. He had on a good suit of clothing, good shoes and his hat was one of the best known makes. In his suit case was clean underwear, clean neckties, shirts, clean handkerchiefs and other garments. There was no money or other valuables in the man's pockets, but there was a skeleton watch.

All the indications point to the man's having been a victim of a heart attack. No evidence of foul play was found and it is believed that McLaughlin came to his death through natural causes.

The participation of women in the voting Thursday was a striking feature. That they acquitted themselves well was indicated by the little difficulty they gave any of the election officials and the prompt manner in which they marked their ballots.

It was announced by the election officials that an attempt was made to inspect the ballot of his wife as she emerged from the booth of the polling place in an adjoining one to mark his. The man took his wife's ballot, looked it over and evidently was displeased with it. For he was ordering her back into the booth to change it.

When an election official protested against his action and forbade further interference, though it was of a friendly nature. Nothing unusual happened in connection with the casting of the ballots. Women assisted as checkers and were otherwise active in carrying out election requirements.

That Danielson's citizens were well pleased with the outcome of the election was shown by the manner in which they awaited the returns and it was very early this morning before many a Danielson man sought his home. Many women were in the throng that remained until midnight. At the Bohemian club quarters members crowded in during all of the evening to get returns coming off of special Associated Press wires that had been installed. At the state armory returns were made the feature of an informal dance. At Columbia hall in Davyville another group of citizens were listening to the returns that were being furnished through The Bulletin's local service.

A big force of operators was kept on force at the local central office of the S. N. E. T. company during the evening to handle the avalanche of calls growing out of the election.

PUTNAM

Another robbery of a summer residence closed for the season here, was reported from Pomfret where the Dr. John Jay place has been entered and robbed. How extensive the losses are will not be known until members of the family or their representatives complete their investigation.

The Jay house is near the Harrison estate and has been closed since early October. The place had been left in charge of Peter Murphy as caretaker. Mr. Murphy has made periodical visits to the house to see that nothing was disturbed. The place had been burglarized was discovered by passersby, who reported the fact to Mr. Murphy.

An investigation showed that the residence had been ransacked much after the same manner as the Arthur S. Hardy place in Woodstock, which was raided by burglars a few days ago. At the Dr. Jay house bureau drawers were opened and their contents were about and apparently every part of the house looked over in detail, the burglars probably selecting with care whatever interested them.

Dr. Jay is a man well along in years and unwilling to make the trip from New York to investigate as to his losses. It was said at Pomfret Tuesday afternoon that the representatives of the family had arrived and were endeavoring to check up the losses, which may be shown to be heavy.

Discussion of the address here of Hamilton Holt, the New York editor, was one of the features of the meeting. Editor Holt's Monday evening audience crowded Union hall well beyond its seating capacity. Many of the prominent republicans of the city were included in the audience and some of them spoke.

Holt questions about various phases of the league of nations question at the close of his address, which was admitted a masterful presentation of the issue from Mr. Holt's standpoint. That Mr. Holt's power to attract numbers of the leading republicans of Putnam to his exposition of the league question was indicated by what a number of them said in commenting on the speech during election day.

The town school committee has received its report on the matter of furnishing lunches for the students at the high school, as submitted by Mrs. Almina A. Perry, and found it interesting. The report covers the month of October. She shows that $109.48 was received from lunches sold and that bills paid amounted to $7.53. The matter of the lunches for the young people is receiving serious study.

The school committee suggested on Tuesday some of the developments he would like to see in the matter of providing lunches for the young people. It was suggested to provide nourishing foods at a small cost and to eliminate a number of things that seem to appeal to the pupils, but which are not really good for them.

Election work was carried out here on Tuesday with a quiet and unexciting manner that much careful organization work had been done in advance by both the republican and democratic committees.

The polls opened in the morning building with Judge L. H. Fuller as moderator, until they closed at 6 p. m. the vote producing machinery worked smoothly. The voters were kept in line and the use in bringing voters from all sections of the town, and a careful checking up process to determine who had voted of the latter being out of town.

During the morning hours the voting was surprisingly heavy and it was reported that 1,600 voters had been checked and had cast their ballots by 11 o'clock.

In addition to Judge Fuller the election officials who were on duty were Hermon G. Carter and George Potvin, register, W. D. Warren and W. D. Calise, deputy registrars, George S. Son and Thomas P. Ryan, checkers; A. A. Buchanan and R. Robitaille, ballots; Merie Flisy and Henry Calise, John Fern and Eugene Kelly, notary, boxmen; Eugene Robitaille, challengers; M. H. Geisler and Eugene Dumas.

Favorable comment was heard on the method used in providing for the women voters, hundreds of whom participated in the election.

Union street was crowded during Tuesday evening to watch the returns from all over the country being flashed on the screen attached to the balloting building. At the Elks' club, too, a special telegraphic service had been installed and many of the members of the lodge spent the evening learning the story of the day's balloting.

Miss Helen Devine is in Hartford to undergo a surgical operation of a minor nature. There were some surprises in the results of the election locally, as had been predicted by a few in close touch with the trend of opinion in Putnam during the past few days, but no noteworthy ones.

Dr. F. H. Libby, who has been in poor health for several months, was reported on Tuesday as decidedly ill at his home in this city. Dr. Libby is the father of Attorney Arthur S. Libby of Norwich, formerly of this city.

Many citizens of Pomfret, Woodstock and Thompson were in the crowd that watched the giving out of election returns in this city Tuesday evening.

Ponds east of here are reported to be low, that unusual quantities of pout and muskellunge have been taken during the past few days.

The assessors have completed the work of receiving lists of taxable property and returns for the year. The returns for Tuesday will be subjected to an additional ten per cent assessment on account of their negligence.

William J. Mulligan has authorized the denial of all stories circulated here to the effect that the cancellation of the speaking engagement was due to any other reason or reasons than that officially given out—that he was by mistake booked to speak here after he had been booked, two weeks before, at a rate.

Evidence of an increase in demand from the manufacturing companies for fabric is a fact that will be appreciated in this territory, where great quantities of fabric are manufactured.

Edward S. Carpenter, one of Danielson's veterans, was a real member of the Old Guard of the party, assisted here as an election official on Tuesday.

Federal Game Warden Harry Battey of East Killingly is on duty all through the eastern part of the county, keeping close tabs on those who go into the woods.

END OF EIGHT YEARS MISERY

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Recovered.

Newark, N. J.—The doctor said I had an organic trouble and treated me for a several weeks. At times I could not walk at all and I suffered with my back and limbs so I often had to stay in bed. I suffered and on for eight years. Finally I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a good medicine and tried it with splendid effect. I can now do my housework and my washing. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound and your Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking them to advantage. You can use my name for a testimonial."—Mrs. THEBESIA COVATY, 75 Burnett St., Newark, N. J.

You are invited to write for free advice. No other medicine has been so successful in relieving women's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters will be answered and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

Regardless of the outcome of Tuesday's election there will be rejoicing here if one of the after effects is a quick revival of the textile industry, which has been more or less seriously crippled all through this territory since last June.

Earliest returns received here Tuesday evening were from nearby surrounding towns and they were seized upon with avidity to be taken as signs indicating which way the later returns would show the country was going.

George Pettis, 37 years of age, was one of the veterans who came out to vote in Tuesday's election.

"Souvenir" W. H. Taylor, formerly of this city, is credited with having done excellent work during the campaign at the headquarters of the republican state central committee at Hartford.

State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatrick of this city will be congratulated by many friends today upon his re-election as state treasurer.

The moderator at the polls in Jewett City at the first voting district was Matthew Geary. The clerks were Arthur Rioux, George Thornton, Fred Cozzie and John McKenna.

The checkers were H. W. Burnham, Solomon Wechsler, George Cyr, E. H. Gray, B. Gardner and George Ledyard. The boothmen were Daniel Shea, Francis Campbell, John D. Driscoll, Joseph Couture, William Earle-sham, John Glynn, and Hector Siebeland.

The women who assisted in checking the republican women's list were Mrs. L. M. Carpenter and Mrs. E. H. Hecox. Republican women who drove cars were Mrs. F. H. Chase, Mrs. E. A. Faust, and Mrs. F. H. Gilbert.

In Jewett City there were 212 women made voters and all but 13 voted several of the latter being out of town.

The pupils of Riverside grammar school met in the assembly hall Tuesday morning. The Star Spangled Banner was sung and the flag was saluted. After this the hot and hot of voting were explained to the children.

Following the singing of America the children voted in their respective rooms. The results of the straw vote were Cox and Roosevelt 290, Harding and Coolidge 118.

Voting was done in all of the Griswold schools. Each school had the ballot and voting explained to them.

A real and automobile collision caused considerable excitement Monday evening on Main street at the point where Slater avenue comes in. The accident happened at the time the car was being driven when the streets were crowded.

David Radcliffe of Plainfield driving a big car, ran into George F. Helmolt of Lisbon who was in a smaller machine. The machine was looked into and a regular embrace. Chief of Police John T. Dolan was on the spot and secured the necessary facts. No one was hurt. Some time during the same evening Radcliffe pulled off another stunt to escape being run down by him Benjamin Bigwood was obliged to run his machine out of the road into a fence. Relatives received word Saturday afternoon of the death by shooting at their home in Essex, Vermont, of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Horton. Mrs. Horton has been dependent at times for several years and it is thought that worry over his wife's health so preyed upon Mr. Horton's mind that he became insane and while in that condition shot her and then himself. They leave a daughter six years old, who is living with her aunt, Mrs. Dan Horton. Mr. Horton was a native of Abington.

Bridgeport.—Local coal dealers met the other day and the opinion was that it would be better to close their yards than pay the high prices asked by speculators in the open market for wasteable coal. They believe that by refusing to buy from speculators now enough "old line coal" will come into town to supply immediate demands, and the open market will have to lower their prices.
