GREENEVILLE

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greenville Congregational church, received Mr. and Mrs. George E. Green by letter into the membership of church last Sunday.

TAFTVILLE

The committee that was selected by the property holders have investigated into the numbering of the houses on the hill section. The following streets and avenues will be numbered in the near future: Merchants, Hunters, Pratts avenue, School and Diet streets. This numbering of the houses has been needed for a long time as any stranger inquiring where so and so lives, why down the street in that gray house. There has been some difficulty in numbering a house where there are six families living but this will be overcome.

The Olympic team defeated the Peconic bowlers in their match Wednesday evening, winning the last two games. Arrivals of the winners won the honors for high single getting a total of 132 points and for high three, with a total of 346 points.

Enlistments in the Navy

The following named men enlisted at the New London recruiting station, 50 State street, and were sent to New Haven for further transfer to the different trade schools of the fleet: L. H. Getchell, H. R. Beshe, R. B. Carver, F. A. Day and Frank R. Cushman.

All of these had the choice of their own trade school, when they will take their preliminary training before going on board ship. Enlistments are open to young men between the age of 17 and 35 with good characters and all men enlisting for a two, three, or four year period can choose their own trade school.

TO DEVELOP CIVIC PRIDE IN NORWICH

Development of civic pride in Norwich is to be under discussion at a forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, which it is hoped will take place in the near future. Plans have been made to secure a good out-of-town speaker, and if these are successful, a host is anticipated for all those who attend this meeting.

Three new members, E. Allen Bidwell, Frank E. Palmer and Lewis R. Church, were admitted to membership at a meeting of the directors of the chamber which was held at noon Friday at the Wauregan House with President Charles P. Wells presiding.

The committee on committees made a report of what they have accomplished since the last meeting of the directors, and it is hoped that those asked to serve on the various committees will make every effort to accept their appointments. Persons have been chosen with the sole purpose of securing the cooperation of those interested in the various planks of the program of work as announced in a recent issue. In order that as many members as possible may become vitally interested in the community's welfare, the chamber's members and the directors are purposely barred from active committee work so that the vast amount of research and careful consideration of the various planks will be equitably shared by the members and not place the burden of the chamber's few faithful members. This method will also obviously dispel any criticism that a few are running the chamber's activities. A circular letter will be sent to every member of the chamber endorsing and urging their support to the Norwich chapter of the Red Cross, which is one of the most important phases of our community life.

Secretary John J. O'Rourke and Treasurer Henry F. Parker will be placed under suitable bonds in accordance with general good business principles.

The secretary was instructed to investigate the matter of uncertain solicitations from the business interests of the city, as it was deemed advisable that Norwich business men be safeguarded from unscrupulous persons securing large sums of money in the year aggregate, by bogus methods. The directors wish to call the attention of the business men in a special manner, that in the future no money be given or promised to any solicitor unless the approval of the chamber is given and proper credentials presented, which can be secured at the office of the chamber after careful investigation.

The chamber has leased its present quarters, now located in the Thames Loan and Trust Co. building, for three years, and it is the committee's intention that the directors that the offices are agreeably located and easily accessible to the people of the community. A capital investment of $10,000 is being made to improve the office and make general use of the rooms for the advancement of the city's interests. The function of the chamber is to coordinate the interests of the citizens in Norwich and its development along progressive lines. It was because of the responsibility of its officers, that the present location was selected.

WORLD WIDE GUILD RALLY AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

An enthusiastic rally of the New London county association of the World Wide Guild was held Friday afternoon at the Central Baptist church from 5 to 7 o'clock. There was an attendance of over 100 at the meeting with representatives from the First Baptist church, Third Baptist church, Central Baptist church of this city, the Quaker Hill Baptist church, the Bohrah Baptist church, the Montville Baptist church, Williamstown Baptist church and Jewett City church.

A banquet was enjoyed after which there was an interesting talk on World Wide Guild work by Miss Helen Crissman, national field secretary of the World Wide Guild. Miss Crissman was introduced by Miss Helen Kilborn, urged all the young people to interest themselves in this great work and advocated also the organizing of local guilds to stimulate the interest. Miss Crissman also taught those present several of the W. W. G. cheers, which were heartily given by those present. Mrs. Arthur P. Purkins also sang and the young women and urged the young people to interest themselves in this great work and advocated also the organizing of local guilds to stimulate the interest. HIGH PRAISES FOR NORWICH RED CROSS WORK

Following the reading of the various reports Chairman Selden briefly outlined the plans for the coming year. Rev. Mr. Selden said that the chapter realizes that its first responsibility is to the service men and their families. Hitherto very little has been said with regard to the loan and sometimes by the gift of America into the war to the present time we have gladly rendered them aid in every way within our power, by furnishing them with information, by preparing the paper required for securing the aid and sometimes by the gift of money. In all nearly $500 has passed through the treasury of our home service department. During the past year over 1,200 calls have been made upon our secretary.

This department must be continued, at least for the next year, and this requires the maintenance of an office and the employment of a secretary specially trained for this very important work.

The medical supervision of all children of school age, inaugurated by the Red Cross, has now been taken over by the town under the direction of the town health officers, assisted by an advisory committee of five. Since the town meeting in October the Red Cross has furnished funds for a careful and thorough survey of the physical condition of all children in the community of school age. The results of this survey made by Dr. La Pierre, Dr. Blackman, Dr. Dinsell and Dr. Cassidy, will be tabulated on cards, each containing the name of the child, sex, height, weight and physical condition. This information will guide the nurses in the village and hamlets about the city. We are planning to secure such a nurse, to begin her work in the school and later to organize classes in domestic hygiene and home care of the sick.

To carry out this programme of service will require at least $5,000 for next year.

Dr. Prest talked in Health Lines. Dr. Prest was then introduced by the chairman and the speaker gave a most interesting and very instructive talk on what may be accomplished along health lines.

I am overwhelmed with the splendid reports of the local chapter, said Dr. Prest. I find the health program has been put on here in an admirable way. The people of the entire community are to be congratulated. The work here is unique in many ways. It is quite difficult in some places to lead people to see why the Red Cross should go on, now that the war is over.

Your secretary in referring to the draft reports stated in his report that one-third of those from 21 to 31 years expired for the draft were unfit.

Much of this was unnecessary due to child defects. Here is an opening for health work in the schools.

It is found that a large per centage of the children in the schools have need of dental care. This need has been taken care of very satisfactorily by what is known as dental hygiene. This has been very successful in Bridgeport and other cities and it is found that the children improve in their work.

I am glad you have carried on in a way which work connected with the under-nourished children. This is most important and should be followed up.

We feel that the entire health service campaign should be towards prevention. We do not care to take over or replace an activity but we do care to assist and help along any existing activity.

One out of every ten babies die before they are one year old. This infant mortality should be materially reduced. Education is necessary. Forty-two per cent of the deaths under 10 years of age are from preventable causes. Here indeed, is need for education.

I wish to congratulate the Norwich Chapter of the Red Cross. I must say that of all chapters I have visited in quite some time I have yet to find a chapter which has looked at the field so thoroughly as the Norwich chapter.

Following Dr. Prest's address the entire executive committee of the chapter was re-elected as follows:

Dr. Joseph H. Selden, Ebenezer Leonard, F. W. Lester, Mrs. Bennett M. Galois, Miss Edith E. Young, Mrs. Edmund Perkins, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Miss Anna Gray, Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Mrs. W. K. Tingley and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham. The meeting adjourned about 5 o'clock.

POETRY

God made no slave or master,
"As brothers should be,
And his who breaks the ancient law
Must pay the penalty.

O you who think in millions,
Of men and power;
Drown you not the living day,
The liberating hour!

Foretold by seer and prophet,
Nature in Gallies;
And his who breaks the walls of time,
Had we but eyes to see.

O slow of heart, who knew not
That he who serves is great,
The who's who's in conqueror,
Though scorned by flaming hate.

Fling out a gracious challenge,
The age-long struggle end,
Strive vain to mingle, speak heart to heart
And make your foe your friend.

And Labor, as Love liveth,
Accept the proffered hand,
Cast from your soul its bitterness,
And make all its shifting sand.

Who takes the sword shall perish,
Who fights the sword shall die,
The world is safe for none of us
Until it's safe for all.

God made no slave or master,
And he who breaks the law
To build his kingdom here on earth,
In blood and brotherhood,
—Hilary White in Boston Transcript.

JOHN A. WING.
Oh! Winter-time, how life in death,
When frosty winds are blowing,
With joy I smelt their icy breath,
And in their midst I sought
The light of heaven's shining wings.

In Spring I find a gladsome guest,
Dance Nature's joy and melody,
Go forth in brilliant newness dress,
And all is turtle-dovey.

Then Summer days beyond compare
There's honey colling everywhere,
And I am a human, bee-ing.

In grievous Autumn birds fly South,
And I I long to follow,
Hoping in time of "breeze",
I there might find a swallow.
—Miss Nell Pannocci, in Cartoons Magazine.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Judge—Were you ever in jail before?
Veteran Criminal—Now listen, your Honor, do you think I am a child?—Tik.
"A man's house is his castle."
"If the landlord carries out his threat, my house will be a castle in the air."
—Washington Star.

Barber—How do you like our new restaurant soap?
Victim (in chair)—Seems nourishing, but I've had my breakfast—Edinburgh Scotsman.

"In former times the man who lived in a small town saw little of life."
"And now?"
"Now the same films go everywhere."
—Louis L'Amour's "The Gunner."

"What?" said Lord Coleridge once to a puzzled common, "you a London lawyer and don't know where the law courts are?"
"Oh the Law Courts, is it I know them? but you said the Courts of Justice."
—The Christian Register, (Boston Transcript).

"Still angry with your husband?"
"Yes."
"But why make such a terrible row over a small matter?"
"Well, after the quarrel started I thought I might as well get a silk dress out of it as a box of candy."
—Judge.

Professor—Give me an example of an uneducated man.
Student—A rooster's egg, sir.—Boston Transcript.

"It was a brave act, young man," said a grateful father, with deep feeling.
"At the period of your life you rushed into the burning building and saved my daughter. How can I ever repay you?"
"Would five bob be too much?" suggested the brave rescuer.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Traffic Cop—When I signal for you to stop, I want you to stop. The next time it will cost you a five.
Autoist—Say, brother, if you can show me how to stop this sheet-iron lizard, I'm a quicker than I did. I'll give you ten.—Exchange.

Mabel—That's a lovely bathing suit you're wearing. But aren't you afraid water will take the color out?
Joan—It might, as I always have it dry cleaned.—Exchange.

"Are you a Frenchman?"
"Yes."
"Born in France?"
"Yes, that's what makes me a Frenchman."
