DRY CLEANING FOR SERVICES

Dr. J. J. Bonobus testified to the medical care he gave Mr. Gellino and Mrs. Elizabeth E. Gellino, a neighbor, and Lloyd C. Gellino, a step-son of Mrs. Gellino, who were witnesses as to the fatal condition of Mrs. Gellino and the care that Miss Tracy gave.

Miss Tracy gave, Miss Mary Tracy and Miss Fannie Gellino, the latter a niece, were followed on the stand by Dr. Patrick Cassidy, who took of the case.

Miss Tracy told the jury that she was told by Mrs. Gellino that she was going to recommit suicide and that she was going to help herself and her husband.

The doctor said that Mr. Gellino was a great care in the later years of his life and had to be looked after as if he were a child.

Johanna Gellino, wife of Robert Gellino, also testified to hearing Mrs. Gellino say that she was going to recommit suicide and that she was going to help herself and her husband.

Robert Gellino, an adopted son, also testified to the care and attention that Mrs. Tracy gave to Mr. and Mrs. Gellino.

Court adjourned at 4.30 until the Wednesday morning session at 10.

The jury in the case is the following: Joseph H. Hendon, George S. Powers, Herbert Richardson, Clifford L. Dawley, Frank E. Cray, Preston Thomas S. Rathbone, George B. Miller, Charles A. Alvin, Douglas, Frank L. F. Griswold, Ray R. Smith, Frank J. Alford, Albert Bassett, Birdseye G. Palmer, Voluntown.

Are Your Kidneys Active

Not if you are subject to weak spells, dizziness, headache and general rheumatic pains.

You may have felt out of sorts for some time and may have begun to lose weight. Now and then there is a feeling of stiffness, especially in the joints.

During the day, your back hurts, but still you are not laid up. These are the danger signals that warn you to look after the kidneys.

They are weak and the system retains body poisons that strain and accumulate. Other health struggles and you should try it. If it doesn't prove satisfactory in your case, simply return the package and get your money back.

Be sure to try it. Weakness of the kidneys does not cause you much pain nor depression, but such conditions always leave you open to severe colds, pneumonia and most other serious diseases.

ELKS HAVE BOWLING GAMES IN TWO BOWLING MATCHES

Capt. George Madden's five managed to make it two out of three over Capt. Bill Stevens' rollers in the Elks duck-pin tournament Tuesday night, taking the first and last games of the match.

The losers broke in ahead but Ferguson struck a winning streak in his last three boxes, putting over three apares in succession which gave him a string of 100 and won the game for his side.

Purdon's 110 gave him high single for the match and he also got the high three string total of 298. The scores:

Table with 2 columns: Name, Score. Capt. Madden: 85, 89, 84, 258. Capt. Stevens: 78, 82, 81, 241.

Monday night's match furnished a novelty when Capt. Jack Fitzgerald's team won one game from Capt. John Combs' team and did it by one pin in the last game of the match.

Fitzgerald's 100, which was the only string that went up to that mark, accounted for the winning game. The scores:

Table with 2 columns: Name, Score. Capt. Combs: 81, 80, 81, 242. Capt. Fitzgerald: 82, 78, 81, 241.

STORRS HENS GAIN IN SIXTH WEEK OF CONTEST

In the sixth week of the tenth laying contest at Storrs the hens laid a total of 1974 eggs or 21.3 per cent. This is a gain of 51 eggs as compared with the previous week's production but 115 less than the six year average.

A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by W. H. Kent, Casanova, N. Y., and a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Old Town Farm, from Peterboro, N. H., tied for first place with a yield of 42 eggs each.

The eggs were counted for weight instead of number the Rhode Island pen would have first with 53 pounds of eggs while the Rhode Island pen owned by W. H. Kent, Casanova, N. Y., was second with a production of 46 eggs. These pens of Rhode Island Reds tied for third place with a yield of 29 eggs each.

These pens were owned by H. S. Blackford, Grovesville, N. H., Deer Brook Poultry Farm, Short Falls, N. H., and Charles H. Lane, Southboro, Mass. A pen of White Leghorns owned by Hollywood Farm, Hollywood, Wash., were fourth with a yield of 37 eggs.

Another Rhode Island pen owned by one is never quite sure which pens will be among the four leading pens in each of the principal varieties. In the sixth week of the contest H. S. Blackford's Rhode Island Reds relegated F. S. Sampson's pen of Rhode Island Reds to second place, where Hollywood Farm's Leghorns and Lion Head Poultry Farm's Leghorns replaced Leghorns from Mount Hope Farm and Meadowdale Farm.

During the past week a truck load of cabbages arrived at the poultry plant and is being used as green food for the hens in the contest. With hens being confined to the pens it is important that plenty of green food should be given. Not only does it help to give the required amount of vitamins but also is beneficial as a regulator. The nearer one makes the hens feel that they still have spring conditions the better egg production can be expected.

The four leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows: Plymouth Rocks, W. H. B. Kent (Barred) Casanova, 182. Rhode Island Reds, H. S. Blackford, 175.

White Leghorns, E. A. Ballard, Chesham Hill, Pr., 144. L. E. Ingoldby, Colportown, N. Y., 141. Hollywood Farm, Hollywood, Wash., 141. Lion Head Poultry Farm, Dover, N. H., 141.

Other Varieties, Obed G. Knight (White Wyandotte) Bridgeton, R. I., 131. W. H. B. Kent (White Wyandotte) Casanova, 128. Clemens J. Dismant (White Wyandotte) New Bedford, Conn., 125. H. P. Clough (Buff Wyandotte) Shaver Lane, Conn., 84. A. E. Hampton (Black Leghorns) Pittsboro, N. J., 84.
