MASS MEETING IN LEXINGTON

LEXINGTON, Jan. 5.—Preparations were ahead today for a mass meeting of tobacco growers to be held Friday in protest against low prices which caused closing of most buyers' markets in the state and farmers to return their crops to storage.

Following a statement today by John W. Newman, president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, that his organization would accept no responsibility for the meeting, it was announced tonight that directors of the association would meet here tomorrow night to formulate a policy.

Mr. Newman in his statement said that the association was organized to find a remedy through orderly process and that it would not resort to lawlessness.

Reports from minor markets which remained open today in spite of the closing of the larger places, said that prices showed a decided improvement over those on the 1st and 2nd markets, yesterday when bids on the Lexington floors ranged from 11 to 120 per 100 pounds. Dispatches from Eminence, Ky., said that good grades of tobacco brought $18 to $19 per 100 pounds when the market opened.

Despatches from Richmond said that tobacco brought an average of $13.65 per 100 pounds there today as against an average of $14.65 yesterday.

The Flemingsburg market opened today but a short period was closed indefinitely.

Johnson City, Tenn., Jan. 5.—Tobacco offerings were heavy at the opening today of the local tobacco warehouses. Fancier grades sold as high as 45 cents a pound. Several farmers hauled their tobacco back home.

LIMIT STATE PRISON SENTENCE GIVEN

Several sentences were given in the criminal superior court here Wednesday.

Judge Gardner Greene presiding, but most of the time of the court day was taken up with conferences between State Attorney Hadley A. Hall and witnesses and attorneys in the various cases. The jurors who are in attendance spent the day in the jury room waiting to be called on to serve until late in the afternoon, when Judge Greene had them called into court, where he told them they were excused till Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Men who hoped there would be some business for them.

In the morning session of court Michael Kosnisky of Montville pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of an automobile tire and was sentenced to jail for one year. Judge Greene suspended execution of the sentence and placed Kosnisky on probation.

Kosnisky found the tire in the road in Montville and hid it in a building near by. He broke into the building and got the tire and sold it. Kosnisky has a wife and six children.

Allen L. Brown, colored, of Norwich, was sentenced to four months in jail for the theft of household goods, to which he pleaded guilty. The goods were recovered after they were stolen from a building on the East Side where they were stored.

Stanley J. Faulkner, a soldier, pleaded not guilty to the theft of some clothing from the Waterford cottage of Seymour Robinson of Meriden on Oct. 29, and Judge Stanton of Old Lyme imposed a plea of guilty to the charge of mal-treating a horse. Sentence in both cases was deferred.

Henry Russell, formerly of Montville, but now of Mansfield, pleaded guilty to fornication with a 15 year old girl and was fined $25 and costs, which he paid.

John A. Walcott, formerly of Montville, pleaded guilty in behalf of the man who, he said, had not been deserted by his wife and left with two small children.

Limit Sentence Imposed.

At the afternoon session of court, the early part of the afternoon was used up in conferences between the state attorney and Public Defender Edmund W. Perkins. About 4 o'clock Judge Greene took his place on the bench and the first case was called.

Lyme against a man charged with rape upon a 17-year-old girl on the beach at Sound View had been made up to put in the Fall and the attorney thought the girl was deserving of an ordinary sentence of two years. State Attorney Hull did not agree with this, but said the man had been living a shiftless life. Judge Greene imposed the maximum limit under the circumstances in this case.

Leonard J. Stanton of Old Lyme, who was accused of abusing a horse by shooting it with a shotgun, was called before Judge Greene to tell the judge his story of the offense charged against him. The public defender and the state attorney both insisted that the defendant had admitted the circumstances. It was said that the horse was a fence-jumper and that Stanton used the shotgun when the animal had jumped into his garden.
