WITNESS SVS SHE WAS THREATENED

Threats made to her by the Italian sign of vengeance were testified to by Mrs. Marie Franz of Groton in the trial of Giuseppe on charge of assault with intent to murder Frank Sylvester of Groton on Sept. 19th last.

Sylvester was a boarder at the home of Mrs. Franz and she testified, when put on the stand in her own behalf, that on Thursday, that this Italian sign was made to her by Leonard Curry, the day after Sylvester was stabbed and that Curry also made the sign at her last Friday in front of the court house in this city.

When Curry was on the stand Wednesday he denied that he had ever made this sign to anyone or that he knew what it meant.

Attorney Morris Lubchansky, counsel for the accused man, closed the case for the defense Thursday morning by putting on the stand Mrs. Marie Franz and her daughter Louise Tassoni, who corroborated the testimony of previous witnesses that the accused man and other were at the Tassoni home in Old Mystic on the night of Sept. 19 and that he would make it impossible for him to have committed the assault on Sylvester.

In rebuttal, State Attorney Hull placed on the stand John Spongo of Hartford, who has been the Italian interpreter in the case. Mr. Spongo testified that there was a sign used among the Italians to indicate vengeance by biting the index finger at a person.

Mrs. Franz followed him with her testimony that the sign had been made at her, and she was followed by the two Groton policemen, George O. Vincent and Charles E. Yerlin, who arrested Giuseppe. She said that he told her he was home in bed at the time Sylvester was stabbed. Giuseppe has denied that he told the policeman this.

Mrs. Anna M. Andriola of Groton was the last witness. She testified that she was at the home of Mrs. Franz one time when Sylvester was stabbed and she went there to borrow a milk bottle and that Sylvester was in the room at the time. The accused man has denied that he ever went to Mrs. Franz's home or that he ever saw Sylvester before he was confronted with him in the Groton court after the arrest.

Both sides rested and after a short recess Attorney Thomas E. Troland made the first argument for the state, before Judge Gardner Greene and the jury. He spoke for 30 minutes and was followed by Attorney Lubchansky for the defendant, making an address of 25 minutes. State Attorney Hull occupied 25 minutes in the argument for the state and will conclude his argument when court comes in this (Friday) morning.

INSTALLING ELECTRIC POWER ON THAMES RIVER BRIDGE

Work of electrifying the Thames river bridge for purposes of operating the draw has commenced, and will probably be completed within the next five or six weeks.

The work is being done by a company which had the contract for altering the structure from a trolley to a highway bridge. There are 50 men engaged on the job, with J. H. Spahn as foreman.

Mr. Spahn said Thursday that work was started Monday and that it consists in removing the present steam plant and substituting therefor an electric plant. Power is to be purchased from the Connecticut Power company.

All the needed machinery is on the ground so that no delay will be experienced from that source.

Mr. Spahn said that he expects the bridge will be opened to traffic by the middle of next week, although it will require a much longer time to complete the entire job of removing the steam plant and finishing the detail work of the new system.

The change from steam to electrical power is made to facilitate the opening and closing of the draw as well as for economical reasons, by reducing the number of men required to operate it and the saving of a large quantity of fuel.

STATE GETS BIG REVENUE FROM TOLL BRIDGE CHARGES

The toll bridges of Connecticut, monopolized on toll bridges provides a large sum of money which is expended along with the thousands of dollars received in automobile taxes for road construction and maintenance.

Figures contained in the annual report of Highway Commissioner Charles J. Bennett show that the three toll bridges, Thames, Saybrook Junction and East Haddam, took in a total of $184,781.86 during the year 1920.

It is believed that after deduction is made for the cost of operation of the bridges at least $150,000 will be left for the department. This money is expended for state highways in whatever order the highway commissioner decides is in most need of road repair or improvement. Just now New London is obtaining benefit from new highways as a splendid 40 mile concrete road is in course of construction.

New London, however, is unfortunately situated with respect to toll bridges and the belief is strong here that the time is close when toll bridges should be free, and an effort is to be made to bring this about, or to secure at least a reduction of toll charges.

If it means that toll bridges toll should be applied to wiping out the cost of construction of the bridge it would be of some satisfaction, but when the net earnings are devoted to road construction, the cost of the bridge remains unpaid for.

The Saybrook bridge has been taking toll long enough to have paid for the tolling. It is believed that a highway bridge of earnings of the Thames river bridge it will be but a few years when sufficient funds would be accumulated to pay for the cost of building it from a railroad to a highway bridge.

The following figures submitted by the commissioner show the earnings of the toll bridges during the past year:

Toll	Saybrook	Haddam	Thames
River	$1,050.10	$559.40	1,069.10
	412.71	325.55	2,715.40
	1,184.20	424.70	1,256.68

	8,078.00	1,756.10	14,529.85
	14,787.50	2,749.90	16,229.46
	11,362.90	2,272.62	8,486.21

TIMES DEMAND INTELLIGENT AND UPRIGHT JUDICIARY

"There never was a time when an intelligent and upright and an incorruptible judiciary was more needed than now," said the judge in his address.

W. Wheeler of the Supreme Court of Errors has sent to ex-Governor Marcus H. Holcomb on the occasion of his retiring from the office of chief executive.

Concerning the retiring governor's services to the judiciary, Judge Wheeler writes: "I am proud of the judiciary of Connecticut and jealous of its reputation and from the bottom of my heart I thank you for your service to the state. It is a great privilege to have you have been devoted." Governor Holcomb has always taken great pride in the state judiciary. Judge Wheeler's letter in part is as follows:

"There is one thing more to say and I am sure you will understand that no possible personal interest leads me to say it. I speak it in the fulness of my gratitude to you for your services to the state and to the judiciary. You have served that duty as one of the public functionaries which you must perform regardless of any consideration save that of the public welfare."
