Teacher Of "New Thought" Healed By Fruit Liver Tablets

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. "I am not in the habit of praising any material medicine as I am an advocate of 'New Thought'; but some time ago, I had such a bad attack of Liver and Stomach Trouble that I gave up thinking I did not have it and took 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets.

Most gratifying was the result. It relieved my liver and stomach trouble, cleaned up my yellowish complexion and put new blood in my body. 'Fruit-a-tives' is the highest result of 'New Thought' in medicine."

PRESCRIPTION BOTTLE CAUSES ARREST

The first arrest by the Norwich police of a bartender because whiskey was found in the saloon though it was not sold by the bartender occurred Monday afternoon at the saloon of Julius W. Wutky at 35 Franklin street, where the arrival of a searching squad of officers found three Norwich men seated around a table with a point bottle of whiskey in their possession that had been secured from a drug store on a doctor's prescription.

The bottle, which was about half full, was seized by the police and the bartender, Frank Watson, who was playing pinochle at another table in the rear of the saloon, was taken to police headquarters where he gave bonds for his appearance in court. According to what he told the police the only thing the men had bought in the saloon was ginger ale.

Officers Keenan, Smith and Lamphere made the raid and searched the entire premises without finding any liquor there. The same officers went on to the saloon of Tony De Sarlo at 47 Franklin street and of Charles Mueller at 184 Franklin street, but found no liquor at either place.

Monday night about 9 o'clock Sergeant John H. Kane and other officers searched the saloon of Saul Friedland in the Washington building on West Main street, but found no liquor there.

FINED $200 ON CHARGE OF LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Seven men were fined for intoxication by Judge John H. Barnes at the city court session Monday morning. One of these also had a breach of the peace charge against his name.

CAPT. W. E. BATES PENSIONED—LEAVES SAYBROOK-LYME BRIDGE

Capt. William E. Bates, of the Saybrook and Lyme railroad bridge, applied for retirement to the railroad officials and received notice from the railroad officials that his application for a pension was honored and would take effect January 20th.

Captain Bates, of Old Saybrook, entered the service 41 years ago in the bridge gang. After ten years, he was transferred to caretaker of the bridge where he rendered faithful service 355 days in the year for 30 years, and was master of that three bridges that were erected during this period. The company has been holding back to relieve him, thinking he would change his plans, but he was determined to go, and the company consented and pensioned him. He expects to reside with his daughter, Mrs. Edward Maloney, and family, in Waterbury, former residents of Saybrook.

LAKE TELLS EDITORS HE IS NOT FOR CIVIL SERVICE

In a ringing half-hour speech at the banquet of the Connecticut Editorial association at Hotel Garde in New Haven Saturday night, Governor Everett J. Lake declared for rights and the administration of state affairs, highly praised the press of Connecticut and went on record as against the civil service.

The governor was loudly applauded at his most telling points by the 50 newspaper men and women present. He was accompanied by his staff officers, Major Woodruff of Litchfield and General Cole of Hartford.

Other speakers were O. S. Freeman of the Bristol Press, who acted as toastmaster, Major Woodruff and Miss Shirley Putnam of Lee, Greenwich Press, who gave humorous incidents and exciting episodes met with "playing the newspaper game."

Governor Lake commenced his speech with several laughable stories relative to newspaper editors who had seen it and referred to the politicians as bringing great tribulation to the men of the press. He said that he would bow to the newspaper editors of the state, for while he had been governor only three weeks, the editors had been the real governors for many years. "My administration," the governor continued, "will be good or bad just as the editors see fit to make it. The

POETRY

TO MY GAZELLE

So you have left me, little gazelle, my loyal comrade, following me, you've had your day, as all things must. Nor all your love and faith and trust could keep you with me—follow, friend, you've run your race and here's the end.

No, not the end, for you shall I say claim to immortality. It taught your faith and love and trust to travel to save your soul from quest. Out of your brown eyes I looked at me— A very soul, if souls there be. And when at Peter's gate I knock, And Peter's keys he holds the lock, And hear not my answering bark, I'll fare again into the dark. Until I find your dwelling place.

And when I find you where you dwell, Perchance in fields of asphodel, Perchance in fields of poppies, Perchance in fields of lilies, One eye shut—and one eye closed, But only one—and one eye closed, And I am on my knees—though gate be locked— When once you hear your master's word.

Perhaps they will not want me there, Perhaps not want you elsewhere, And so once more our way we'll wend, To end darkness, friend and friend, Nor lack for any light we two, So you have me and I have you, And if perchance we lose our way, Nor anywhere can find the day, Together we will fall asleep, The path to heaven we'll keep, Great sea of nothingness we two— You with me and I with you— Wake, Peter, in the Country Gentleman.

FOR A THAT

Is there for honest poverty, That hangs the head, and that, The coward slave, we pass him by, We turn our backs upon our friend, For a that, and a that, Our souls obscure, and a that; That's dark, and that's a that, The man's the governor a that!

A prince can make a better knight, A marquis duke, and a that; But an honest man's a goodly sight, That's dark, and that's a that, For a that, and a that, Their dignities and a that, The pluck and the guts, and a that, An' higher rank than a that.

Then let us pray that come it may— As come it will for a that— That sense and worth o'er the earth, May like the sun shine bright and that; For a that, and a that, It's coming yet for a that, That man to man, the world o'er, Shall brothers be for a that. —Robert Burns.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Children are not allowed in the street at Spittsburgh after dark." "And you wonder, do you?" "Huh!" "They have a safe months' night."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I am tempted to tell the landlord what I think of this rent raise." "Dear me, you don't mean to tell the young Mrs. Torkins? It's bad enough to give him your hard-earned money, without wasting any of your splendid eloquence on him."—Washington Star.

"Toothy, don't you know you took broke the picture book that you bought Mrs. Naylor for lending it to you." "There was nobody home, mamma, but the door was open so I went in and did the picture book on my right, and did 'Don't you and come away.'—Boston Transcript.

"You love to take long rambles in the country?" asked the impatient girl. "Yes, indeed," responded the young man, who still had the bird's nest, the huddled sheep, etc. "When I go out in the country all nature seems to smile." "Oh, really? I don't blame her. It's a wonder she don't laugh outright."—Los Angeles Times.

"His Mother—I can't make Bobbie stay on the sidewalk. He persists in walking in the mud with his new shoes on." "It's Father—you don't understand Bobbie's. Let me tell you. See here, Daddy doesn't want you to wear out your new shoes on these mud nerve-morix. You must walk in this nice soft mud. Now watch him."—Houston Post.

DEATH OF JOSEPH P. CARY

AT BREMERTON, WASHINGTON (Special to The Bulletin) South Hellingham, Wash., Jan. 17.—News of the sudden death of Joseph P. Cary at Bremerton was received last night by his family in this city. Mr. Cary who is a naval architect has been employed recently in the Bremerton navy yard and has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia during the past two weeks, but was not considered dangerously ill. His condition was such that he was expecting to come home in a few days to spend a period of convalescence. He suffered from a sudden release last evening and passed away. Mr. Cary moved to this city about three years ago from Winslow, Washington, and was during the period of the war, secretary of the shipbuilders' union in this city. The family home is at 1606 Donovan avenue.

Mr. Cary was a graduate of Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., and later graduated from Union Theological seminary. He married Harriet J. Gray, June 1, 1899 at Ledyard, Conn., and for a few years was a clergyman in the Congregational church.

He leaves besides the widow, a family of nine children. William, the eldest has recently entered the United States army and is stationed at Camp Jackson, South Carolina, in the 5th Division. The second son, Albert, graduates this week in the midyear class of Fairhaven High school. The other children are Anna, Allen, Frederick, Jerry, Elizabeth, Henry and Helen.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the residence of the widow, 1606 Donovan avenue. The following were elected for the ensuing year: President, O. S. Freeman, Bristol Press; secretary, treasurer, A. S. Barnes, Bristol Press; historian, E. G. Hill, New Haven Register; auditor, John E. Hearnan, New Canaan Advertiser; vice president, Hartford County, Robert Russell, New Britain Herald; New Haven county, W. J. Pope, Waterbury Republican; New London county, J. E.
