New Jamaica Stamps

To commemorate the completion of its sixtieth year of postal independence and separate stamp issues, a new set of adhesive stamps is being issued for the island of Jamaica. The designs have been made by a Jamaican artist, and each denomination will bear a picture illustrative of that West Indian island's progress. Only two or three values have thus far appeared. The complete set will embody a dozen or more values from the half penny to five shillings. The half penny and one shilling stamps have lately been put in circulation. The former contains a picture of the buildings erected at Kingston, the capital of Jamaica, for the great exhibition in 1891. The shilling stamp has a view of the statue erected on the island to Queen Victoria. The new 10-shilling stamp issued last year with a portrait of King George will be retained in use.

Jamaica's first postage stamp issue appeared in the fall of 1860. There were six or seven varieties in the set, the design of all being similar, a profile of Queen Victoria looking to the left. On the Queen's head is a wreath of laurel and in this respect, the first Jamaican issue is entirely different from those of all other British colonies, the portrait of the Queen on the latter being adorned with the profile of Queen Victoria looking to the right. The stamps of the early British colonial issues. The first issues were printed on paper watermarked with a pineapple, each stamp showing on the back the distinct outline of a pineapple, and these varieties are much scarcer than all later issues. From 1870 to 1893 the same stamp designs were printed on paper watermarked with the letters CC and after that date with the initials CA.

In 1900 the first pictorial stamp was issued for the island, being a one penny stamp bearing a view of the Landmark Falls in the district of St. Ann. The only King Edward stamp issued for Jamaica was a two-penny value printed in 1911. The King George set came out in 1912. Several of them were purchased with new values as war stamps during the war period and a commemorative peace stamp was issued in January, 1920, depicting a Jamaican contingent embarked upon a transport.—(New York Times).

THE BLUEBIRD

Listen a moment, I pray you; what was that sound that I heard?

Wind in the bending branches, the ripple of brooks or a bird?

Hear it again, above us! and see a flutter of wings!

The bluebird knows it is April, and soars toward the sun and sings.

Never the song of the robin could make my heart so glad;

When I hear the bluebird singing in spring, I forget to be sad.

Hear it! a ripple of music! sunshine changed into song!

It sets me thinking of summer when the days and their dreams are long.

Winged lute, that we call a bluebird, you lend in a silver strain

The sound of the laughing water, the patter of spring's sweet rain,

The voice of the winds, the sunshine, and fragrance of blossoming things.

Ah! you are an April poem, that God has endowed with wings!
