JUNE CASES FILED IN SUPERIOR COURT

Three suits for divorce and one for annulment of marriage, returnable before the superior court on the first Tuesday in June, are among new cases filed Thursday with Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the court.

Amanda Clark Whipple of Groton seeks divorce from Arthur N. Whipple who, she claims, deserted her on March 29, 1918. They were married in November, 1911. She asks custody of a 7-year-old son and alimony, claiming her husband is worth $1,000.

On the claim that her husband, Myron H. Beckwith of New London, committed a statutory offense at Montpelier, Vermont, between July 2, 1920 and May 1, 1921 with one Jane Stiles, and alleging habitual intemperance for more than a year past, Elsie May Kenson Beckwith of Stonington has entered a divorce petition. They were married at New London Jan. 8, 1916. She asks to have her name changed to Elsie May Kenson.

Irving S. Ortiz of New London seeks for divorce from Bertha M. Ortiz of Philadelphia on the grounds of desertion since April, 1916. They were married on June 18, 1915, the maiden name of the wife being Bertha M. Giberson.

Annulment of the marriage of Thomas J. Moore of 608 East 5th street, New York, married on Jan. 23, 1920, to Lillian Moore, whose maiden name was Kaplan, is sought by the wife, who is a minor of the age of 19 years. She brings the suit through her father, Max Kaplan. The claim is that Moore secured a marriage license on Jan. 13, 1920, from the Norwich registrar of births, deaths and marriages by misrepresenting the age of Lillian Kaplan as twenty-one years, when in reality she was only eighteen. They were married on Jan. 23, 1920, without either parent having given written consent to the marriage of their minor daughter. The petitioner asks to have her name changed to Lillian Kaplan.

For Partition of Property. Partition or sale of six tracts of property in New London is sought in a suit brought by William M. Hodden, Frederick Redden, Annie E. O'Connor and Ellen O'Connell of New London against Catherine R. Sullivan and Mary Davis Redden, individually and as guardian for Frances H. Redden and Daniel C. Redden. The property is on West High street, Coleman street, Warren street and Jefferson avenue.

Foreclosure in New London. The Ridgewood National Bank of New York sues Carl Rudolph Schultz and Minnie H. Schultz of New London for foreclosure of mortgage on property on Mott avenue, New London, for $325, and a receiver of rents on the property.

Three on Common Counts. The Twentieth Century Building Co. of Massachusetts sues John James O'Neil of Stonington on the common counts for $1,862, claiming this sum due them on Jan. 1, 1921.

Rose Mansfield of Stonington has a suit for $2,000 against John O'Neil of Groton on the common counts, claiming this amount due on April 23, 1921. The J. E. Fitzgerald Co. of New London is the plaintiff in a suit against West of Hartford for $1,498 on the common counts, claiming a debt due on May 9, 1921.

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $2,000 on a tract of land in East Lyme, containing about 150 acres on the highway from Flinders to Chesterfield is sought by Alice H. Cornwall of Greenwich, Conn. and James H. Gray of Brooklyn, N. Y. The defendants named are Samuel Dobbins of East Lyme, Evelyn Worth of Richmond, N. Y., Meyer Weintraub of Mount Vernon, N. Y., Julius Knudsen of Brooklyn, N. Y., Joseph Traiter of East Lyme, The Wallingford Mfg. Co. of Wallingford, Conn., and Oscar Hornbeck of East Lyme.
