SALE OF SUBMARINES

FLYING THE IRISH FLAG New York, June 21.—Two submarines, flying the Irish republican flag, maintain a regular undersea passenger service between this country and Ireland for officials and agents of the Irish republic, according to Capt. J. J. Shanley, wounded veteran of the Sixty-ninth regiment of the New York. He is also secretary of the New York council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. Eamon De Valera, "president of the Irish republic," arrived in this country in 1919 in an Irish submarine, Shanley declares, and left secretly for Ireland several months ago in the same fashion. Several other Irish diplomats have patronized the same line, he says. The line is still in commission and functioning regularly, although he refused to give any details about the present whereabouts of the vessels. There are others available for the same traffic in case of any rush of business, he asserted. Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who disappeared from the United States after he had been given until June 6 to depart for Ireland as a seaman by the republic, is believed to have returned to Ireland by the submarine route.

STATUS THAT DE VALERA DESIRES FOR IRELAND

London, June 21.—(By The A. P.) Christopher O'Sullivan, an Australian correspondent, in an interview with Eamon De Valera, the Irish republican leader, in behalf of an Australian news agency, asked him whether Ireland would accept a status similar to that of the British overseas dominions, to which Mr. De Valera replied: "No such status was to be offered Ireland. Until it becomes possible to transfer Ireland to the antipodes or another hemisphere, no such status can be realized." Asked what solution he proposed, Mr. De Valera replied: "A neutral Irish state, whose involability would be guaranteed by the United States and other states of the British empire and any other that could be secured as signatories. "Free Ireland would never allow its territories or harbors to be made the base of an attack upon England by an outside power." Mr. De Valera continued: "An invader's defense force would be many times as effective in keeping out an invader as any force England could put here, while in case of danger England's own forces would still be available. "Any sledge Ireland gives, Ireland will stand with an independent Ireland beside her. Great Britain will be more, not less, safe than she is from foreign attack."

LANDERS HAS STIRRED UP MAYOR OF PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, June 21.—An invitation has been extended to Judge K. M. Lander, high commissioner of baseball, by Mayor V. Bakcock, to stop in Pittsburgh on his return from New York to Chicago, to confer on the charges made yesterday by the commissioner that betting is permitted in the Pittsburgh baseball park without interference from the police. In a statement issued today, Mayor Bakcock said Judge Lander's statement was "untrue and entirely untrue" and based on "misinformation." A telegram directed to the commissioner at New York by the mayor conveyed an invitation to stop at Pittsburgh and assured him of the full cooperation of the part of the public safety department. Statements were issued also by Police Commissioner John C. Calhoun and Superintendent of Police Thomas J. Carroll, relative to the Lander charges, in which both assert they have attempted to eliminate betting at the ball park. One of the events of Yale's annual alumni day is always the reunion of the semi-centennial class. This year the class of 1871 will return nearly forty members strong and in every function of the commencement exercises the class will have the place of honor. At Stoughton Village the large barn, woodshed and milk house belonging to Stephen Sweet were burned to the ground several days ago with 21 cows, four calves, a horse and farming tools. Two large silos with ensilage and between 35 and 40 tons of hay were also burned. Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Fowler of Bayonne, N. J., who are visiting Mr. Fowler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Fowler, of Groton, will leave July 21 for Wanchuan, China, where Mr. Fowler has been appointed as director of physical education and military drill at Bogie university. Although the semi-centennial class of 1874 the oldest which will hold a formal reunion this year at Yale, the class of '54 is the oldest to attempt an informal gathering. The class has three survivors who met with their classmates, Rev. William R. Eastman, New Haven. Monday fifty-five members of Troop A, mounted, and those of Troop B dismounted in active riding. Both are in camp at Niantic. This is the first time that Troop A has been fully mounted since its organization. The members of Troop B divided into two groups and engaged in a sham battle on foot.

GEN. COLE PRAISES SPIRIT OF CONNECTICUT TROOPS

The spirit of the national guardmen at Camp Devens is as fine as that of any military organization I have ever seen," said Adjutant General Cole, speaking of his visit to the camp last week. General Cole said that though approximately 60 per cent of the 2,500 guardsmen were raw recruits, the morale of the entire force was such that by the end of two weeks he thought the rookies would be equally as good at drilling as their comrades with the benefit of previous training. The enthusiastic willingness to work was common to every single man at camp, General Cole declared, and the recreation which was given the governor at Liberty hall was a pleasure to one of the largest numbers to be taken on a trip to Niantic shortly to inspect the cavalry troops before they go to East Haven for rifle practice. Miss McKay's report showed that while handicapped because of a lack of funds a large amount of work had been accomplished. GEN. COLE PRAISES SPIRIT OF CONNECTICUT TROOPS

The spirit of the national guardmen at Camp Devens is as fine as that of any military organization I have ever seen," said Adjutant General Cole, speaking of his visit to the camp last week. "They are enthusiastic, healthy and happy, and are fast being whipped into shape." General Cole said that though approximately 60 per cent of the 2,500 guardsmen were raw recruits, the morale of the entire force was such that by the end of two weeks he thought the rookies would be equally as good at drilling as their comrades with the benefit of previous training. The enthusiastic willingness to work was common to every single man at camp, General Cole declared, and the recreation which was given the governor at Liberty hall was a pleasure to one of the largest numbers to be taken on a trip to Niantic shortly to inspect the cavalry troops before they go to East Haven for rifle practice. He has set no date as yet, however.
