CONNECTICUT YOUNG MEN MAY ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL

An opportunity for a useful vacation in new surroundings is being offered to young men of the state of Connecticut. In accordance with a provision of the naval appropriation bill just passed, the bureau of navigation has established two experimental summer schools for boys between the ages of 16 and 20 years at Great Lakes, Illinois, and Hampton Roads, Virginia.

The school has accommodations for about one thousand boys, and the course will be from four (4) to six (6) weeks in length. Instruction received will be largely practical, including subjects such as navigation, discipline, education of character and the cultivation of naval traditions. Recreation and religious instruction will not be neglected.

The quota of vacancies to be filled by the state of Connecticut is 22. In order to qualify for admission the applicant is required to enroll in the naval reserve force for the period of three (3) months; he must be of excellent character, and must pass the necessary physical examination.

Transportation to the training station must be paid by the accepted applicant, but the government will furnish uniforms, uniform, and other equipment at the school, also transportation back to his home. Boys enrolling for the summer school will be furnished with a written statement to the effect that they will be released from active duty by September first, and that they will be sent home at government expense.

It is probable, however, that all boys will be absorbed into the reserve force at the expiration of the course and will not be held longer than six weeks. Detailed information may be had by applying at the navy recruiting station, 18 Congress avenue, New Haven, or at the navy recruiting office, 19 Congress avenue, New Haven, or at the post office at any of the following cities: Hartford, New London, Waterbury, Ansonia, Bridgeport, and Stamford.

AWARD IN CLAIM FROM GROTON WORKMAN'S DEATH

In the workman's compensation claim from the death of Maurice McCarthy, an employe of the water and electric department of the borough of Groton, Commissioner J. J. Donohue has made an award in favor of Mr. McCarthy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McCarthy of 19 Konomoc street, New London.

The borough raised the question of serious and willful misconduct on the part of McCarthy at the time he was shocked to death at the Groton sub-station. The borough also disputed the question of dependency.

Commissioner Donohue makes an award of $12 per week for 312 weeks to the parents of the man, the accrued amount to be paid in a lump sum, and the balance in weekly payments. The sum of $109 towards funeral expenses is also to be paid as well as any bill for medical expenses.

Maurice McCarthy, who was 18, was the youngest child in the family working. The other children were Arthur, 25, a salesman, who had not contributed to his parents' support since he came back from France; poor health; Jeremiah, 20, who was employed by his uncle; Margaret, 15, and John, 11, who are school children.

There are a number of rated positions in the Combat Train including the following: one first sergeant, one sergeant major, six sergeants, seven corporals, 13 privates, first class, 33 specialist ratings. The latter include: conveyors, agents, assistant observers, communications corporals, scout corporals, chauffeurs, cooks, mechanics, and radio operators.

The work of building an addition to the armory is expected to start at once and on completion of this work the motor equipment will be sent here. There is room for about 15 men in the unit, particularly those who can qualify as radio operators, observers and mechanics. The armory will be open every night to receive enlistments in this interesting unit. Captain H. F. Burdick, the commanding officer, hopes to have the unit filled to maximum strength by July 1st. There are already a number of motorcycle and truck drivers in the company.

EPISCOPAL RECTOR TO HEAD FLORIDA SCHOOL

Rev. A. M. Blackford has resigned as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church at Wilmington, N. C., to become the director of the Episcopal school for the blind, established in the suburbs of Jacksonville, Fla., by the Episcopalians of that city.

Rev. Mr. Blackford will leave Wilmington July 1 going to Bristol, where during July and August he will be chaplain at the French Broad summer camp for young people. He will proceed to Jacksonville the first of September to take up his work there. Mrs. Blackford who was Miss Marian Perkins of Norwich, Conn., will go within the next few days to Connecticut to spend several weeks with relatives, and will join her husband in Jacksonville in the fall.

The rector and his wife, although they have been in Connecticut only about a year and a half, have come to be known and admired by hundreds of people, all of whom will heartily wish the latest rector to succeed in his new position. It is in Jacksonville he will also be on the staff of St. John's church of that city. Now in London, Waterbury, Ansonia, Bridgeport, and Stamford.

NEW GOVERNOR OF HAWAII

Wallace R. Farrington, of Honolulu, Hawaii, who has been nominated by President Harding to be Governor of Hawaii, succeeding George J. McCarthy, resigned. Mr. Farrington has been a resident of Honolulu for many years, and is publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

DRUGGISTS ARE PLANNING FOR ANOTHER CLAMBAKE

Such success has attended the clam-bake and outing held by the Norwich druggists, doctors and dentists in the past two summers, that plans are being made for another one this year. Last season the Pequotanuck drawbridge grounds were found to fill the bill so completely that they will probably be selected again this year and the date now contemplated is Thursday, July 29.

The druggists will close that day from noon to 6 o'clock so that all hands may attend the clam-bake and it is expected that every dentist and doctor in town will attend, while several from New London will also be there, and a number of traveling men of the druggist trade will make it a point to enjoy the hospitality of the Norwich men that day.

MADE STRUCK THE LIVE WIRES

Just how far for what reason McCarthy came in contact with the live wires cannot be stated or found, as no one saw the incident, and even the foreman and a fellow, who were working within a reasonable distance with their backs turned to McCarthy, are unable to give any more than a guess as to just how the fatal injury was received and just what caused it.

The commissioner finds that McCarthy used each article suggested and furnished by the employer to insure safety while performing the work in question, that he did not disobey any rules and that there is nothing to show that he was guilty of serious and willful misconduct. The facts that the gloves were not on his hands when he was picked up, that the foreman and fellow workmen are not able to state whether or not the board was used in just the manner suggested, although the superintendent states he is pretty sure there was a board up that McCarthy was standing on, that the automobile shoe had slipped off or become loosened from its original position in relation to the live wires, all of these facts fail to sustain any claim of serious and willful misconduct or disobedience to rules.

BAR HARBOR EXPRESS GOES THROUGH WITHOUT STOP

The Bar Harbor express is now running through this city over the Norwich and Worcester branch of the New Haven road, but does not stop here. Northbound the train goes through here at about 10 o'clock, leaving New London at 8:37. Norwich people wishing to go to Portland or beyond may go to New London to take the train there, but no tickets are sold for points short of Portland, and it is not possible to buy a ticket from New London to Worcester as no local business is done between New York and Worcester. Southbound the train

POETRY

SONG. Because the rose must fade, Shall I not love the rose? Because the summer blows, Passes when winter blows, Shall I not rest me there in the cool air?

Because the sunset glows, Makes music in my soul, Only to fall and die, Shall I not take the whole of beauty that it gives, While yet it lives?

Because the sweet of youth, Both vanish all too soon, Shall I not take the breeze, To learn its lingering tone; My joy to memorize in those young eyes?

If, like the summer flower, The blossom—a fragrant death, Keen music hath no power To live beyond its breath, Then of the flood of song Let me drink long!

Ah, yes, because the rose, Fades like the sunset skies; Because the summer blows, All bare, and music dies— Therefore, now is to me, —Richard Walton Glider, in Indianapolis News.

FULFILLMENT. Warm sunlight cupped in petals cool and sweet, Hot fragrances blown through blue and brilliant skies, To live beyond its breath, Then of the flood of song Let me drink long!

The twinkling leaves of birches in the dawn, Whose music shone silver and so fair; The shimmer of cool water in the dusk— And you have kissed my hair!

A flood of music mounting through the night, A lightning bolt borne from the sleeping south, On the wings of wind— And you have kissed my mouth!

The quiet lifting of your lowered eyes, Clearer than dew caught in a crystal bowl, And in your laughter, love, and stinging tears— And you have kissed my soul! —Caroline Nelson Francke, in Good Housekeeping.
