NORWICH BULLETIN WILLIMANTIC OFFICE Telephone 105 23 Church St.

Word has been received in this city that the body of Private (First Class) Safran Garmalinski, who was killed in France during the World war, has arrived at Hoboken, N. J. The body is expected to arrive in this city this (Thursday) evening, or some time Friday.

Private Garmalinski is survived by a mother, Frank Garmalinski of South Cereentry, formerly residing at No. 18 Elm street, this city. He leaves also his mother and father and two brothers living in Russia.

Private Garmalinski was born in Borsuck, Province of Simsk, Sept. 17, 1895. He was assigned to the draft of June 5, 1917, but soon after the notice came out that draft numbers would be assigned he went to New London where he enlisted in the regular army and was assigned to Company G, Sixth Infantry. Soon afterwards he went to France and was wounded in action, later dying of wounds. He was popular among the people of Russian nationality in this city. He was the first Russian from Willimantic to see the sun.

The R. P. O. Elks Co-Patry Fair opens tonight (Thursday) for a four days' run, continuing over Labor Day. The Elks have staged many big events in this city during past years but the country fair is the biggest event of the year, as Willimantic has no county fair. Since first buying land on Pleasant street the Elks have added to their holdings there and today Elks' Park is one of the prettiest spots in Willimantic.

The fair will start off with a street parade at 6:30 o'clock in which Willimantic, Putnam and Rockville Elks will participate. The parade will be furnished by the American band and the White Eagle Polish American band. The line of march will follow the main streets of the city, and will end at the entrance to Elks' Park.

855 GRANT ST., BUFFALO, N. Y.

"I have been paralyzed on the whole right side since April 30th. I referred the case to a physician who wrote me, advising the use of 'Fruit-a-tives'.

I would not be without 'Fruit-a-tives' for anything; no more strong cathartics or salts; no more bowel trouble for me.

I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to all. I feel more like 40 than 62, which I have just passed."

Friday Sept. 3, the new dormitory of the Willimantic State Normal school will be open for public inspection from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The new dormitory, long needed at the school, has been fitted completely during the past month, and will be ready for occupancy at the opening of the fall school term.

Until the building of the dormitory, students at the school had secured homes with local people residing near the school. The building of the dormitory is due largely to the work of Henry T. Burr, principal, and others who convinced the legislature of 1917 of the need of such a building. The appropriation was made, but the coming of the war prevented building at that time. Material costs climbed high and after the war the appropriation was no longer sufficient to pay for the cost of constructing the building. In 1919 an additional appropriation was made and work was soon begun, the expectations being that the dormitory would be ready for use by the fall term of 1920.

Difficulties delayed the completion of the building materials were slow in arriving, strikes were frequent and a shortage of expert mechanics prevented the completion of the building on time. The building as it now stands is one of the best dormitories in the country. The walls are constructed of terra cotta and brick, the floors are reinforced with concrete, and the building is fire-proof throughout.

The base floor contains the dining room, kitchen, serving room, storeroom, trunk room, and small laundry. The dining room is especially attractive, the flooring being of tile. Directly opposite the entrance from the lobby is a large open fireplace. The breakfast room has a southern exposure and sets the benefit of the morning sun. The kitchen and serving rooms are equipped with modern and sanitary conveniences.

The first floor contains a lobby, reception room, social room, the dean's suite, infirmary and students' rooms. The social room is a large room with oak floors, large open fireplace, beamed ceiling, and French windows opening on a terrace. The room is attractively and comfortably furnished. All students' rooms and reception rooms are similarly furnished.

Four colored women of the Daughters of Jerusalem, connected with the colored Church of God and Saints of Christ were in this city Tuesday and started to solicit funds for the Home for the Aged in Beltsville, Va. They were assisted by an officer and after a talk with Chief of Police Killourey and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton found out that the local men could not believe them to be on the level, so they returned to Hartford on an evening train. The letter from George A. Bunting, clerk of the circuit court of Nansemond County, Va., ended all hopes of fleeing people in this city and the efforts of the local police making sure of that.
