

YANKEES PREPARED TO MEET GIANTS

New York, Oct. 4 (By the A. P.)—After fifteen years of waiting to meet in the world's series, the Giants and the Yankees, winners of their respective league titles, will battle on the historic Polo Grounds tomorrow afternoon in the first of a series best five out of nine games which is expected to add record-breaking features to the diamond classic.

While close followers of baseball hold the opinion that neither the Giants nor Yankees of today are the best playing machines that made their world series history, such as the Athletics of 1910-11-13 under Connie Mack and the Chicago Cubs of 1906-7-8 when Frank Chance led one of the fastest and smoothest working infield combinations in the history of the game, the two local teams possess both the color and personality for a sensational and thrilling series.

been so steady and insistent that very few tickets have found their way to the speculators. It is generally conceded among the warring fraternity that the Giants and the Yankees are about evenly matched, advantage at a certain point for one team being offset by greater power or strength in another section of attack or defense of the rival combination. As a result, what betting is being done is at even money or very slightest of odds.

One enthusiastic admirer of the Giants may offer 10 to 9 on the chances of the Nationals, winning, while a few blocks away some Yankee rooter may think the bulwark of Babe Ruth warrants odds of 6 to 5 on the American chances. Attempts by the experts to analyze the chances of the two teams generally results in about the same situation of uncertainty and doubt. Not in recent years have two teams entered in the world's series with less apparent advantage one way or the other.
