

FAMOUS COX STABLE IN WINTER QUARTERS

Goshen, Dec. 21.—A string of thirty-two noted trotters, including several champions, arrived here yesterday by special express from Laurel Hill Farm, Indiana, and were taken to stalls already prepared for them at W. H. Crane's Good Time stable. This is the western contingent of the famous trainer, Walter R. Cox, who, as announced, will train over the local track for Mr. Crane.

Some of the more notable arrivals are Grey Worthy, 2:02 1/4, the season's fastest race trotter and second largest money earner; the Cox star of last year, McGregor, the Great, 2:02 1/4; H. Colorado, 2:01 1/4. Winner of five races this year; Jane the Great that topped eight race summaries last season; Great Vol. 3, full brother to Peter Vol. 3, who won the $12,000 season's colt stakes, which was bought at the last Old Glory sale by R. H. Moorehead for a Pennsylvania patron.

The western contingent of the Cox stable is owned in a majority of cases by eastern horsemen and will be prepared for racing along with the collection now owned by Mr. Crane, including among others the 3-year-old Laurel Hill, 2:02 1/4, which he bought in New York for $12,000.

Without further addition, it is now certain that Cox will have over fifty stable during the winter while the entire stable will be no doubt the finest ever trained by one man. A large gathering of Orange county horsemen lined the streets today to watch the arrivals led to the stable.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

New York, Dec. 21.—More liquidation to establish income tax payments, a temporary surge in money rates and additional cuts in commodity prices, especially oil and sugar, were factors in the day's reactionary stock market. Conditions in the steel and iron industry also have invited selling of those issues. Weekly trade receipts were disappointing, stacking of demand at Pittsburgh and other centers, most independent producers financing at about 75 per cent. of capacity. Reports from Detroit and other automobile manufacturing districts were of similar tenor.

The 6 per cent. opening rate for call money proved to be of short duration, funds being freely supplied at 5 1/2 per cent. in the open market by noon. As low as 5 per cent. was offered in private transactions, that rate also applying to short time accommodations. A few stocks, especially equipments, were strengthened by railroad orders, but most leaders among the oils, steels, motor, copper and food and chemical specialties came to three points, lowest quotations being made in the afternoon hour. Sales amounted to $59,000 shares.

Cumulative signs that the transportation companies are coming into the money market were noted in the proposed financing of New York Central, Louisville and Nashville and a number of the less prominent western and southwestern routes.

Private cables suggesting a deadlock in the European economic situation were reflected in the irregular flow of foreign exchanges. Sterling eased only slightly, but all other allied quotations were appreciably lower. The German rate, however, held steady.

The anti-bond market was subjected to further realignment. Liberty and other war flotations adding to yesterday's decline. Reactions in junior railroad bonds and convertible prospective financial demands, and a number of the low exceptions also noted. Total sales (par value) aggregated $18,275,000.

WALTER CAMP SELECTS HIS ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

In picking his All-American team in this month's issue of "Collier's Weekly," Walter Camp has the following to say about his selection: "In looking this team over we find that we are well protected against any possible contingency. And that is a factor that has made more champion teams than probably any other asset. First, we have a center who is absolutely accurate. Next a quarterback of sound judgment, a real general, and a man who is sturdy enough to last through a game or a season. We have a pair of ends who are absolutely certain to get down the field under kicks. We have four men in the back field, on kicks or forward passes by the opponents, any one of whom—Aldrich, Killinger, Kaw or Devin—is likely to turn a caught punt in mid-field into a long run. We have in Stein and Vick a pair of men, either of whom can play a roving position on the defense with telling effect, and we have in Schwab and Brown men who can stop up any gap in the middle, while in McGuire we have a tackle whom the interference cannot put out and who, in fact, is likely to break through that interference and down the runner.

Great Forward Passers

So much for the safety points of our eleven. As to their attack we have the highest pick of any gridiron field for its class in running ability and, superimposed upon this condition, we possess effective and deceptive forward passing. We have Muller for the long passes and also as a receiving end, with Roberts, Aldrich and Killinger to give the shorter type. Aldrich, especially for a fast, low diagonal one, while Muller, Aldrich and Killinger are all adepts at shooting through and receiving the pass. We have three good field goal kickers. We have two high-sped men and two sturdy ploughers, as to assistance in the running game. Kaw and Devin are especially good interferers. No man would ask you to work with a better pair of ends than Muller and Roberts, together with the tackles, McGuire and Stein, to aid in wing attacks. And certainly Schwab and Brown at guard and Vick at center.

Football Rules Should Not Be Changed

Before very long football doctors will go into consultation and the patient will be poked and prodded, examined and cross-examined to no end. At this time many things are discussed pro and con, and chief among them is the forward pass. Some are ranting as usual against the overhead weapon and want it sent to the gallows. But the vast majority of football men insist that the pass has done a lot to enhance the interest in the game. It has done much to equalize strength and so give the little fellow a chance.

POMERIE SATISFIED WITH CONDITIONS IN HAITI. Washington, Dec. 21.—Satisfied with conditions now prevailing in Haiti and the Dominican republics was expressed today by Senator Pomerehne, democrat, a member of the special senate committee which visited the republics to investigate conditions, and which has now returned after spending two weeks there.

Further hearings are to be held here when it is expected that the two countries will testify. The committee will also confer with Secretary Hughes in a few days, but the senator did not indicate what subjects would be discussed.

The American occupational force has done excellent work, the senator asserted, not only in the way of road building but in sanitation, hospitalization and education, accomplishing more in five years than had previously been achieved in one hundred and fifty years.

Testimony offered before the committee in both countries, he said, was indefinite and much of it of a hearsay character. There was, however, he added, one well established case of cruelty practiced by the eastern part of the Dominican republic. The captain, he explained, had ordered the killing of men without trial in 1918. There was considerable delay in the reporting of these crimes, the senator added, but the military government when advised immediately ordered the arrest of the offending officer, who committed suicide upon taken into custody. The senator related instances of barbarous cruelties conducted upon Americans by the native bandits or caudos, but expressed the opinion that reports of atrocities charged against Americans were largely exaggerated.

The American occupational forces have worked remarkable results out only in the reduction of the national debt, he asserted, but in honesty of administration of revenue matters.
