NORWICH POULTRYMEN HEAR EXPERT

Western eggs are beginning to compete with newly laid Connecticut eggs.

Mr. G. Davis, of Storrs College, in an address on the Egg Marketing Situation.

Members of the Norwich Poultry Club at the meeting which was presided over by President Arthur E. Fellows of Plain Hill.

Don Frazer of the Perry Lake Farm, a cartoonist, entertained the gathering with a number of free hand drawings.

Records of the flocks owned by the club members were then checked up on the board, together with the cost of production.

Part of the program furnished the basis for an interesting and instructive discussion.

Marketing of Eggs.
Mr. Davis was then introduced. He spoke on the marketing of eggs.

Connecticut markets are the best in the world for Connecticut eggs, said Mr. Davis.

The ways in which Connecticut eggs are sold at the present time are direct to consumers, to hotels, restaurants, etc.

Western eggs are beginning to compete with newly laid Connecticut eggs.

Several carloads per week are arriving from the Pacific coast and are going into New York and other markets.

As yet they are not reaching as far as Providence or Boston, since these two markets cater to the brown egg trade.

Cost of production is about the same in California as it is in New England.

From the California producer is transported to the eastern markets.

At the present time, however, due to strong egg marketing organizations here, the advantages over the eastern producer.

You should not be much concerned, however, by California eggs, if we look at the production in the United States in different sections.

Taking the production in the United States by regions we find in the West North Central States and the East North Central States a tremendous production.

Many times over that of the entire east or of New England. In fact in these two sections, the increase in egg production during the past few years has been almost as great as that of New England production at the present time, which is about 55,000,000 dozens the year.

East North Central States and West North Central States should begin to use the same method as the Pacific coast producer, what will happen?

Another part of the United States which would also be considered is the south. In four counties of Alabama and Georgia at the present time egg marketing organizations are being built up.

Ohio also has a large amount of educational work is being done through a farm bureau in egg marketing. Forty-four counties in Ohio are conducting this sort of work at the present time.

In one trial case which was shipped on to New York from one of these counties as a result of an egg grading and marketing demonstration, 200 dozen were netted to the producer.

The foregoing drives home to us the necessity of revamping our methods of handling eggs on our markets at the present time. If we are to meet this western competition which is growing and which we must meet, our organization will be absolutely necessary.

What are our poultry producers going to do about the present situation?

As an example of western methods and organization we might cite the following:

Recently western eggs were bought by country buyers, or by country stores or by country stores, etc., and then they were turned into a packing house and following this were shipped and sold to the big dealers.

Mr. Swan testified that he knew nothing about the litigation between the Groton Iron Works which began before his time.

Treasurer Dexter L. Root of New London said that he receives a salary of $7,800 a year but that he did not receive a check without authorization from the New York office.

Attorneys for creditors of the Groton Iron Works tried to obtain an order by which they could garnish the books of the concern which are in New York.

The books showing the business affairs of the concern and which were at the Groton plant are in their care at present.

COLCHESTER FINE FACE

Officers of the Colchester Chamber of Commerce and other citizens of the town received a shock Saturday when they were told that it was the intention of the New Haven railroad to discontinue passenger service on the Colchester branch.

The citizens men General Passenger Agent Coley, Superintendent Regan and Master of Transportation Holiday at the Colchester railroad station Saturday morning.

A spirited discussion followed the announcement by the railroad people. The Colchester people felt that this was a serious blow to the town, but the railroad officials were of the opinion that as the state had just built a new cement road through the town, they could easily go to New London or Hartford to take trains for New York and Boston as to the Colchester station. It was claimed that it costs $2 a mile to run passenger service on the Colchester branch.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation. If your hair is fading, streaked or gray, mix the Sage Tea and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. Darkening your hair with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes luxuriantly dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

LESTER & WASLEY CO. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Stockholders of the Lester & Wasley company held their annual meeting on Monday, at which the reports of the officers were submitted and approved.

The company has had a good year. A 5 per cent dividend for the past year has been distributed.

The directors of the corporation are: Frederick W. Lester, Howard L. Stanton, Percival W. Chapman, George W. Armstrong and Harry W. Cardwell.

At the meeting of the directors the officers were re-elected as follows: President, Frederick W. Lester; vice president, Howard L. Stanton; secretary-treasurer, Percival W. Chapman; superintendent, George W. Armstrong; Charles I. Smith was elected auditor.

Discouraging Forgery.
A message from Prague states that a method has been discovered of making more difficult the passing of forged bank notes, says a Copenhagen correspondent to the London Telegraph.

The invention consists of imbedding in the paper on which bank notes are printed quantities of fine steel and nickel particles. Such paper responds to the attraction of a magnet, and any one can thus easily test the genuineness of a note.

Steam Deflects Lightning.
It would seem that a building 9,000 feet above the sea level should be protected by lightning rods, but the astronomical observatory at Mount Etna has not, and does not, need such protection. The observatory is near the summit of the volcano, and the steam of vapor constantly rising from the crater acts as a natural conductor, draining the electricity out of the clouds, so that lightning is seldom seen there.

The young man who gets a good start in life doesn't always make a satisfactory finish.

PARISH ROSARY SOCIETY RE-ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

Nearly 200 members of the Rosary society of St. Patrick's parish, assembled Sunday afternoon for the annual meeting in the society rooms in the basement chapel. The president, Mrs. John A. Moran presided. Between 30 and 40 people were present.

The society. All the officers were re-elected: Mrs. John A. Moran, president; Mrs. James J. Casey, of Cedar Street, vice president; the society secretary, Rev. M. H. May is the treasurer of the organization.

Father May gave an inspiring talk on the rosary, which has greatly advanced in interest and activity under the direction of Mrs. Moran, who is the choice for president for the third year. The object of the organization is spiritual progress and good works and during the year this society has contributed $50 to the Irish Relief Fund, $50 to St. Mary's new Memorial church, and $25 to the St. Patrick's Connemara Council of Catholic Women.

It was voted during Sunday's meeting to make a donation to Rev. Father Markey for the costly repairs on St. Patrick's church.
