Experience of a Much Loved Elderly Clergyman
REVEREND GRANVILLE PIERCE is widely known and beloved in the sections of Massachusetts embracing Warwick, Branc Rock, Marshfield and Orange.

"I had been suffering nearly a year from nervous exhaustion, which in its development had seriously affected the nerves of the stomach and bowels. There was a general depression, with irregular heart action. I was exceedingly constipated, suffered intensely from flatulence, or gas in the stomach, and my appetite had almost deserted me.

"Two months spent at the sanatorium brought an improvement, but when I returned to Warwick, in the latter part of August, my trouble soon became as bad as ever. I commenced taking Salsal early in October. There was an almost immediate improvement. In two weeks I felt decidedly better. The whole tone of the system had improved; appetite was better and I felt considerably stronger.

As an alternative tonic and appetizer, I have never known the equal of Salsal."

The first parcel post shipments of day-old baby chicks are being received in Griswold. One Jewett man who has been buying them for several years says it is remarkable how fine they are, even from points as far distant as the west coast of Jersey or central Maine.

There are some who believe that a hen which is better policy to purchase a much older chicken, even if the cost is more. However this may be, it is a fact that the average age of the local fowls is a few years, and which local farmers a few years ago deemed indispensable to the raising of chickens for egg production and for supplying the fall poultry trade. A glance at the many accumulated piles of boxes and barrels in many a shed and barn in this section will disclose the vast quantities of day-old chicks which have been raised in the district. Only a few years ago this perfecting machine for hatching 250 eggs at one time cost even as high as $40. It would be a slight worth seeing for many a local raiser to visit New York some night during the height of baby chick raising in New Jersey, and there, at the Pennsylvania station, which is the gateway for eastern distribution, note the tens of thousands of day-old chicks being packed up by parcel post to all over the country.

PLAINFIELD
Perhaps the most noteworthy evidence of spring was the meeting of the baseball committee in the Community house on Friday evening to determine the policies for the season. Leo Roney, last season's manager in the 12-12 team, chosen captain again for the coming season. It was decided to run a strictly amateur team again this year. Practice is to be held two night a week in the local gymnasium. The team will start in first class shape as soon as the ground opens up in April.

The committee wants to have a big revival in baseball this season and all endeavor will be offered to keep every body interested in the sport. The first and second team will take the field. The "Buddies" who have had such a star basketball team will put a baseball nine on the turf that will take the measure of any 12-12 year old teams in the sector. The youngsters in the village have organized as the Cubs and the sporting fans believe that they have some embryonic leaguers among them.

The house committee of the Community Association will have a minstrel show and dance in May to defray expenses for uniforms for the baseball team. A production company will send a coach to guide the minstrel team to Battle West. The "Minstrel Revue" has been selected. This performance will require a cast of 125, all of whom will be selected from the people of the village. After the great success of "All About" in January the committee feels confident of making this even bigger. With the entire baseball aggregation helping them, it should be possible to pack the house twice in every night.

The prices of cigarettes dropped considerably Saturday. Several of the local stores had a big "lower than cost" sale. Most of the smokers stocked up. The baseball team is to battle West Wednesday evening to meet the teams of that city. The Buddies will meet the Baltic Bantams and the big team will play the house twice in every night.

Friday the North Groverdale Independents came to Plainfield. The Rusty Five from the same town will meet the Buddies Saturday afternoon. TUBERCULOSIS REACHES INDOOR WORKERS SOONER THAN OUTDOOR
Indoor workers break down from tuberculosis at a much earlier age than outdoor workers and, among indoor workers, clerks are struck at much earlier age than such laborers as molders or even weavers or grinders.

These statements were made at a meeting of the medical staff of the state tuberculosis sanatorium Monday by Doctor Hugh B. Campbell, who is superintendent of the sanatorium where the records of patients during the ten years since the institution was established. The records are regarded as forming a valuable contribution to American investigations of the ages and occupations of victims of tuberculosis.

In general, the statistics of Doctor Campbell indicate that the average age at which clerks are stricken with the disease is about 30 years. While the average age of outdoor victims is about 40 years.

The principal paper which was read at the meeting of the state sanatoria was one that caused the liveliest discussion was a second report made by the medical force of the sanatorium on the antagonism of the epidemic of tuberculosis to the tubercle bacillus.

The first report was made at a similar meeting of the state sanatoria officials several months ago and related to extended investigations made in the traditional hostility of the cod liver oils to the tubercle bacillus and the so-called cod liver treatment.

The questions whether the oil's inhibitory power on the development of the tubercle bacillus was due to the radioactivity of the oils, or to some chemical reactions, or to some mysterious soapy or emulsifying power of the oils were argued at length by the tuberculosis experts of the five state sanatoria. There seemed to be no proof available from the extended investigation which have been conducted to the effect that the cod liver oils have any radio activity. Some of the specimens of the soaps which were developed and manufactured from the cod liver oil produced in the Norwich sanatorium were exhibited and the reasons were given for considering that these soaps possibly contained the important ingredient of the cod liver oil.
