HUMOR OF THE DAY

"The lecturer waxed eloquent on the sordid accumulation of wealth."
"But he was not consistent."
"Why not?"
"If he had been consistent he would have shown more fortitude when he discovered that the collection amounted to $448 in money, a counterfeit quarter and three trouser buttons."—Birmingham Age Herald.

He loves a girl.
Day and night he thinks of her. His mind dwells ever upon her beauty. He bites his nails.
Her presence always is with him. He thinks of her the first thing in the morning; he dreams of her in the night, when the loon screams across the lake.
With all the devotion of his soul he loves her, but she does not make him happy.
For he is a miser, and she is the woman on the silver dollar.—Richmond Times Dispatch.

He—This magazine says that a woman should make herself as attractive to her husband after marriage as she did before.
She—Ha! My father always gave me plenty of money to make myself attractive with. You don't.—Boston Transcript.

An old yokel saw a motor car for the first time in his life. It came dashing up the main street and disappeared in a cloud of dust.
"Well," said the yokel, "the horses must ha' been gone" a good speed when they got loose from that carriage!—London Times.

"What did you do with that man you caught dealing from the bottom of the deck?"
"We paid his transportation to Grand Forks. That crowd over there is so crooked that they need comin' up with."—Washington Star.

Miss Flight (to cashier)—So many drafts go through your cage, don't you catch cold?
Mr. Smart—Not at all. You see, I'm continually wrapped up in my work.—Boston Transcript.

"Rastus," said the judge "I want you to come clean. Were you in that chicken coop?"
"Ah was boss, 'deed Ah was. But Ah did nothing wrong."
"Didn't you steal a chicken?"
"Yes, Ah did. Ah counted thirteen birds, and Ah cided that was an unlucky number fo' a man to have."—Judge

Motorist—Fifteen hundred miles and never had to use a wrench. Worth $100 as it stands. What'll you give me for it?
Friend—Prepare for a shock, old man! I'll give you $10.
Motorist—Prepare for another — I'll take it.—Punting Show (London).

"Funny they should make so many errors," said a girl at the football game.
"What do you mean, errors?" asked her escort.
"Why, they do it wrong so many times and the umpire sends them back to do it all over again."—Boston Transcript.

"What is Bibble's reputation for truth and veracity?"
"Fairly good."
"What do you mean by 'fairly good'?"
"I'll believe anything he says except when he starts talking about the superior qualities of his home brew."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The "flying pay" of an aviator in the United States navy is $100 a month.
The surface of the Dead sea is 1496 feet lower than the surface of the Mediterranean.
A larger number of patents are granted in the United States each year than in any other country.
William Henry Harrison was the oldest man ever chosen for the presidency of the United States, being 68 at the time of his inauguration in 1841.
The Imperial valley, California, alone produces cantaloupes enough to supply one in each inhabitant of the United States, with many millions over.
Toy balloons for golfers are not for the benefit of those who find the regulation ball too small to hit; they are fastened over the flag to guide golfers unfamiliar with the course.
Italy is the land of "white coal" and in the course of a few years it is predicted that the waterfalls of the country will be hard at work. Better industries and cheaper travel are promised.
Probably the greatest master of languages the world ever has known was the renowned Cardinal Massembani (1774-1842), who is said to have known 114 languages or dialects, and 50 well.
"The Marseillaise," the grand anthem of the French revolution, was composed by Rouget de Lisle, an officer of artillery stationed at Strasbourg. It was named by the people in Paris in the mistaken idea that it had originated in Marseilles.
As the Roman calendar originally began with March, the month which we know as September was the seventh, and owes its name to this fact—as do October, November and December, which were to the earlier Romans the eighth, ninth and tenth months.
The word "honey" owes its origin to honey. The ancient Romans used honey in great quantities, and as much of it was adulterated with wax, he was accounted an honest man who sold his honey pure. In this way the word "honey" passed into our language, for it signified "honest" or "pure."
After his handshaking tour of Canada, the Prince of Wales could scarcely move his arm for days. A health expert states that the American custom of handshaking contributed toward the death of Roosevelt and Curran and is responsible in part for Woodrow Wilson's ill health. "It breaks down the nerve system and causes disease," he says.—Scientific American.
