BODY OF MONTVILLE WOMAN IS FOUND IN THAMES RIVER

About 2 o'clock Monday afternoon the body of Nellie M. Auwood, wife of Walter J. Auwood of Montville, was found floating in the Thames river, not far from the vicinity of the Central Vermont railroad station at Uncasville. The body was found by a man employed by the Central Vermont road. He with another employe of the road, pulled it to shore and the authorities were notified.

The body was identified shortly afterwards as that of Mrs. Auwood, who had been missing from her home since April 12th. Undertaker C. A. Gager, Jr., of this city, was given permission to remove the body.

Coroner J. J. Desmond of this city was notified and conducted an investigation later in the day. Coroner Desmond said Monday evening that the indications were that Mrs. Auwood committed suicide.

AUTOMOBILE ABANDONED BY ROADSIDE AT FITCHVILLE

By a telephone message from Mrs. Short of Fitchville, the Norwich police were notified Monday afternoon that a Maxwell touring car was standing in the road near her home and apparently had been abandoned. It had been there all day, she said. Its registration number being S 1234, it was in the machine so that it could be operated if anyone called to claim it.

According to this registration number the car is the property of Norton Pierce of Niantic. Efforts to locate Norton Pierce were unsuccessful. Niantic people who were communicated with said they knew no one of that name in the town. Mrs. Short said the car had the letters C. W. H. on it.
