ACCUSED PUT TO PLEA ON FIRST DAY OF CRIMINAL COURT

The May criminal term of the superior court opened at New London Tuesday morning with Judge Frank D. Haines on the bench and about twenty-five new cases on the docket. Prayer was offered at the opening of court by Rev. J. Remyan Danforth.

Eleven prisoners were in the pen, while a number of others were out on bail, most of whom were present in court, though in one instance the bond was called, while in another a similar situation developed, with counsel for the prisoners being called by the state attorney, if possible, in every instance, where defendants were arraigned, pleas of not guilty were entered, with some electing trial by the court and others by jury.

State Attorney Haskel A. Hull arraigned a rather lengthy list of defendants, including a number of New London prisoners, though presentation of a few defendants was deferred owing to absence of counsel for other reasons that were satisfactory to the court. The first prisoner called by the state attorney was Herman Bergman, a minor, 16 years of age, from Groton. Bergman was charged with theft of a bag valued at $5 and containing a few articles, used by the person of Maria Allen of Groton. A plea of not guilty was entered, and trial by the court was elected.

Charles Pittsford, charged with indecent assault, was not arraigned, owing to absence of counsel, while the same case was followed in the case of the state vs. Gordon Foster, charged with forgery. Both cases were put over until Wednesday.

Samuel Greenberg of Colchester, charged with statutory rape upon the person of Josephine Barber of that place.

CLEAN MOUTHS IMPORTANT
SAYS SANATORIA DISTRICT
At a meeting of all of the medical staffs of the various state tuberculosis sanatoria with the state tuberculosis commission held Tuesday at the Meriden State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Dr. Thomas Power of New Haven, who is chief of the five state sanatoria, presented a report of his work during the last year and discussed the importance of clean mouths and good dentistry in the cure of the people suffering with tuberculosis. Dr. Cole B. Gibson, superintendent, and Dr. William E. Carroll, assistant superintendent, of the Meriden sanatorium, which is exclusively for children, discussed the diagnosis of tuberculosis in children with special reference to its differentiation from diseased tonsils, and the treatment of the latter condition during the course of active tuberculosis. In addition to the members of the state tuberculosis commission and the medical staffs of the state sanatoria, Dr. P. T. Bradstreet of Meriden attended the meeting and expressed in complimentary terms his opinion of the work being done by the tuberculosis workers.

ROOF ON FIRE AT NORTH MAIN ST. BUILDING
An alarm from box 27, located on the North Main street fire station, called out the fire department Tuesday afternoon at 1:24 o'clock for a fire on the roof of the state sanatorium building on North Main street. The department laid a line of hose from the old Boston type of hydrant near the Scott & Clark building but was unable to get any water from the hydrant.

This caused a delay of a minute or two as firemen had to use another hydrant further up the street. The blaze was quickly under control. It is thought that the roof caught fire from sparks from a passing locomotive.

A number of automobiles that were in the building were taken out to places of safety.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY REPORTS ON YEAR OF ACTIVITY

A year of activity, during which $300 was paid towards the pledge for the new building was shown in the annual report of the secretary, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton, at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, held at the Y building Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, who has been the efficient president of the auxiliary for two years, presided at the business meeting which was presided by an illustrated talk by E. A. Stanley of New Haven, state secretary of boys' work, who spoke on the Y. M. C. A. state camp for boys, Camp Hansen. He showed about 40 views of the camp, most of the pictures have been taken by Harwood Dolbear of this city, who was in charge of one of the camp departments. Other Norwich boys to appear in the pictures were Russell Rathburn, camera bugler, and L. Edwin Hill, physical director for a time at the camp.

Mrs. Stanton gave her report as follows: Seven meetings of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. were held during the year, 4 at private homes and one at the Y building, and were largely attended.

The December meeting which was to be held at the home of Mrs. Will L. Stearns was omitted, the members of the auxiliary had gathered at her home for the meeting, just previous to the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Stearns passed away suddenly, leaving a large sum of money to the auxiliary as she had always taken an active and interested part in all its activities. At the January meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. E. P. Blanton it took the form of a memorial for Mrs. Stearns.

There were eight meetings of the board, one being held each month previous to the regular meeting.

Mr. Hill, general secretary, took an active and helpful part at the meetings, holding the devotional exercises and speaking of the aims and purposes of the association. The auxiliary has a membership of 54.

A silver collection was taken at each meeting which is to go toward replenishing the silverware and china which is necessary.

LIQUOR TAX POINT TO BE DECIDED BY COURT
The legality of whether United States collector of Internal Revenue, Robert O. Eaton may issue warrants in distraint for the collection of unpaid internal revenue taxes and unpaid taxes, is the subject of a decision of the United States District court of appeals. The question is now pending before United States District Judge Edwin R. Thomas in a motion for an injunction against the collector, and regarding the validity of the warrant which is understood, plans for an appeal have been perfected.

The collector has issued more than 500 warrants in distraint for the collection of unpaid income taxes. These warrants served by the collector permit a deputy collector to seize such property as is subject to such property as would insure the collection of unpaid income taxes. Section 25 of Title 5 of the national prohibition law provides a tax of $1,000 for the sale of such liquor. One point at issue is whether the collector has a right to seize such property in addition to such penalties as may be imposed in the courts.

The matter came to the attention of Judge Thomas in the application of Attorney John R. Jacobs of Waterbury for an injunction to prevent the collector from issuing a warrant on James Donohue of Waterbury for collection of taxes in a rooming house in which he has been operating a still for the production of alcohol.

It is the contention of the collector that the collector is assuming judicial functions and the collection and seizure of such property without a hearing. The government maintains the collector has a right after paying the tax to apply to the collector for a refund, or to sue the collector in the federal court.

NORWICH DELEGATION TO RED MEN'S GREAT COUNCIL
A delegation representing Norwich, No. 54, H. O. R. M. of this city, left here by automobile Tuesday afternoon for the annual convention of the great central meeting at South Newwalk, where 1,500 Red Men are expected to be present. Mohrman is the youngest in the delegation, but has a membership of 25 with 8 on the waiting list for the adoption degree.

The great inebriation degree was to be worked at midnight Tuesday at the general council meeting at South Newwalk with a class of 125 candidates, and the general sessions of the convention will continue on Wednesday.

The Norwich Red Men to attend the South Newwalk gathering were R. D. Harris, Daniel A. Dean, Joseph A. George, Ernest E. Bullard, Dr. R. R. Kipwood, Dr. Louis T. Cassidy and Fred Nowatzky.

POETRY

Nay, lose my hand and let me go! God's glories pierce and brighten. I want my house, my fire, my bread, My deeds to wash and whiten.

I liked the dusty roads of earth, The brilliant and the familiar, I liked the flowers that used to fade, The small lamp in the gloaming.

The fields of God they blind my eyes, Dross in this heavenly village, I want the stars, the blue firmament, Of the doorways of our village.

Where are the accustomed common things, The drink together, The old shoes that he had for me, The asp for rainy weather?

Dear were our stumbling human ways, His words impetuous hurry, His words, the kind generous brow, The step too eager hurry.

O all arched with such wings, Your beauty is too burning! Give me once more my threadbare dress And the sound of his feet restraining.

THE BARBERRY BUSH
The barberry bush is a gray, old thing, Fantastic, poised as a dancer, to spring in a whirling rotation of billowy grace. A shimmer of green are her arabesque race lines.

All through the summer she beckons, the spirit, Then comes when we answer and laugh at our plight, Then the barberry's jewels come dangling and she darts and flutters them and toasts her head.

"No use to bind her with painstaking care, For she will have her feeters like gems in her hair, And, perchance through her fingers, so slender, she'll show that stern winter winds drive.

—Adele Middleton Russell, in New York Sun.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Gladys—I wish I knew how to do some of the conceit out of that young Dr. Folsom.

Helen—All you have to do is to call him "Mister"—Judge.

"I asked you to send me young lettuce. I say, ma'am, wasn't it young you got?"

"It's almost dead enough to wash and dress itself."—Boston Transcript.

"Why does old Tighthead always pull such a long face when he goes into a barber shop?"

"He wants to get as much for his money out of a shave as possible."—Florida Times-Lion.

"The ideas of men and women will always differ in one respect," said Miss Foxworth.

"What is that?"

"When a man goes out to enjoy himself he wants his old clothes, and a woman man goes out with new ones."—Washington Star.

"Cholly—I should really like to see myself as others see me, don't you know?"

Miss Keen—You wouldn't get yourself a second glance.—Boston Transcript.

From Harrogate comes a report of a prehistoric monster that is still alive. It must have had a prehistoric monkey gland operation.—Toledo Blade.

Mrs. Nylved (to husband who has taken a bite of her first cake)—"You can't eat your cake and have it, too, like Mr. Nylved—A lovely thought, dearest. I believe I prefer to have it.—Life.

Magistrate—Did the prisoner offer any resistance?

Officer—Only a half a dollar, yer honor, and I wouldn't take it.—London Answers.

I believe in absolute candor. I don't declare Miss Cayenne, my knee, necktie and neck and my calves are thin. I prefer to wear my skirts longer.—Washington Star.

City Man—I suppose you find your automobile a great improvement over your old horse, farmer?

Farmer—Wal, in some ways, yet, and in other ways no. I can't get up sleep on my way home from town and get up in the barnyard like I could with old Dobbin.—Boston Transcript.

"Why don't you get yourself a new silk hat?"

"I would," replied Senator Sorghum, "if I could find one built on prairie grass. A new silk hat makes a man look like a society favorite. If you want to look like a statesman your hat must have the shape worn years ago."—Washington Star.
