

WESTERLY

At the concert of the Westerly Musical club Monday evening in the High School hall, Edward Morris gave a brilliant piano recital. The hall was filled, many musicians being among those present. His complete mastery of the piano was evident and his rendering of the most difficult compositions was marvellous. Mr. Morris, with his family, has spent many months here and his concert was appreciated by the audience of friends who gave him many encores.

The Westerly Board of Trade met Tuesday evening in the town hall. Plans for the annual banquet were made. It is to be held about the middle of June at the Ocean house. The members discussed plans pertaining to the Manufacturers' Exhibit room. This project is to exhibit what the firms make in the Westerly mills, which will help to stimulate business and show the people here what is made in its local industries. The room was not taken up at this time. The question of getting appropriations from the state for dredging the Pawcatuck river was talked of and action was taken on the by-laws so as to have the meetings held the first Monday in the month instead of on Tuesday. The matter was carried. Harvey Perry was chairman of Wells Fowler was secretary. The usual bills were voted paid.

Several from here went to the fire at Richmond Tuesday. The fire was started at 1 p. m. by the two boys, one 4 and the other 3 years of age, who started a fire in the barn which was only 50 feet from the house. Mrs. Douglas saw the flames and pulled one of the children from the barn, but was unable to reach the other child, the flames beating her back and the boy was burned to a crisp. His limbs were burned off and the head was so intense that the skull bones rolled up. The Douglas family has resided there only a short six weeks. The fire spread beyond the house and crept into the woods and about 300 acres were burned over. Herbert W. House, medical examiner, visited the place and gave permission to remove the body.

This (Thursday) evening the Historical society will meet in the Memorial library, when recent gifts to the society will be exhibited. Orlando R. Smith will give a talk on "Early New England Churches," showing many pictures.

The children of Mrs. A. F. Bute's dancing class gave an entertainment Saturday evening in Quonochontaug Grange hall. The pupils received much praise for their work. Music was by Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bute, Charles H. Bute and William Bute of Providence.

A number of non-commissioned officers of the 34th Co. R. I. N. G., whose enlistment period ends June 3, will accept their discharge. Many of these are experienced men who enlisted in the National Guard for one year.

State Commander Luke Colgan and staff were guests of Merrill post, No. 18 A. L., Wednesday evening at the new club rooms. At the close of the business session there was a smoker. The entertainment was of high order. The evening closed with refreshments. Many ex-servicemen attended the meeting and enjoyed the evening's program.

There have been five arrests and all the men were charged with attempting by threats and intimidations to prevent persons from entering upon and pursuing their employment upon such terms and conditions as they thought proper. The arrests of these defendants, it is claimed, is the result of instructions given the police by town officials to arrest immediately any one making threats or intimidating any one in pursuit of his daily labor. The men were all Italians and twelve secured bail, which was placed at $500 each. Judge Williams in one case where a weapon was removed from one of the men, fixed the bail at $1,000.

Plans are being made for the new parochial school building drive. Monday evening a mass meeting will be held at the State Armory on Dixon street at which Governor Son Smead, Judge John W. Sweeney, Judge Capotosto and Attorney John J. Fitzgerald of Providence, will be the principal speakers. A handsome brick building of modern design, equipped with every conceivable improvement is called for in the plans. This will be an added beauty to the street. The front of the building will face on Dixon street with the side entrance on High street and will cover the entire tract of land on the corner. Twelve class rooms will be provided and the grades will take in the kindergarten and high school. A fine large auditorium will be a feature, also fully equipped gymnasium, domestic science room, chemical laboratories, and a lunch room besides the class rooms and offices.

The superior court for Washington county opened here Tuesday at the court house on Union street. Judge Edward Blodgett on the bench. The appeal case of state Thomas E. Brown complainant, vs. Nicola Costagano, charged with robbery and mayhem, alleged to have been committed upon the person of James Arnold, was opened.
