What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants a friend of sun and sky; He plants the flag of the breezes free; The shaft of beauty, towering high; He plants a home to heaven anigh For the song and mother-croon of bird In the husband and happy twilight heard— The treble of heaven's harmony— These things he plants who plants a tree.

What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants cool shade and tender rain, And seed and bud of days to me, And years that fade and flush again; He plants the glory of the plain; He plants the forest's heritage; The harvest of the coming age; The joy that unborn eyes shall see— These things he plants who plants a tree.

What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants, in sap and leaf and wood, In love of home and loyalty And far-cast thought of civic good— His blessings on the neighborhood When in the hollow of His hand Holds all the growth of all the land— A nation's growth from sea to sea Stirs in his heart who plants a tree.

HUMOR OF THE DAY "Could you let me have a five-spot for a few days?" asked Bitternab, in a confidential whisper. "Here it is," staved Mr. Grumpson, at the top of his voice. "Thanks, but why so loud?" "I was hoping it'd be able to impress the transaction on your memory."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mrs. Brown—"I must say my husband is most economical. Does your husband save much?" Mrs. Young—"Before we were married he saved me from drowning, but he hasn't saved anything since—Wayide Tales.

"Why did they give that show such a title as 'The Footlights'?" "Perhaps," suggested Mr. Stimpington Barnes, "the title does not refer to the stage, but to the people in the auditorium who paid as much as $2 apiece to see it."—Washington Star.

"The other day we came across a definition of love that is well worth reading and commending. Love is the doorway through which the human soul passes from selfishness into service and from solitude into kinship with all humanity."—Boston Transcript.

"I'll let you marry my daughter but I don't intend to support you." "Sir!" "Now don't act as if you were insulted. I know human nature and speak from experience. My young son has had his father-in-law's home in high degree and returned in a taxicab the old man had to pay for."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

City man—"I suppose you find your automobile a great improvement over your old horse, farmer." Old farmer—"Wal, in some ways, yes, and in others no. I can't go to sleep on my way home from town and while he is in the barnyard like I could with old Dobbin."—Boston Transcript.

Customer—"Say! do you remember the flashlight battery called 'Kwik Light' that I bought here the other day?" Druggist—"Yes, what of it?" Customer—"Well it should be called 'Quick Flash' because it has 'burned out' already."—Science and Invention.

"According to this authority, wearing clothes has undermined the health of South Sea Islanders, who arrived in nature's garb." "Maybe so," said Mr. Grumpson. "If that's the case, the South Sea island dancers I've seen in cabarets ought to have robust constitutions."—Birmingham Age-Herald.
