DANIELSON

All rigged up and ready for service, the motorized rubber ladder which was taken out Sunday for a trial run...

Chief A. P. Woodward, who evolved the idea of motorizing the old horse-drawn truck, was at the station Sunday morning assisting a half score willing members of the department in "managing up" the truck and getting it ready for a trial run.

For an expense of approximately $500 the borough has a motorized truck and ladder truck that is capable of making it worth a fire at a speed of 50 miles an hour if necessary.

The newly rigged piece of apparatus has six wheels—four on the Caddy chassis and the two rear wheels on the ladder apparatus proper.

With the addition of this piece of apparatus the Danielson fire department may be considered as brought right up to date. The ladders and other apparatus on the truck are in excellent condition.

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Ballard, wife of William Ballard, were held at All Hallows' church in Moosup Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Some strange goings on with automobiles at night on highways in territory hereabouts have been reported to the police. Frankly, even on the side of some of these things could not be ascertained.

Victims of a family quarrel, who were first doped with poisonous snuff, blockading of roads by young men whose actions savored of banditry to other cars held up at their own, occupants threatened and such actions all fall for, such drastic action as has been promised by local and state police as soon as they get certain of the young thugs "right"—which means with sufficient evidence to put them where the gasoline is not figured in expenses.

The police are in possession of full information relative to some of the performances and performers of recent date and have their plans laid for a roundup that should be the means of at least making it safe to get out in a car at night.

The end of this week brings Sunday Day and all that it may mean to unhappy peoples in devastated lands increases if the residents of this community are as generous as they usually are in responding to appeals to help the unfortunate.

Sunday was the first day in nearly two weeks that the smoke of destructive forest fires could not be seen at some point in this vicinity. The warm weather of the past few days has brought up the green grass, one asset toward the check on fires that have been sweeping almost daily over one or another sections of territory hereabouts.
