POETRY

LIFE'S JOURNEY.
As we speed out of youth's sunny station,
The track seems to shine in the light;
But it suddenly shows over chasms,
Or sinks into tunnels of night;
And the hearts that were brave in the morning
Are filled with repining and fears—
As they pause at the city of sorrow,
Or pass through the valley of Tears.

But the road of this perilous journey,
The hand of the Master has made;
With all its discomforts and dangers,
We need not be sad or afraid.
Paths leading from light into darkness,
Ways shunning from gloom to despair, Wind out through the tunnels of midnight
To fields that are blooming and fair.

Though the rocks and the shadows surround us,
Or though we catch not one gleam of the day,
Above us fair cities are laughing
And dipping white feet in some bay;
And always, eternal, forever,
Down the hills in the west,
The last final end of our journey,
There lies the great station of Rest.

'Tis the grand central point of all railways,
All roads unite here when they end;
The final result of the long train,
All rival lines meet here and blend;
All tickets, all-mile books, all passes,
If stolen or begged for or bought,
On whatever road or division,
Will bring you at last to this spot.

If you pause at the city of Trouble,
Or wait in the valley of Tears,
Patient, the train will move onward,
And rush down the track of the year; Whatever the place you seek for,
Whatever your game or your quest,
You shall come at the last with rejoicing
To the beautiful city of Rest.

You shall store all your baggage of worries,
You shall feel perfect peace in this train,
You shall sail with old friends on fast waters,
With Joy and Delight at the helm;
You shall wander in cool fragrant gardens,
With those who have loved you the best,
And the hopes that were lost in life's journey.

You shall find the city of Rest,
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

JUNE.
When the bubble moon is young,
Down the sources of the breeze,
Like a yellow lantern hung
In the tops of blackberry trees,
There is promise she will grow
Into beauty unforgetful, Into all unthought-of Heigh ho!

When the Spring has slipped her foot,
Like a bath in the air,
And the ripples warm the root Till the little ferns appear,
There is promise she will grow
Sweeter than was ever told, Fairer than was ever told,
Heigh ho!

But the moon of middle night,
Risen in the rounded moon,
And the Spring of budding light, Edibles into just a June Ah, the promise of the year?
Nay, the gift was fairly gold?
All the new is over-
Heigh ho!

—Harrison Smith Morris, in Indianapolis News.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Women make the greatest prize-fighters," says a man whose wife belongs to a bridge club.—Life.

"Pa, what is meant by 'Dutch courage'?"
"False courage, my son. It comes out of bottles."

"Do many people have it, pa?"
"Not many, son, but the practice of talking a chance on the stuff that is put into bottles nowadays has developed a new kind of courage."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"When the county superintendent walked in the class pulled itself together and determined not to make any mistakes this time."
All went well until the superintendent picked on Jimmie.
"Now, my boy," he said, "what's the plural of mouse?"

"Mice," said Jimmie.
"Right," said the superintendent. "And now what is the plural of baby?"
"Twins!" said Jimmie.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegram.

Matrons—Susan, you're broken: as much china this month as your wages amount to. Now, how can we prevent this occurring again?
Susan—I don't know, ma'am, unless you raise my wages.—Lions Answers.

They sat side by side in Battery park, overlooking New York harbor, watching the moonbeams on the water. "I wonder," he said, looking at the goddess and her uplifted arms, "why they have the light so small?"
"Perhaps," she answered coyly, moving a little closer, "the smaller the light the greater the liberty."—American Legion Weekly.

Here's a bit of a real boy. Archie aged 5, had found a cat and given it the name of "Mary."
"How did you find out that it's a girl cat?" asked his grandmother.
"Well," replied the youngster, "I saw her washing her face and she washed her ears and she washed—behind her ears and nobody but a girl cat would wash behind her ears."—Boston Transcript.

"Look here, Gwerg," said Mr. Henry Higglebotham to his friend, Digglebotham.
"What do you always call your wife the old woman for? It don't sort of seem real respectful-like."
"Oh, shucks, now, Henry! I don't mean no disrespect to Ma'y Jane when I call her 'old woman.' I mean it right down complimentary to her. I just call her 'old woman' to sort of boast she ain't one of these here new women."—Judge.

for Lent?
Wedmann—The price of an Easter hat.—Boston Transcript.
