

The Bulletin

Norwich, Saturday, Aug. 12, 1922.

THE WEATHER.

During Friday air pressure remained high over east of the Mississippi valley with the crest of maximum pressure over New England.

The weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday with material change in the lower lake region.

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate to fresh northeast, weather overcast Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh northeast, weather overcast Saturday.

Forecast.

For southern New England: Saturday and Sunday partly cloudy and moderate.

Observations in Norwich.

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

Time	Ther. Bar.
7 a. m.	75.00
8 " "	75.00
9 " "	75.00
10 " "	75.00
11 " "	75.00
12 " "	75.00
1 " "	75.00
2 " "	75.00
3 " "	75.00
4 " "	75.00
5 " "	75.00
6 " "	75.00
7 " "	75.00
8 " "	75.00
9 " "	75.00
10 " "	75.00
11 " "	75.00
12 " "	75.00
1 " "	75.00
2 " "	75.00
3 " "	75.00
4 " "	75.00
5 " "	75.00
6 " "	75.00
7 " "	75.00
8 " "	75.00
9 " "	75.00
10 " "	75.00
11 " "	75.00
12 " "	75.00

Six hours after high water it is low water, which is followed by flood tide.

GREENEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fox of Twelfth street, have gone to Block Island to spend two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gordon of Roosevelt avenue are touring through Massachusetts and Rhode Island, visiting friends on the way.

Miss E. J. Sakowski of Greenville, N. J., is visiting for a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. August Murch, Miss Sabrowski, who is a graduate nurse, was a former resident of Greenville.

Miss Marjory Booth of Florida, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Service of Prospect street, is spending this week with friends at Crescent Beach.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Reynolds of Danville have been recent guests of Mrs. Reynolds' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Allard and family of South B street.

Mr. Father Tyler of Plainfield was a caller in the village Friday.

Miss Irene Desmarais of Pratte avenue is spending some time with friends in Providence, R. I.

Invitations are being received in town by members of Griswold Post, Spanish War Veterans, and Army Auxiliary for the annual picnic to be held on August 12th at Thorpe's Farm, New London road.

Mrs. Herminda Lambert and Mrs. Edmund Woodard of Providence are spending a few days with friends in Hartford, Conn.

Miss Albina Lanevian of Hartsville, R. I., is in town for a few days.

Miss Marie Vincent of Providence street is the guest of relatives in St. Havent, Quebec, Canada.

Miss Frances O'Connell, who has been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Wood of North Third avenue, returned home Friday.

Mrs. Joseph Pettie and daughter, Miss Lyvonne Pettie of Terrace avenue, are in Taftville for a visit with relatives.

Hon. Richard P. Freeman, M. C., of New London was a visitor in the village Friday.

Mr. Harriet Johnson of Norwich is the guest for a few days of Mrs. Charles E. Adams of North Third avenue.

Dr. David Taylor of North A street has returned from a few days' stay in New York.

Temp. B. Boy Scouts met Friday evening in the recreation room of the village Congregational church, under the direction of Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis.

Miss Catherine McCann of Round Hill has resigned her position with the Peabody company.

Mrs. Floyd Parish and Master Lloyd O'Connell have returned to their homes in Hartford, Conn., after passing a week with Mrs. Parish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Haller and family have moved from South B street to a house on North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gavvin have taken a house on South Third avenue.

The dance given Friday evening by the St. Louis Society in the Casino was largely attended. The ideal orchestra furnished music for the evening.

Mrs. Edward Lee of California, who is visiting her father, John Oats of Plainfield, was a recent guest of Mrs. Early (Gardner) Smith of South Third avenue.

Miss Jennie I. Condon of Mediterranean lane is visiting relatives in Greenville, Conn.

Miss Malina Larkham of East Town street, has as guests for a week, Mrs. Kilbourne and son, Stanley Kilbourne, of Worcester, Mass.

Little Miss May Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Sullivan, of Taftville road is recovering from a severe illness. News of her improvement is very pleasing to her friends.

Miss Florence M. Brown is visiting at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Dodge, of Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Dwight W. Avery of West Town street, while visiting recently in Hartford, was the guest of her daughter, Miss Ruth Avery.

Since last Sunday night katie-dids have made the nights musical in certain localities about town.

Miss Mildred A. Kinney of Town street, was entertained recently for a day at the home of Judge and Mrs. Samuel E. Holdridge of Ledyard.

Charles Smith of Brewster, N. Y., who has been passing this week in Norwich at the home of his mother, Mrs. Agnes Smith of Church street, was a caller Thursday evening at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles H. Lamb.

COLLISION BETWEEN WAGONS RESULTS IN $5,000 SUIT

George T. Loomis of Colchester has been made the defendant in a $5,000 damage action brought against him by Daniel H. Wallace of Middlefield, this state, as the result of an accident in which the plaintiff was injured last January.

Mr. Wallace claims that on or about January 10th last he was riding in a horse drawn vehicle in Colchester. A heavy wagon drawn by two horses and driven by a servant of the defendant ran into the rear of the wagon in which Mr. Wallace was riding.

As a result of the collision the wagon in which the plaintiff was riding was smashed and he was thrown to the ground and injured.

The papers in the case were filed Friday with the clerk of the superior court.

Another case filed Friday is a divorce action against Lawrence C. Smith, formerly of New London, now of Paris, unknown. The plaintiff, Florence M. Wilcox Smith of New London, charges her husband with desertion since January 5, 1918.

The couple were married September 26, 1917. In addition to the divorce, the plaintiff asks permission to resume her maiden name, Florence M. Wilcox.

At the celebration a resolution expressing appreciation and sincere thanks to President Harding and the United States government for aiding the Zionist cause and for the encouragement and support given to the Zionist cause in Palestine.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

The fund already has received a number of subscriptions and the plan has been put into operation this year for the first time.

EMPLOY 100 MEN AT GROTON ENGINE PLANT

New Haven railroad officials in New London said Friday afternoon that conditions remained much the same insofar as the shompen's strike-situation on the New London division was concerned.

Save for the general improvement claimed since the strike has gone on. The same force was said to be engaged in repair work at the Midway plant, with an occasional addition to the staff when a capable man came along.

There was nothing new to report concerning developments at the Eastern Point yard, but it was anticipated that the daily output of locomotives there will shortly begin to be felt.

The striking shompen had nothing unusual to narrate concerning overnight developments.

The situation as regards the use of the free employment office by the leading cities of the state is therefore practically the same as during June.

Following is a summary of the report:

Applications for Employment

Office	Males	Females	Total
Hartford	497	175	672
New Haven	683	430	1113
Bridgeport	661	468	1129
Norwich	423	114	537
Totals	2745	1688	4433

Applications for Help

Office	Males	Females	Total
Hartford	507	181	688
New Haven	587	392	979
Bridgeport	557	420	977
Waterbury	605	272	877
Norwich	490	195	685
Totals	2546	1471	4117

Situations Secured

Office	Males	Females	Total
Hartford	430	166	596
New Haven	513	244	757
Bridgeport	544	324	868
Waterbury	298	125	423
Norwich	400	194	594
Totals	2115	1253	3368

RETURN HOME AFTER TRIP TO GREAT LAKES

Mrs. A. G. Thompson of 233 Laurel Hill avenue, returned home Thursday, after a four months visit in Minneapolis, with her daughter, Mrs. Robert G. Stapin and family, while in the west.

Mrs. Thompson visited St. Paul, Detroit and other cities. On returning she took the lake trip from Duluth to Buffalo, also stopping at Niagara Falls.

Knowing of Mr. Gair's prominence, and with a certified check in prospect, no suspicion was aroused at the time at the Clarke offices. A clerk was sent out immediately after the telephone call to make up the balance of the amount of the bonds required, not being on hand.

Shortly after the clerk's return, Joseph entered the banking offices, presented a check drawn on a bank of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., Brooklyn, and on the account of Mr. Gair, the check was signed "Robert Gair."

Everything seemed regular and the bonds were about to be handed to the boy when the clerk scrutinized Joseph closely and confided to one of his superiors that the boy looked too young to be a messenger and that perhaps $30,000 was too great a sum to be entrusted to his care.

Their suspicions aroused, they told the boy to wait and telephoned police headquarters. Detectives Michael Gorman, Herman Strojhan and Daniel Devitt of the Oak street station were hurried to the bankers' offices, and they questioned the boy.

Telephone inquiry revealed that the check was a forgery and that Mr. Gair knew nothing of the matter. The boy told the detectives of being approached by the man and of being instructed to bring the package to St. Paul's church, at Broadway and Fulton street.

The detectives instructed Joseph to keep the appointment and to have his hand in his pocket as though guarding a package. They then separated and trailed the boy to Broadway and Fulton street, where Joseph remained some time, the detective in close proximity.

The boy was not approached by the man, nor did he recognize any one in the passing throng as the person who sent him on his mission. After waiting for a few minutes, the detective took the boy to the Oak street station, where he was further questioned and charged with juvenile delinquency. His father was notified, and he was paroled in custody of the parent.

Knowing of Mr. Gair's prominence, and with a certified check in prospect, no suspicion was aroused at the time at the Clarke offices. A clerk was sent out immediately after the telephone call to make up the balance of the amount of the bonds required, not being on hand.

Shortly after the clerk's return, Joseph entered the banking offices, presented a check drawn on a bank of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., Brooklyn, and on the account of Mr. Gair, the check was signed "Robert Gair."

Everything seemed regular and the bonds were about to be handed to the boy when the clerk scrutinized Joseph closely and confided to one of his superiors that the boy looked too young to be a messenger and that perhaps $30,000 was too great a sum to be entrusted to his care.

Their suspicions aroused, they told the boy to wait and telephoned police headquarters. Detectives Michael Gorman, Herman Strojhan and Daniel Devitt of the Oak street station were hurried to the bankers' offices, and they questioned the boy.

Telephone inquiry revealed that the check was a forgery and that Mr. Gair knew nothing of the matter. The boy told the detectives of being approached by the man and of being instructed to bring the package to St. Paul's church, at Broadway and Fulton street.

The detectives instructed Joseph to keep the appointment and to have his hand in his pocket as though guarding a package. They then separated and trailed the boy to Broadway and Fulton street, where Joseph remained some time, the detective in close proximity.

The boy was not approached by the man, nor did he recognize any one in the passing throng as the person who sent him on his mission. After waiting for a few minutes, the detective took the boy to the Oak street station, where he was further questioned and charged with juvenile delinquency. His father was notified, and he was paroled in custody of the parent.

Knowing of Mr. Gair's prominence, and with a certified check in prospect, no suspicion was aroused at the time at the Clarke offices. A clerk was sent out immediately after the telephone call to make up the balance of the amount of the bonds required, not being on hand.

Shortly after the clerk's return, Joseph entered the banking offices, presented a check drawn on a bank of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., Brooklyn, and on the account of Mr. Gair, the check was signed "Robert Gair."

Everything seemed regular and the bonds were about to be handed to the boy when the clerk scrutinized Joseph closely and confided to one of his superiors that the boy looked too young to be a messenger and that perhaps $30,000 was too great a sum to be entrusted to his care.

Their suspicions aroused, they told the boy to wait and telephoned police headquarters. Detectives Michael Gorman, Herman Strojhan and Daniel Devitt of the Oak street station were hurried to the bankers' offices, and they questioned the boy.

Telephone inquiry revealed that the check was a forgery and that Mr. Gair knew nothing of the matter. The boy told the detectives of being approached by the man and of being instructed to bring the package to St. Paul's church, at Broadway and Fulton street.

The detectives instructed Joseph to keep the appointment and to have his hand in his pocket as though guarding a package. They then separated and trailed the boy to Broadway and Fulton street, where Joseph remained some time, the detective in close proximity.

The boy was not approached by the man, nor did he recognize any one in the passing throng as the person who sent him on his mission. After waiting for a few minutes, the detective took the boy to the Oak street station, where he was further questioned and charged with juvenile delinquency. His father was notified, and he was paroled in custody of the parent.

Knowing of Mr. Gair's prominence, and with a certified check in prospect, no suspicion was aroused at the time at the Clarke offices. A clerk was sent out immediately after the telephone call to make up the balance of the amount of the bonds required, not being on hand.

Shortly after the clerk's return, Joseph entered the banking offices, presented a check drawn on a bank of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., Brooklyn, and on the account of Mr. Gair, the check was signed "Robert Gair."

Everything seemed regular and the bonds were about to be handed to the boy when the clerk scrutinized Joseph closely and confided to one of his superiors that the boy looked too young to be a messenger and that perhaps $30,000 was too great a sum to be entrusted to his care.

Their suspicions aroused, they told the boy to wait and telephoned police headquarters. Detectives Michael Gorman, Herman Strojhan and Daniel Devitt of the Oak street station were hurried to the bankers' offices, and they questioned the boy.

Telephone inquiry revealed that the check was a forgery and that Mr. Gair knew nothing of the matter. The boy told the detectives of being approached by the man and of being instructed to bring the package to St. Paul's church, at Broadway and Fulton street.

The detectives instructed Joseph to keep the appointment and to have his hand in his pocket as though guarding a package. They then separated and trailed the boy to Broadway and Fulton street, where Joseph remained some time, the detective in close proximity.

The boy was not approached by the man, nor did he recognize any one in the passing throng as the person who sent him on his mission. After waiting for a few minutes, the detective took the boy to the Oak street station, where he was further questioned and charged with juvenile delinquency. His father was notified, and he was paroled in custody of the parent.

Knowing of Mr. Gair's prominence, and with a certified check in prospect, no suspicion was aroused at the time at the Clarke offices. A clerk was sent out immediately after the telephone call to make up the balance of the amount of the bonds required, not being on hand.

Shortly after the clerk's return, Joseph entered the banking offices, presented a check drawn on a bank of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., Brooklyn, and on the account of Mr. Gair, the check was signed "Robert Gair."

Everything seemed regular and the bonds were about to be handed to the boy when the clerk scrutinized Joseph closely and confided to one of his superiors that the boy looked too young to be a messenger and that perhaps $30,000 was too great a sum to be entrusted to his care.

Their suspicions aroused, they told the boy to wait and telephoned police headquarters. Detectives Michael Gorman, Herman Strojhan and Daniel Devitt of the Oak street station were hurried to the bankers' offices, and they questioned the boy.

Telephone inquiry revealed that the check was a forgery and that Mr. Gair knew nothing of the matter. The boy told the detectives of being approached by the man and of being instructed to bring the package to St. Paul's church, at Broadway and Fulton street.

The detectives instructed Joseph to keep the appointment and to have his hand in his pocket as though guarding a package. They then separated and trailed the boy to Broadway and Fulton street, where Joseph remained some time, the detective in close proximity.

The boy was not approached by the man, nor did he recognize any one in the passing throng as the person who sent him on his mission. After waiting for a few minutes, the detective took the boy to the Oak street station, where he was further questioned and charged with juvenile delinquency. His father was notified, and he was paroled in custody of the parent.

USEB ROBERT GAIR'S NAME TO STEAL LIBERTY BONDS

The name of Robert Gair, head of the Robert Gair Co. of New York, paper box manufacturers, printers and lithographers, which has a plant at Montville, was used in a carefully laid plot to steal $30,000 worth of Liberty bonds bonds from Clarke Bros., bankers, of 154 Nassau street, New York, Wednesday.

The plot, however, was foiled by the tender years of a boy, selected as a messenger by the man who plotted the theft, which aroused the suspicions of a clerk in the banking firm as he was about to hand over the bonds.

The boy, James Josephs, 13 years old, son of Alexander Josephs, 46 Willow Clark street, Brooklyn, was arrested, according to the boy, Josephs asserted, by the man who gave the boy a forged check with which to get the bonds.

According to the story of young Josephs after his arrest in the office of the banking firm, he was playing near his home at noon when a well dressed man approached him.

"Do you want to go on an errand for me and earn $25?" asked the stranger, according to the boy. Josephs assented, and left with the man for Manhattan, getting off the subway at Brooklyn Bridge.

The man then telephoned to Clarke Brothers, declaring he was Robert Gair, head of the Robert Gair Co., paper box manufacturers, printers and lithographers, with several plants in Brooklyn and general offices at 350 Madison avenue, Manhattan.

"I am sending one of my office boys to your office," declared the voice, "and I desire to get at once $30,000 worth of Liberty bonds. I am sending a certified check for the bonds."

Knowing of Mr. Gair's prominence, and with a certified check in prospect, no suspicion was aroused at the time at the Clarke offices. A clerk was sent out immediately after the telephone call to make up the balance of the amount of the bonds required, not being on hand.

Shortly after the clerk's return, Joseph entered the banking offices, presented a check drawn on a bank of the Title Guaranty and Trust Co., Brooklyn, and on the account of Mr. Gair, the check was signed "Robert Gair."

Everything