Among those who attended a children's party at Watch Hill Thursday was John Porteous, 2d, of Norwich. Twenty in all had a merry time at the Ocean house.

Word was received in town Tuesday morning of the sudden death of William E. Oliver, 70, of Barrus Vt. formerly of Westerly, brother-in-law of Mrs. John Parker of School street, Westerly. He resided here until 25 years ago, when he and his family moved to Barrus. He was the owner of a blacksmith shop there. The thermometer showed 85 degrees in the shade in Dixon square Tuesday afternoon and on upper High street registered 80 degrees at 3 o'clock. Many made use of the trolleys and the cars went out of Westerly packed all the afternoon with people going to the beaches.

Last week the thermometer registered 68 and 72. Men at the shore resorts were obliged to wear overcoats out of doors during the evening hours and women wore heavy wraps. Tuesday the thinnest of clothing was worn.

Officer Fred T. Mitchell of the police force here, who is detailed to take care of the traffic at the corner of Broad and High streets, stated that Monday the traffic was the heaviest that had been noted this summer. Several thousand automobiles passed through Westerly on Monday afternoon between 1 and 5 o'clock.

John Falsetto of Westerly is wandering about about $750 he paid for a Buick touring car recently which he believed to be all right. He now wakes up to find it was a stolen automobile belonging to New York parties. Sheriff Casey seized the machine and the purchaser is out his money as the bill of sale he has is worthless and was not even signed by the contracting parties. The car was purchased from a man who gave his name as Morris Brown of 42 Kent street, Brooklyn, N. Y. The machine bore a New York license, the number on the plates being 603-855. Inspector Bailey and McElroy of the Providence police inspected the car together with Chief Thomas E. Brown of the Westerly department. Sheriff Casey was also called in on the case and the car was located in a West Side garage.

Mrs. Albert Adelman of Westerly has gone to the home of relatives in Springfield, Ill., having been married only two months, and the whereabouts of her husband is unknown. She is in poor health and has decided to go to her relatives. The couple were married in Lima, O., June 15th. The bride was May Farrell. They came east and purchased the farm owned by Edward E. Cassell in the Annapolis district. Mrs. Adelman was taken ill here and was under the care of a physician for many weeks. Aug. 1 her husband said he was going into town to get a wagon wheel repaired. He left the wagon in a carriage shop on Congress street and has disappeared and nothing has been heard of him since. Mrs. Adelman was ill in bed. She has waited a long time for his return, so has reported the affair to Sheriff W. H. Casey. Twenty dollars was all she had in her possession and her husband had gone away with all the rest. As the farm was heavily mortgaged she did not help her any. She said her husband had been in the possession of her household effects and has started to her old home in Springfield, Ill.

TARIFF BILL IS FAST ASSUMING FINAL FORM

Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate driving forward at a speed it seldom attains, completed consideration tonight of all committee amendments to the administration tariff bill. Thus what measure put into effect the form in which it will be passed late next Saturday.

Hundreds of committee recommendations, some of which upset decisions reached previously by the senate after long discussion, were reported by the finance committee majority when the senate convened. This led to a protest from democratic leaders and after debate was shut off, Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, made an unsuccessful parliamentary maneuver to prevent consideration of such amendments as had not been acted upon at that time.

His point of order was overruled and a motion of Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, his appeal from the ruling of the chair was laid on the table by a strict party vote 28 to 20.

Throughout the long session the finance committee majority met with only two reverses.

Tomorrow the senate will take up in individual amendments which have been proposed from time to time. Several additional amendments were proposed today and others will be offered tomorrow.

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF HIS HOUSEKEEPER

Bridgeport, Aug. 15.—Albert Volt, 60, a machine living at Somerset avenue on the outskirts of this city, was arrested tonight on the charge of murdering his housekeeper, Mrs. Mary Roberts, age 50, following a quarrel over a swing which her four-year-old child had swung in the rear of Volt's home.

Mrs. Roberts, according to the story told by Volt to the police, threatened to break every window in his house, whereupon he snatched up a double-barreled gun and shot her, the bullet entering her neck.

The victim's child was in the kitchen when his mother was killed and his screams summoned the father, who also has been living in the o'night home for the past few months.

PLAN $350,000 PHYSICIANS' BUILDING IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Aug. 15.—Twenty-five local physicians at a meeting tonight discussed plans by which it is likely they will construct what will be called "Professional physicians' building" at a probable cost of $350,000. A committee of three was appointed to inquire into the matter which is of interest to all physicians in the city.

A number of physicians here have been either residing or have offices in a place called the "Professional building," but the owners recently are said to have sent out notices of an increase in rents. This is said to have caused the present discussion relative to a building for physicians only.

QUAKE TWISTS MONUMENT

An earthquake that shook India not so long ago was remarkable for the curiously distorting effects it produced upon standing objects. Similar effects have been noticed from other earthquakes, but seldom to so striking a point. In an official report in the matter it is described how this earthquake twisted a lofty monument at Chaitak. The monument was a obelisk of brick coated with plaster more than 60 feet tall and 12 feet square at the base. About six feet of the top was broken off and thrown to the south and nine feet more was thrown to the east. Then a piece 30 feet in height was separated 33 feet above the ground and twisted in a direction opposite to the motion of the hands of a watch, but without falling.

RUINS OF ANCIENT CITY UNCOVERED IN COLOMBIA

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(By The A. P.)—Ruins of an ancient city of great size, hitherto unknown, have been uncovered in Colombia, by the South American Archeological expedition on the Pied Museum of Natural History, Chicago, working under the leadership of Doctor J. A. Mason. The ruins of the city, of collection of villages, are in a portion of Colombia now uninhabited and almost unknown to science. It is evident, the museum announced today, that this was once one of the great centers of population of the world but today even its name is unknown.

Mr. Mason sent the following message regarding the discoveries: "These must have been a tremendous population here at one time, as the country is covered with house sites. The region is very mountainous and the houses, which were of wood, were built on terraces made with retaining walls. In the center of each terrace there are entering steps of beautiful cut stone and if the main path is far below, other steps are built to connect the terrace with it.

The principal plaza where I have been working has a staircase of forty-eight steps. All are made of nicely cut quadrangular stone slabs. Instead of the Indian road of which I have heard, there are thousands of them all through the mountains. There are apparently wide roads connecting the main sites. All are paved with flat waterworn rocks of more or less uniform size, the small paths being a single line of such stones, while the more important roads are four feet or more wide and edged with upright stones. When the way ascends or descends, the stones are set as steps.

On the side of almost every house here can still be found the metate, or grinding-slab, on which the finely ground corn. In all the villages we have found quantities of broken pottery mostly fragments of large undecorated jars. Some were decorated with relief ornaments, and there is one sort of very fine black pottery which is incised or carved.

The ancient inhabitants of this country decorated themselves with gold ornaments and buried these with their dead. The early Spaniards are known to have taken fabulous quantities of gold from the graves.

Specimens already received at the museum include gold bells, small beautifully made gold figures and ornaments of shell carnelian and agate. The most valuable acquisition is a set of ornaments worn by a native priest.

TRIBUTE BY BRITISH PRESS TO LATE VISCOUNT NORTHCLIFFE

London, Aug. 15.—(By The A. P.)—A remarkable tribute is paid by the British press to the late Viscount Northcliffe this morning, columns and in some instances even pages, being devoted to eulogiums, photographs and special articles on the achievements and personality of the master journalist whose career ended at the height of his power.

Naturally, the Northcliffe publications made the greatest effort to eulogize "The Chief," and the Times devotes four pages, with upturned column rules as a mark of mourning, to biographical sketches and messages of regret from journalists, politicians and the diplomats in all parts of the world.

Tributes from America, including President Harding's message of condolence to Lady Northcliffe, are displayed prominently. George Harvey, the American ambassador, sent a message from Scotland, but King George, who is there also, is not represented among the published telegrams and cablegrams from the empire's prominent personages.

The press generally terms Lord Northcliffe the greatest British journalist of all times. His spirited Fleet street competitors, but intimate personal friends, Lord Burnham and Lord Beaverbrook, the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph and the Daily Express, are unstinted in their praise of Northcliffe's service to journalism and to the empire.

The Daily Chronicle says his death causes one to think of other towering figures suddenly called within the present century—"of the premature death of Cecil Rhodes, of the abrupt crushing and dismemberment of Joseph Chamberlain and President Wilson just as each seemed to bestride the earth like a Colossus."

Even the Daily Herald seems to intend a word of praise when it says Northcliffe occasionally admitted to his columns some small portion of the truth about labor.

FARMERS ASK LONERGAN TO AID THEM

Augustine Lonergan, former congressman and who is expected to be one of the candidates for the nomination as democratic candidate for the United States senate, is being asked by many farmers of Connecticut to continue his efforts in their behalf. A petition circulated among the farmers and containing about 100 signatures, has been forwarded to Mr. Lonergan asking him to use his best efforts in their behalf.

BODY FOUND IN BURNED FACTORY IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Aug. 15.—Mystery surrounds the finding of the body of an unidentified man, burned to death after an explosion and fire in the plant of the Hamilton Reed Manufacturing company shortly before 5 o'clock tonight. The body was still recognizable but none of those connected with the plant was able to give the police any information regarding the man's identity.

The explosion is believed to have occurred in the basement of the building, where turpentine and other inflammable materials were stored. Several children were at play near a window which was blown out and were cut by flying glass. The police express the opinion that the man in some manner gained entrance to the plant and was rummaging about for something with lighted matches and set fire to a can of turpentine or oil which exploded. The damage to the building has not been determined.

SUSPECT HELD FOR WEST SHORE BOMBING

North Bergen, N. J., Aug. 15.—Accused of having explosives in his possession, Harold Grassfield, 31, a striking railroad shopman, tonight was taken into custody in connection with the investigation of the bombing of a West Shore railroad train near the Granton yards last Sunday.

The arrest was made on complaint of George Barol, a special police officer of the West Shore road, who said that Grassfield had told him that he and forty other strikers had placed bombs on the tracks. Grassfield denied this report, confessing that when questioned by Police Chief Marney.

In an affidavit, Barol declares that Grassfield's story to him was to the effect that he and 40 striking shopmen, all from the Granton roundhouse, carefully plotted the bombing and carried it out without the slightest difficulty. He said the strikers, according to Grassfield's alleged confession, drove to the railroad bridge in automobiles planted the dynamite and then set it off. They were able to slip away unobserved, he is alleged to have said, because of the panic among the passengers on the train.

Under persistent questioning by Chief Marney, Grassfield insisted that his story to Barol had been a "joke" and that he had been at a dance at the time the explosion took place. He denied Barol's statements concerning his alleged confession of the bombing plot.
