

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Thirty-one cans of trout from the state fish hatchery at Bristol came through to Danielson yesterday noon. In a motor truck of the state commission on fisheries and game were promptly picked up by waiting automobiles and hurried in private cars to brook where they were to be released for restocking purposes. The thousands of fingerlings came through in splendid condition and were as lively as could be when the men who sent applications for them peered into the cans as they were taken from the truck. Within an hour after the fish arrived here the great majority of them were swimming free in brooks that are to be their homes and some of them had been released within twenty minutes of their arrival here. The fingerlings going to the most distant brooks were released in well under two hours after they came into possession of local men.

Only brooks that are known as good trout streams received any of the little trout. The men who were in charge of the distribution are well acquainted with the brooks in this territory, so there was no chance of any wastefulness as getting the trout rightly placed was concerned.

All who like trout fishing will benefit from the foresight and activity of the men who made possible the securing of the largest consignment of fingerling trout released in brooks hereabouts for years and will appreciate the use of private cars in getting the trout to releasing points as promptly as was done here on Tuesday.

Many of the brooks are as high now as in the early spring period. Filled with clear, cold water, the little trout should be exceptionally well, much more so than in the average year when brooks are not at their best at this time of year.

Edward Delude of Putnam, formerly of Ballouville, was fined $25 and costs, a total of $40, when presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward at a session of the town court Tuesday morning, the charges being that he operated a motorcycle at a reckless rate of speed last Sunday afternoon and also ran the machine with the cut-out open.

The young man was unable to testify as to the exact maximum speed at which he had been running the machine, as it is not equipped with a speedometer, but the speed at which he passed the barricade attracted the attention of the state police stationed here and one was sent out to apprehend him, Officer Paul T. Roberts of the state police, a young man on the state highway near Attawaugan.

Delude explained that his "twin" motor had been skipping and that he opened up his home-made muffler, got it to replace the regular one that had gone out of commission, to listen to the explosions while he was attempting to regulate the firing properly. He said he had no intention of running with the muffler open.

In connection with the use of mufflers, attention is called to the fact that they cannot be legally employed on a motor vehicle operating in the state of Connecticut, at any time of the day or night. The old law making 9 p. m. the limit for use of them has been repealed. Use of them now in this state at any time is a violation of the law and may cause the arrest of the operator of a car or any other motor vehicle using the highways of Connecticut.

Over South Killingly way a call is heard for repair to roads that have been washed out for weeks and has not yet received attention, the selection has been so busy with other work. Rural Carried Arthur W. Logee has some photographs taken over in that section showing how badly the highways are washed out. One route, leading northward and eastward past the cemetery at South Killingly and shown on the state map as C road is in very bad condition and has been washed out, as is another highway leading from Dark lantern Schoolhouse hill northward past the Young and Morrison farms, so-called.

Manager Bill Martin of the Danielson baseball team, made public Tuesday the fact that the Coronets of Worcester, champions of the Winchester league, is to be the attraction here next Sunday afternoon.

This team, one of the fastest semi-professional organizations playing ball in southern New England this year and Turcotte, formerly of the Boston Braves, their pitcher is a marvel of cleverness on the mound. A third baseman who is playing with the Coronets is booked to go with the Boston Red Sox at the end of the present season.

Pleased with the response of the public at last Sunday's game, in spite of the rain, Manager Martin has arranged to keep the patrons coming by reducing admission charges to the minimum and the game will be grandstand seat and a score card all for a nominal fee.

September 10th, the Danielson team will play at Putnam for the first game of a series. A return game by Putnam is to be played here on September 17, and October 1, the Providence Independents will be here. It is possible that Putnam may have Cannon Ball Redding pitching on the visit of the team here September 17.

BREED THEATRE William Russell heads the double feature bill at the Breed theatre today and tomorrow in "Desert Blossoms," a Fox photoplay of unusual type. "Desert Blossoms" deals with the struggle of man against nature in some of her grimmest aspects, to turn seemingly hopeless desert waste places into fertile fields and with the struggle of men against men with different motives. The popular Fox star appears in the role of a young construction engineer, attached to a government irrigation project. He meets the heroine, a young woman after disaster to his early hopes of a brilliant career. In his first big undertaking, the building of a bridge, he came to grief through the action of an assassin, who was blackmailed by the engineer. He is rescued by the delivery of inferior material. The fall of two bridge spans after completion had brought him unmerited disgrace. He finds the same sinister influence at work here and with the same activity, and the manner in which he meets them provides much of the action of the photodrama, which also depicts a love theme.

The story is by Kate Corbally and Helen Ferguson plays the female lead. For the second feature Irene Castle will be seen in "French Heels." Introduced by the popular "Smilin' Through" Mrs. Castle is a series of whirlwind events. She dances, rides, swims, and wears a number of stunning wraps and gowns that will no doubt be the envy of every woman in town. The film is a real gem, and the picture in New York City and in the lumber camps of the far north. It is a modern story, written especially for the star, and is said to provide her with some of the best opportunities of her career.

Movie Chats complete this big banner bill. Broadway, Thursday, Friday, Saturday. According to the way the lineup shows in the vaudeville programme at the Broadway theatre, everything seems to point to it being an all comedy bill. There will be a big closing act. Doman and Stanley offer "A Drop For Life," the story of a full of novelties and of high entertainment value. Kennedy and Davies present "Four in One." This is a pot pourri of comedy, dance and song. They know how to make fun to the fullest extent of the meaning of that word. Sully and Kennedy appear in an Italian character offering called "Shoot Me." The possibilities of comedy in an Italian character offering can easily be realized. Nuf said.

Conner and Recardo offer their new comedy act, "Did You See My Horse?" It has a laugh for all, from start to finish. Marie Provost, the queen of all fappers, craves to start a school for "fapper hoppers" in which all the wiles and charms which the modern fapper should possess will be taught. To be fapper is to have a winning personality, and to fairly radiate charm, says Miss Provost in defense of the fapper.

The vivacious little Universal star comes to the Broadway theatre Thursday in her latest vehicle, "The Married Flapper," in which she portrays a young wife who regards her husband chiefly as the source of income that keeps her gorgeously clothed, incessantly amused and in good standing in her set.
