

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Concession men who were at Brooklyn fair were, as a general rule a bit disappointed about the business done. Their bags of checks were not so heavy upon leaving town as they had anticipated might be the case. The big crowd Wednesday did not indulge very heavily in the opportunities to win a doll or the various other things offered as inducements for those who bought tickets and a chance to win. One contributing cause for the poor business probably was the old-time stuff the concession men were presenting in an effort to separate the public from its money. There wasn't a new idea on the grounds about everyone is fed up on the doll game and such like.

At a session of the town court Friday morning, John Kentile and George Kentile, residents in the Connecticut Mills section, were fined heavily after they had pleaded guilty to reputation and keeping intoxicants with intent to sell. On the reputation count each was fined $25 and kept with intent to sell charge each was fined $100, with costs, a total of $125.50, in each case. They paid.

The Kentiles came into court as the result of a Thursday evening raid on members of the state police. The Kentiles have not been manufacturing the white mule that was seized by the officers in the raid, but importing it, so to speak, from Rhode Island. The activities of the Kentiles directed the attention of the state police to them.

Another resident to the north of the borough also has been ordered to appear in court to answer to charges similar to those to which the Kentiles pleaded guilty Friday morning.

The following is the list of players that the Danielson and Mousup teams have agreed to use in the important baseball series that will open here Sunday afternoon.

Members of the Service Battery, 129th field artillery, were happy Friday morning in possession of their compensation for drill covering a period of six months past. The men were paid off at the state armory Thursday evening and received from $35 to $50 each, enough to buy a suit of clothes for the fall or to have a holiday with, if one is so inclined.

Pay days will come more frequently for the battery members hereafter. It is the expectation of Captain P. O. Armstrong that the men will receive their drill pay at least each month.

It will be of interest to many in Killbuck and other towns herabouts to know that evening classes at the State Trade school in Putnam will open October 3. Instruction will be given in the following subjects: Machines, carpentry, cabinet making, mechanical drafting, blueprint reading, shop mathematics, electrical work, cotton carding, roting spinning, cloth analysis and design, weaving and loom fixing, sewing, cooking. Applications for enrollment should be sent in at once. The school will be in session in each department two nights each week.

The state of Connecticut has provided in excellent institution in the neighboring town and it offers opportunities for improvement that are to be had for the asking by any who are interested.

This has been a splendid week for the roadbuilders who are hurrying the new state highway east of here to completion. There has been no interruption of work this week on account of bad weather and good progress has been made. Attention should be called for any day hereafter of the opening of the road to travel.

In discussing possible selections for moderator of the annual town meeting Monday, October 2, attention was called Friday to the statute requirement that anyone who is a candidate for any elective town office cannot act as moderator. This requirement was pointed out in the case of those who have been mentioned for the duty.

Comment was made Friday on the moderation in which drivers operated motor vehicles during the fair days this week. The driving was very careful on the part of about everyone. Only one accident of any consequence was reported and no one was hurt in that. This had to do with two cars that went off the state highway and struck the fence bordering the route. The matter was duly reported.

PUTNAM

Merchants of Putnam were well represented at a special meeting of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce held on Friday evening, September 22, at the home of Mrs. A. Vaughan. The meeting was for the purpose of considering a petition signed by the clerks asking that the Thursday half holiday be allowed the year around except during December.

Opinions were freely expressed as to the advisability of closing for the half day weekly and was about evenly divided. The speakers in favor of the ground that the present is a time of small profits and large volume. This cannot be accomplished, they argued, by shortening the hours during which the stores are kept open. It was also felt that business lost during Thursday afternoon was not made up on other days so that the loss was total in this respect. They thought it was not a good thing for the city to have business suspended a half a day a week.

On the other hand, it was argued when people realized that all stores would close Thursday afternoon during the year round, they will make arrangements to shop on other days and no business will be lost. It was argued that the store closing was not a detriment to the city as a whole. Those in favor asserted that giving the clerks a half holiday was a step forward and in keeping with the trend of things. It demonstrated that the merchants are progressive and have the same sentiment as other merchants in other cities where the plan has been adopted.

No decision was reached. It is tentatively planned to send questionnaires to all the merchants in the city and to get an expression one way or the other from each merchant doing business. When the returns are tabulated the merchant committee will have the exact situation before them for action.

Members of Elizabeth Foster Putnam Chapter left Putnam at 11 o'clock, Friday morning, for the annual pilgrimage. This year the pilgrimage took them to Canterbury, where places of historic interest were visited during the afternoon. The party went in automobiles and each carried a basket lunch.

Richard Holmes, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., a student at Clark University, Worcester, spent Thursday night at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Macdonald, Oak Hill.

Members of the committee of the common council who made the purchase of the new motor driven hook and ladder truck, have received word that the truck is all ready to ship but is being held for a few days until the last coat of varnish is thoroughly dry.

Some of the mills in the city manufacturing garment fabrics are again running nearly to capacity, after a few weeks' idleness caused by the temporary cancellation of orders. The outlook is much brighter for the fall business making lightweights for next summer.

What was at one time St. Mary's church, a building used as a hall and place of entertainment since the building of the large brick church on Providence street which succeeded it, is being razed to the ground by the Rev. Worcester that purchased it for the lumber. This building was the third church of the parish. The first building used as a church is an old block which stands at the corner of Marshal and Providence streets. The second church, a brick structure, was destroyed by fire. The building being torn down was a wooden structure, being used as a hall and place of entertainment since the building of the large brick church on Providence street which succeeded it, is being razed to the ground by the Rev. Worcester that purchased it for the lumber.

Funeral services for Joseph St. Martin, of Worcester, who died in Worcester hospital, Wednesday night, were held at St. Mary's church Friday morning. Mr. St. Martin was a Spanish War veteran. Members of the Spanish War Veterans Society acted as pall bearers. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Thirty-six more pheasants from the state game farm at Madison were received here by Charles T. Tillinghast and released in suitable neighboring territory. This makes a total of 116 pheasants sent in here by the state and released during the present week by sportsmen. That those who may be tempted to go gunning for the birds before the season opens may try to shoot themselves and sportsmen and refrain in the hope of those who hunt for pleasure only. If all wait, all will have an equal chance and the birds will have an opportunity to develop much more than they had up to the time of release.

Incident to the general resumption of standard time throughout New England the Connecticut company has announced changes in time on the local lines, effective Sunday.

every. His wife, a brother and a sister, survive. Notwithstanding there is a new alert cop at Bugbee corner large enough to be seen a mile away and lettered "Go To the Right" in letters several inches high, there is not a day passes that some motorist does not have to be called back and made to go around the proper way. Most of the drivers are from out of the state and are let go with a warning to be more careful in the future.

As September draws to a close, sportsmen are beginning to talk of the hunting season for birds which begins October 1st and ends November 31st. The season is a short one and in view of the fact that the leaves are on the trees until the middle of November, the time for good shooting is only about two weeks.

A serious case, a few weeks ago by the Putnam Light and Power Company, disappeared from Union street, Thursday afternoon and has not been returned. Manager Thurston and Captain of Police Ramie Delano were from out of the state and are let go with a warning to be more careful in the future.

According to the annual report of David Plank, town treasurer, the net indebtedness of the town for the year ending this year of 1922, is $1,325.05. At the beginning of the fiscal year the debt was $1,964,733.55, which was reduced to $189,084.44 on Sept. 1.

The schools of the Massachusetts Manufacturing Company, makers of automobile tire duck, have been notified by the company that an advance such as this has been granted in cotton cloth mills in this section cannot be allowed at this time. It is explained that this is due on account of low prices now being obtained for the mill product, prices said not to cover cost of production. It is hoped that the advance will be made when an increase impossible will soon disappear, making it possible at a not far distant future date to grant a substantial increase in wages.

Captain Mary Colburn, of the Salvation Army, is critically ill at the Day Kimball hospital with little hope held out for her recovery. About six weeks ago she was operated on for affected tonsils and later had an attack of pneumonia. While she recovered, complications developed which left her in a serious state.

Probably the most widely read book in the world is the Arabian Nights Entertainments. For centuries back it has been a "best seller" and it has lost none of its popularity through the years. Translated into nearly all languages, it has been read by countless millions and its weird and fantastic tales have enthralled them.

One Arabian Night, an Associated First National attraction starring Pola Negri, which will be the feature at the Strand theatre for a run of three days, starting Monday, is a story such as these, and brings to the screen all the mystery, romance and intrigue by which the famous book wove a spell over its readers. The spirit of the Orient has been caught by the camera, resulting in a picture which will live long in the memory.

The book, whose title has gone through various translations, contains a thousand and one stories. The authorship of them has been lost in the dim past and only the names of the translators appear on the various editions. Most of them do travel into each other, the auditors of the story-teller relating their experiences one after the other. Remarkable is the imagination displayed by the authors, and thrilling and amusing are the stories. Even modern-day writers do not shine by comparison.

It was these "thousand and one stories" which first attracted the attention of the lovers of romance and mystery to the Orient. And those who traveled in the east found that the march of time had not dispelled the spirit which had drawn them thither. As a result thousands of books and plays have been written with the Orient as a locale.

One Arabian Night was directed by Ernst Lubitsch, the master producer of Paston and Gypsy Blood. It is a pretentious offering, wherein many thousands of persons have been engaged. Harold Lloyd in "Wanted—1899," a real comedy scream and a Selznick News Weekly will also be shown.

SOUTH GRISWOLD Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Winroth and children of Bayonne, N. J., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Gustafson. Mr. and Mrs. Byron P. Young and three sons of Sterling were local visitors Sunday.

Many local people attended the auction at Lester A. Main's at Preston Plains Monday, Sept. 18. People from here attended North Stonington dance the Sept. 19th. Leonard M. Burdick from Norwich state hospital spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Irving O. Burdick.

BREED THEATRE The Trap, a strong story of the North woods, the Universal-Jewel attraction starring Lon Chaney, comes to the Broad Street Theatre, Monday and Tuesday is unique in having one of the most remarkable casts of any recent production. In addition to this Lon Chaney, who is noted for the excellence of all his productions, directed this film masterpiece.

Lon Chaney, the star, gained his enviable reputation as an actor in "The Miracle Man" which was followed closely with "The Penalty," still sustaining a reputation for creating human characterizations in decidedly a distinctive manner. This came outside the law when he was seen in support of Pelelika Dean. It was as a result of his work in that picture that Universal decided to star him. In the current production Chaney has the opportunity of living up to his reputation as "the man of a thousand faces." He made the most of them.

Spotlighted at Aiken, will know character actor; Dancer, Godowitch, Russian actress and daughter of Leopold Godowitch, world famous pianist; Alan Hale, Herbert Standing, Frank Campbell, and a host of other stars. Stanley Goethals, handled the chief supporting roles in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired.

The story of The Trap was written by Leonard Merrick, the noted editor of Universal, in collaboration with the star and Irving G. Thalberg, director-general of the producing company.

Topics of the Day and a Mermaid comedy make up the remainder of the bill. Today's bill consists of Mia May in "The Wife Trap," Lon Chaney in "The Trap," and "With Stanely in Africa," the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:15.

Charles Ray at Broadway Sunday Night Only. Charles Ray brings a new edition of his talent to the movies in The Deuce of Spades, his latest release through First National, which will be shown at the Broadway Theatre Sunday night only. The latest volume promises to combine all the delicate shading of Scors Iron or The Old Swimmer's Hole with a western angle that gives it distinction and an exciting plot.

The story was adapted from Charles E. Van Loan's The Weight of the Last Straw, and comes from the pen of the author of Scors Iron. In his masterpiece the last straw is a notoriously antiquated card sharper's trick to which the star falls an easy victim. The fraud is the last of a series of misfortunes that overtake him and reduce him to absolute penury.

With his back against the wall he starts shooting things up, fearing neither sheriff nor two gun men; and his opponent courage again all comes wins him the respect of the entire community, the girl of his choice and a new start in life.

Ray's part is one that calls for intense character study and a delicate handling of boyish mannerisms that the star is particularly adept at. As a foil he has the capable assistance of Marguerite Maurics in the leading feminine part.

Other subjects include another very funny cattergood Baine comedy drama called Soothing Syrup. A comedy will also be included. Something very good in the line of vaudeville is promised for lovers of that kind of amusement, when the B. F. Keith vaudeville is announced on Monday. Five real all star acts will be shown.

The picture attraction at Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday's performance is Elaine Hammerstein's presentation of her newest film-play, Evidence, Edward Montagu, wrote the scenario and George Archambaud, who has supervised a number of Miss Hammerstein's presentations, directed the new offering.

Niles Welch, who has been Miss Hammerstein's film man in her recent film plays, again heads her supporting company and Constance Bennett, who was with Miss Hammerstein in Rockless Truth, is once more cast for a role that "warns something" when the plot begins to unfold. Ernest Hillard cooperates with Miss Bennett in the chicanery that leads to a sensational climax as the picture reaches the happiest of endings. Miss Hammerstein appears in the guise of an actress who marries a man of wealth against the advice of his aristocratic family.

A man never realizes how old-fashioned his clothes are until he beholds his own glad rags on his return from college.

HELPED HIS BACK Backache, rheumatic pains, dizziness and blurred vision are symptoms of kidney trouble. "My husband had a bad back," writes Mrs. M. McCallough, Easton, Pa. "When he lay down he could hardly get up and then he would be drawn over to one side. He tried Foley Kidney Pills and they cured him." Foley Kidney Pills quickly relieve kidney and bladder trouble.
