

SAFE BREAKERS GET $5000 OFFICE OF TERRY CO.

It is believed the burglary must have taken place after 1:30, as officer John Carroll reported that he looked over the place at that time and turned his flashlight into the office where every thing was all right. About 5 o'clock a long freight train with two engines in front and a passenger car in the rear, it is thought the burglars may have done most of their heavy work while that was covering up the noise that they would make.

After the doors to the inside compartment of the safe had been pried off, the burglar is similar to a number that have taken place recently throughout New England at oil company offices, which are usually located along railroad tracks in sections of the city that offer good chance for the safe breakers to work with the least chance of being caught.

ENGAGES NORWICH ARCHITECTS TO PLAN NEW THEATRE. A. A. Spitz of Providence, who with Charles H. Steiman of Cranston, R. I., last Monday leased for 99 years the so-called Vaughn property from T. C. Murphy and W. F. McGarry, to build a theatre on it was in this city Thursday when he engaged Cutworth & Thompson, architects, to draw the plans for the new theatre here.

Mr. Spitz has built over a score of theatrical houses and makes it his policy wherever he goes, he said, to spend every dollar he can in the place where his theatre is. He will do the same policy here and will see that Norwich contractors and Norwich merchants, as far as possible, get all the work in building and in furnishing the new theatre here is to build.

Mr. Spitz is to call the Norwich theatre "The Palace." It will be a beautiful fireproof house, up to the minute in every particular. One of its features will be a big organ, and the stage will be large enough and be equipped to handle any play that comes to town. It is the biggest musical comedies. The seats will be roomy and all on the ground floor and patrons can feel absolute safety from fire hazard, as the building will be concrete and the heating plant will be outside the theatre building.

With favorable weather conditions throughout the week, the theatre may have the theatre ready for opening in six months. He is enthusiastic over the prospects for the Norwich theatre, and he says he has been particularly fortunate in the location he has secured. In fact, he calls it ideal, and it was this that induced him to build at least one more theatre, although he had thought he was all through. Several years ago he came near to closing negotiations with Judge John H. Thayer, he said, but there was a hitch and the deal was called off and he lost sight of Norwich for a time until his attention was again called to it by John A. Moran, the real estate broker who negotiated the deal that has finally brought him here.

Although his district is a stronghold of the republicans, Mr. Knott intends to make a hard fight for the election. He has served in the assembly and as sheriff in New York county and has strong following. His many friends in this county who call him "New London" don't doubt to see him able to write "N. C." after his name when election returns are completed next November.
