SUES FOR SUPPORT FROM HER HUSBAND IN LEYDARD

The tangled matrimonial affairs of Frank E. Green of Leydard and his wife, Elizabeth Westcott Green, of Norwich, which have been before the superior court on a suit for divorce which Mrs. Green brought but lost on the grounds of intolerable cruelty, again reached the court for trial here Wednesday when Judge P. W. Wade, Marvin heard the evidence in Mrs. Green's suit for non-support.

The groom was a bachelor of 59 when he married the plaintiff in this case, who had already been twice married and twice a widow. He was followed by Mrs. Green, who was the first witness, testified that her married life lasted just four weeks after the ceremony on April 24, 1920, by Rev. A. F. Purkiss in this city. The wedding was followed by very persistent wooing on the part of Green after she had answered his advertisement for a housekeeper. When he found that she was Scotch he was greatly pleased and suggested marriage at once. She put this off, but he got a marriage license without her knowledge and as a final move to hurry the ceremony promised to give her $9,000 as soon as they were married. He followed her to Mrs. Green had been to the farmhouse in Leydard before she was married, she testified, and she also described the conditions when her husband took her there. She said that she had no sheets nor pillow cases, and that her husband brought to the barn, from which he brought a couple of horse blankets. The stable odor was so strong that she could not stay in the room. Mrs. Green described living conditions during the four weeks she was at the house, and said the place was not fit for animals to live in. They lived mostly on rotten corned beef and cabbage. She followed tea or coffee, allowed her one egg a day, and she was compelled to drink hot water out of a tin cup in lieu of coffee or tea. Her husband wanted her to help him in the field by riding the horse while he plowed. On the night she left the house she had arranged to have two neighbors by the name of Norcross secretly themselves near a wall where they could hear her and talk to her. Mrs. Green testified that it was night and she told him she was going to walk to Norwich, but he showed no interest and let her go. Mrs. Norcross allowed her to stay that night at the Norcross home, and the next day she came to Norwich.

Dr. F. J. Harper told of the poor physical condition of Mrs. Green which, he said, arose from her experience on the farm. She had a high fever and was recently amputated at the Home Memorial hospital at New London, following serious injury from a gunshot wound, is reported as generally satisfactory. Mr. Hislop was present at the trial and is expected under the circumstances, and will be confined to the hospital for some time to come. No outlook for complete recovery was given, but it is said he is said to be gradually improving.

It was learned here Wednesday that the accident happened from Mr. Hislop's hunting mitten catching the trigger. On the way home after the trial, Mr. Hislop was carrying the gun in the customary manner of hunters under one arm with the muzzle towards the ground.

NORWICH HAS 9,840 ON VOTING LIST

Norwich has a total of 9,840 voters at the present time on the voting list of the town, of whom 5,919 are men and 3,921 women. This is the figure upon which returns will be made to the county clerk by the moderator of the First district after the revision of the district lists, the addition of new voters and the addition of names of restored voters, which has been done by the registrars and assistant registrars.

The following are the figures by districts:

Table with 3 columns: District, Men, Women, Totals. Rows: First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Totals.

In the recent November election, 4,450 men and 2,908 women voted, a total of 7,358, which was about 75 per cent of those registered and entitled to vote.

Of the 3,921 women voters the largest part are the younger married or unmarried women of the town. They are showing much greater interest in exercising the franchise than the older women have shown.

The registrars, Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, have just completed making up the list of women who have been married since they were made voters. There are just 100 since women received the full franchise two years ago. The names are recorded in a special book prepared by the registrars and placed in the office of Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook. In order to maintain the continuity between the name under which the woman is registered as a single woman and her married name, the registrars are establishing the practice of carrying her single name along with her married name in the book. For instance: if a woman who was registered when single as Clara Jones married a man named Brown, her name in the special book will appear as Clara Jones Brown. This, it can be readily seen, identifies the married woman who votes under the latter name as the single woman who was registered as Clara C. Jones.

DOG CHASE BUCK INTO MAIN STREET OF BALTIMORE

Baltimore was treated to an unusual sight early Wednesday evening, when a big buck deer, chased by four dogs down Main street, took refuge under the stable of Thomas Burke.

The buck, with four dogs at his heels, came tearing out of the brush at the north end of the town and turning down Main street, with his four-foot spread of antlers glancing in the electric lights, took refuge under the barn. There was considerable excitement on the part of the young men, Thomas Hussey and Edward Farrell, went to the animal's rescue after he had been trapped under the barn.

The animal fought back viciously and several times kicked his would-be captors in the legs and stomach. After putting up a stiff fight for a few minutes the animal broke off a board, enlarging an opening in the walls of the building and he jumped through, swam the river and disappeared in the woods.

No outlook for complete recovery was given, but it is said he is said to be gradually improving.

colleges and similar institutions show an increase in value of 22.2 per cent, all of which reflects the great growth of educational institutions in Connecticut.

A large increase of from $4,821,761 to $5,925,853 is shown in exemptions to soldiers, sailors and blind persons as a result of the participation by the United States in World War. This is particularly significant in view of the fact that there was a decrease in 1913 of 18.3 per cent from the total exemption granted to soldiers, sailors and blind persons in 1914, the outcome of the rapid decrease in the number of surviving soldiers who served in the Civil war, and whose property, while they are living, is exempt from taxation to a certain amount.

MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR ANTI-LYNCHING LEGISLATION

"We are determined to fight for the passage of the Dyer bill, and when Congress comes in we expect the republican party to redress its campaign pledges and enact this bill which will prevent future lynchings in our country," said Miss Alice Dunbar Nelson, manager of the Dyer bill, Wednesday evening at an open meeting in the town hall under the auspices of the Norwich and Lyme anti-lynching crusaders, and in the interest of the Dyer bill. An audience of 150 was present.

"The crusade fails the honor of being the first state in the union to get back of the crusade movement and your state has kept things humming," she continued. "The anti-lynching crusaders have bandied themselves together for the purpose of creating sentiment all over this country against lynching people, not only of colored blood, but people of any race. The question today as it stands is no longer a racial one, it affects every red-blooded American who believes in the honor of America shall not go down because of the barbarous acts."

"The C. C. society enjoyed a most successful convention of the grange here today that the only justification for a subsidy would be the return to taxpayers 'its equivalent in enhanced values or reduction in costs.' Every state master of the grange has been called upon for his views on the ship subsidy. Mr. Lowell said, and that the replies were 'almost unanimous' against it."

"Touching upon establishment of a national department of education, Mr. Lowell said he opposed 'having the government take over any function which the people should perform for themselves.'"
