THE ACADEMY PROPOSITION.
What must be regarded as throwing much enlightenment upon the matter of increased facilities for high school education in Norwich was the statement made before the Academy of Commerce...

It is a most favorable sign when we are told that the demands for high school education has so far outgrown the facilities that another year will show the present equipment unable to meet them.

CLERMENCEAU'S VIEW.
Clemenceau comes to this country as a representative Frenchman, in the interests of France, but without ties.
His is a self appointed mission in which he plans to give this country a plain picture of the aims of France and hopes as the result to bring about a change in the views of this country relative to settling into European affairs.

WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.
Those who invested in war savings certificates are probably wondering where the five years have gone to since those days in 1918 when they bought these government securities to aid the government in financing the war.

EDITORIAL NOTES.
The death of the New York elephant makes it impossible to claim that whiskey saved her life.
It is not always fair to judge the Fate-Harvard combat by what Princeton has done to them.

UTILIZING FACILITIES.
When the statement is made that plans are being made for the organization of a transportation company that will operate vessels from Duluth, through the great lakes and the New York state barge canal to New York it means the utilization of a waterway that the government of New York has been urging ever since there was advocacy of the development of the St. Lawrence river.

Those middle-west bank robbers who used nothing faster than a buggy to get away in may not have been up to date but success crowned their efforts.
A New Hampshire turkey raiser quotes the fact that his birds have been slow to come to their corn as one reason for believing they do not foretell an early or hard winter.

SPANGLER NEGLIGENCE.
Called to determine the responsibility in connection with the explosion in the coal mine at Spangler, Pa., where 77 miners lost their lives, the coroner's jury has given its verdict to the effect that the colliery company management was to blame inasmuch as it did not heed the warnings that had been given and failed to provide the needed safety guards for the protection of the human lives.

SUPREME TEST.
John Griggaby, I wasn't expecting you for three days! Why didn't you let me know you were coming?
Mrs. Griggaby, hurrying downstairs to greet her husband, was stopped midway by his uplifted hand.
"Just a minute, Mary," he said. "Before I kiss you, I want you to answer a question. Do you trust me?"
"Of course I do. What on earth—?"
"In the twenty-five years we have been married, have you ever known me to lie to you?"
"No, John. Never. What's wrong?" You told you something and gave your my word of honor that it was true, would you believe it?"
"Yes, I would," said Mrs. Griggaby decidedly. "Now stop this foolishness at once, and tell me what's the matter with you. You've scared me half to death."

Today's Anniversaries 1812—The first general assembly of the territory of Illinois convened at Kaskaskia.
1814—The Tennessee militia under Gen.
Carroll embarked on the Cumberland river to join Gen. Jackson's army at New Orleans.
1848—Pope Pius IX, disguised as a servant, fled to Gaeta, a fortified Neapolitan seaport.
1864—Benjamin Silliman, who was the first to promote agricultural demonstration was necessary to bring the conditions to attention. It shows the harm in disregarding reports. There have been plenty of opportunities for that management to gather profitable lessons from other mine fatalities.
Whether there are mines with conditions similar to those at Spangler before the explosion will be told only by the absence of repetitions.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE St. Robert A. Falconer, who is to be the orator today, at the Founders' Day exercises of Carnegie Institute of Technology, is president of the University of Toronto. His administration of that institution for fifteen years has made him an important figure in the educational life of the Dominion. By vocation he is a Presbyterian clergyman, who was teaching in and administering the Presbyterian college at Halifax when he was summoned to the Toronto post. He was born in Prince Edward Island, spent his boyhood in Trinidad, and studied at the universities of Berlin, Leipzig, Marburg, and Edinburgh, fitting himself for teaching New Testament Greek. The title of Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George was conferred upon him in 1911, and that of Knight Companion of the same order in 1917.

Stories That Recall Others Their Secret Betrays Them.
An automobile with a trailing cloud of blue smoke was passing a big body farmhouse where a persistent odor assailed the nostrils of every occupant of the car.
"Who?" exclaimed one of the members of the motoring party in a loud, carrying voice. "They've got polenta." By that time the cloud of exhaust smoke had reached two boys in the yard of the farmhouse. One of them exclaimed to the other, "Go, Mickey, what a smell!"
He was the banker.
Two arms of the law were going over some of their experiences in the light of activities by a group of fakirs. The elder of the two told this one:
"A party man entered the office and shaking his head sadly said that he had been fleeced of $5,000. He started to relation the details but I told him he need not go any further. I knew the details.
That scheme had been worked a thousand times. What I was curious about was that his banker should have turned over such a large sum to him without making any investigation for the purpose of protecting his interests. So I asked him, 'Didn't your banker question you about drawing so much at one time?' 'Ah, that's it,' was his reply. 'I'm the banker.'"

Connecticut Postmasters.
(Special to The Bulletin.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—The President today nominated the following Connecticut postmasters sending their names to the President: Berlin, Alfred A. Barrett; Grubb, W. Kenneth; Avery, Higginson, Irving S. Cook; Mechanicville, Michael J. Kenney; Pomfret Center, W. Gardiner Davis; Wallingford, W. Frank Smith.
Great Pyramid
As to the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, volumes have been written about it, and dozens more could be written. There is not one single stone or measurement in the whole gigantic edifice that does not seem to point to a scientific purpose, although that purpose continues a dispute.
This much is certain: Whoever built the pyramid knew a lot more in many ways than do our modern scientists. Here are a few facts. It is the only building in the world that is oriented exactly to the four points of the compass. Its measurements extended, gives the weight of the world in tons and the mean distance between the earth and sun is miles. Its base is an exact fraction of the diameter of the earth from pole to pole—to be exact, the ten-millionth part of the earth's semi-axis. It stands within a few feet of the exact center of the earth's habitable area, and in all likelihood is only those few feet out of place because the rock on which it stands is necessary to its foundation. Its descending passage points upwards exactly towards the Pole Star. Its inside temperature is exactly the mean between the boiling and freezing points of water at that level. Its dimensions are said to solve the problem of the squaring of the circle; and, strangely enough, it appears to establish the metric basis of the English gallon measure and the English inch, as against the so-called metric measure.

The great coffin, which was the only thing ever found inside the pyramid, had the same dimensions as those of the Jewish Ark of the Covenant—Adventure Magazine.
Forceful Leadership Wanted.
But the country wants forceful and definite leadership, and we believe a good deal of the discontent registered at the recent election arose from a sense of uncertainty, inconsistency and lack of principal action in congress. In both senate and house the chairmanships should be chosen from the men who have the qualification of leadership, and we think the reform cannot come too soon.—Chicago Tribune.
