

TENNIS LEADERS AGREE TO THE STANDARDIZATION OF RULES

London, Dec. 21.—(By the A. P.)—Representatives of all the principal tennis-playing nations met here, agreed today to standardization of the rules of the game.

The American standard of required resiliency in the balls was also adopted. Heretofore the governing body of no other nation has made a specific rule as to resiliency, but only as to size and weight.

The American provision for a rest period after the first set in men's matches and after the second set in women's, it was decided, shall hereafter be universally followed in international contests. The various nations agreed to accept this rule for purely domestic matches.

Up to the present the English have not allowed rest periods, and critics have complained that this resulted in stamina being more important than skill in long and close court battles.

A new international foot fault rule was adopted, and this, also, is substantially the same as that effective in the United States.

The unified rules agreed upon today must be ratified by the individual governing bodies of the various nations.

The American resiliency rules, which were adopted, provides that the balls have a minimum bound of 45 inches and a maximum of 50 inches when dropped from a height of 100 inches, upon a concrete base in a temperature of 68 degrees Fahrenheit.

This is expected to work to the immediate advantage of visiting teams as heretofore the balls used in England were not as "lively" as required in America; consequently American players competing here had to accustom their play and strokes to the low bounciness of the British balls.

The delegate adopted the English standard of size and weight, which varies but slightly from that obtained in the United States.

A sub-committee, of which Henry Slocum, the American representative, is a member, was appointed to meet tomorrow for the purpose of putting the new universal regulations into the proper phraseology.

The American's objection to the International Tennis Federation agreement granting Wimbledon the right to stage the world's championships in perpetuity was the subject of informal discussion today. While all the delegates were silent as to the definite outlook they agreed that the concord among the tennis officials was the best ever, pressing an early agreement on the matter.

Mr. Slocum said this concord was such that "it looks as though we will be able to reach an agreement on any subject."

Some of the delegates hinted that one possible solution was to do away with the world's championship, and to declare it unwanted and unneeded in the realm of tennis.

The opinion of tennis enthusiasts gathered outside the room where the delegates met in secret was, however, that the public craves duly-crowned title-holders.

UNOFFICIAL RANKING OF TENNIS PLAYERS Although no official announcement has been issued from the offices of the United States Lawn Tennis association in reference to the ranking of the first 10 players of the country, the identity of the leading decade is pretty well known among tennis followers.

Dame Furnor has the first 10 ranked in this order: 1.—William Tilden, Philadelphia, Pa. 2.—William M. Johnston, San Francisco, Cal.

3.—Vincent Richards, New York. 4.—R. Norris Williams, Philadelphia. 5.—Robert Kinsey, San Francisco. 6.—Zeno Shimizu, New York.

7.—Wallace Johnson, Philadelphia. 8.—Howard Kinsey, San Francisco. 9.—Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle. 10.—Watson M. Washburn, New York.

This ranking, insofar as the first three players are concerned, coincides with that made last season, but from No. 3 to No. 10 on the list there are some notable changes.

Wallace F. Johnson, the Philadelphia chop stroke connoisseur, has been dropped from fourth to seventh, for instance.

Jack Kearns says he is not worrying about Jack Dempsey's condition despite the champion's long illness, because he exercises daily and takes good care of himself. However, light sparring bouts with familiar partners do not teach a fighter anything and when a boxer ceases to improve, he begins to go back. Dempsey needs action and needs it badly. There is no question about that. If the champion is wise he will make things as easy as possible for the promoter, so that they can put him into the ring without further delay.

HAUGHTON SEES HARD YALE-HARVARD GAME

Boston, Dec. 21.—Three hundred Harvard graduates paid their tribute to the Crimson football team at the annual "victory" dinner of Boston's Harvard club.

Percy D. Haughton, former Harvard football mentor, and "Bob" Fisher, present head coach, called upon for speeches pointed out the Yale football under Ted Jones, was annually showing improvement and each declared that the most vital conflict in the history of the rivalry of the Blue and the Crimson would come in 1923.

Haughton, hailed as the father of Harvard football, declared that Yale had failed to duplicate the personnel of the Harvard coaching staff and had also failed to produce the simple plays with which Harvard has beaten Yale repeatedly.

MUCH INTEREST IN ALL COLLEGIAN-THREAD CO. GAME

Willimantic, Dec. 21.—A great deal of interest is being centered upon the outcome of the All Collegian-Thread Co. game, which is to be staged at the state armory this (Friday) evening.

Extensive seating arrangements have been made by Manager Frank M. McQuinn in anticipation of the largest crowd ever witnessed in this city.

The visitors lineup is composed of men who have won distinction in college basketball, and it includes Joe Smith, Sam Sullivan, Red Dayland, Joe Guerra, Les Woodford and Eddie Sullivan or Sam Pike. It is safe to state that Joe Smith is considered one of the best all-round hoopers in college circles, and the remainder of the aggregation need no introduction to this city.

The local management will stand pat on its original lineup, which has shown itself to be good advantage in its first games of the schedule. The combination will be as follows: Captain Bobby Higgins, Leo Normandin, Joe Bolair, Denny Murphy, Jack Murphy and Duffy Connell.

One thing which assures the fans of a hard clash is that the All Collegian program does not call for a return game, and with that in mind they are sure to fight well for victory in their only game with the locals.

The preliminary game will start at 8:30 o'clock and it will bring in contact the Company G outfit of this city and Company G of Manchester.
