JOSEPH CONNOR AND SON'S STORE BURGLARIZED THURSDAY NIGHT The third burglary in little more than a month occurred some time Thursday night or early Friday morning at the store of Joseph Connor and Sons, of 48-51 Water street, wholesale grocers and tobacco dealers, and a large quantity of cases were stolen by the thief who made a clean getaway.

The break was discovered Friday morning by Joseph Connor when the store was opened for business. Inside the store there was evidence that a burglar had been busy and an investigation led to the discovery that a pane of the broken glass, the tracks made by the burglar making his escape that way, and a peculiar incident was that outside the building leading from the window by the broken glass, the tracks made by the burglar leaving the building are plainly visible in the snow.

These tracks lead away from the store and although a search was made on all sides of the store no tracks could be found showing that the burglar had made an entrance into the store. Mr. Connor believes that the burglar evidently made the break into the store by way of the roof, or had entered the building during the day, hid somewhere in the building and made his cleanup and escape after the help had gone for the night.

The burglar's tracks are not only leading away from the building but also point out that the break was a one-man job. There is every evidence that the burglar believed himself to be entirely safe from detection, as evidence within the store shows that he must have been at work there for a number of hours before making his escape.

Knowledge that the burglar worked inside the store for some time is gained by marks on a heavy door inside the store that made into the room where thousands of dollars worth of tobacco is stored. This heavy door had been battered and hacked by some instrument but withstood the attack and after working on it for some time the burglar gave it up and paid attention to a window that opened into the tobacco department.

This window was heavily bolted and showed marks of a heavier instrument, but the heavy door the burglar withstood the attack of the burglar and only by the fact that such safe methods were taken by Connor & Sons to protect this valuable stock was a great loss prevented.

The police were notified of the break Friday morning and made an investigation. A search of the premises outside of the building led to the discovery of a jimmy, evidently used by the burglar in his endeavor to force the door and window leading into the tobacco department. No other clues could be found although the evidence within the store showed that the burglar had taken his time and selected only the best stock to take with him.

Friday night Mr. Connor could give no statement as to his loss, but he said that the burglar had taken a large quantity of Ring and Mackintosh cigars, which he had no means of knowing were gained to the cellar but nothing was taken.

BIGGEST DAY IN HISTORY OF POSTOFFICE Friday at the local postoffice was the biggest day in the history of the office. From early morning until nearly midnight the men of the department assisted by many of its carriers and assistant carriers, rushed about the city to get it ready in time to catch the outgoing trains.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the office was literally swamped with letters, cards, bundles and all packages of all kinds which had to be sorted and dispatched to the proper destinations before the men could call the day done.

When mail sacks went over 1,000 on Thursday last previous records of mail handled at the office had been passed and it seemed as though the men could handle no more. Friday the sacks began to come in early and by night the office had handled over 1,000 outgoing sacks, nearly twice as many as were handled in 1921 which was a record year.

Up until Friday night the office had handled over 5,000 sacks of mail, the biggest week ever known in Norwich. Special delivery business jumped ahead of all previous records when on Friday the office handled over 200 letters and packages.

With all delivery trucks busy and every man in the office working nearly double time, Postmaster Murphy stated Friday night that all mail received by the office Thursday had been taken care of and the office expected to keep up with the rush.

It is hoped that by Monday the delivery practically of all mail received at the office during the greatest rush in its history will be cleaned up by the force.

Postmaster Murphy feels that Norwich is fortunate to have men in the postoffice of the calibre of those that serve the public in this city. Every man has worked long hours without rest, and the clerks and carriers have earned a well deserved rest until another year.
