St. Louis National Guards.—This fine company of citizen soldiery arrived in our city on Saturday evening, en route for their homes from the Cincinnati celebration.

Monday morning the GUARDS paraded through Washington street, presenting the finest appearance and most perfect drill.

As they marched to the music of the superior band which accompanied them. Every one regretted that the Guards could not stay longer with us.

Capt. SLOAN, of the Bates House, prepared one of the finest dinners ever spread in this city, on Sunday last.

The GUARDS left us on Monday noon for St. Louis. May they all live to again visit Indianapolis; and should Abolitionism prevent in bringing on civil war in Kansas.

SHARP'S RIFLE MEETING.—Our reporter furnishes an interesting account of the blood and thunder speeches at the Sharp's rifle meeting held in this city on Saturday last.

From Washington. (Continued from page 1.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 28, 1856. Editors Sentinel.—We had a meeting of the great debate on Kansas matters, which will likely engage the attention of this Congress in the House to-day.

It is upon this that the debate was had. The Committee on the conduct of the war, elected in the House, and the laws of the land, came into the House, and asked that body to clothe them with the extraordinary power of sending for persons and papers.

Where is the necessity then of incurring the expense of sending for persons and papers, who have shown themselves at all times ready and willing to furnish their position for the latest purposes, but they now ask that they may be permitted to spend a few millions of dollars in paying the expenses of their Abolition confederates in Kansas to Washington, and keeping them there at the public expense, and for what?

What are the facts in regard to this Territorial Legislature, about which all are agreed? They are these: In accordance with the organic law, Gov. Reeder, when he stepped into the office of Governor, he issued his orders, directing an election for members of the Legislature.

He issued commissions to all except five or six. A special election was then ordered to fill the vacancies, and commissions given by him to the gentlemen so elected.

ordinary resolution to transport Abolitionists from Kansas here to Washington, and back again at the public expense, to subvert the State, and inflame, by one-sided statements, the people of the State.

But, said some of your speakers, the law of 1851 only applies to the States, and has no application to the Territories. He replied that he had already shown that Reeder proposed to proceed without admitting its application to his case.

But to clothe the matter, and leave no room for dispute, I quote the following from the Constitution and laws of the United States: "That the Constitution and all laws of the United States that are not locally inapplicable shall have full force and effect within the Territory of Kansas as elsewhere within the United States, except the eighth section."

Where is the necessity then of incurring the expense of sending for persons and papers, who have shown themselves at all times ready and willing to furnish their position for the latest purposes, but they now ask that they may be permitted to spend a few millions of dollars in paying the expenses of their Abolition confederates in Kansas to Washington, and keeping them there at the public expense, and for what?

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 27, 1856. The Sentinel. The subscription list of the Sentinel is increasing with unexampled rapidity. Its circulation is now larger than it has ever been in any former period of its history, and every week adds hundreds to the list of subscribers.

It is a fact encouraging to the Democracy, that the subscription list of the Sentinel is increasing most rapidly in counties which have been formerly Whig, such as Hendricks, Putnam, and several others. This proves that the Democracy is increasing with unexampled rapidity.
