ARRIVAL OF THE TROOP INDIANA.—On Saturday night, about nine o'clock, the Tenth Indiana, Colonel Mansur, arrived from Western Virginia. They proceeded immediately to the West Market House, where they partook of a repast provided for them in advance. We can not, just here, speak in too exaggerated terms of the generous hospitality of our citizens generally with reference to our returning troops. They recognize the fact that the battles of the Union are fought by those who stay at home, as well as by those who bear the brunt of battle. In very truth nothing could have been more admirable on the part of any community anywhere in the whole Union, receiving their gallant soldiers home from fields of blood.

By this very fact, and we hope the soldiers appreciate it, it is demonstrated the high esteem and honor in which those who go forth to fight the battles of the Union are held. Beautiful ladies with bouquets, not only met their lovers, but showered them promiscuously upon all the heroes. What greater reward or glory could there be under the moon, the sun and all the stars for a man who had bared his breast to the bullets of the foe? What greater incentive on God's earth can he have? After the sumptuous repast at the market house was partaken of the regiment, at about 10 o'clock, with terrific thunder clouds overhead, were drawn up in line in front of the Capitol.

Richard J. Ryan, in the absence of the Governor, addressed them. We need not say that Mr. Ryan was eloquent. He always is eloquent; and upon such an occasion, when the patriotism of a man is heated, and when his words are heard tumultuously from his heart to his brain, Dick Ryan is eloquent. He said that he would be killed, or wounded, or return home without a scar, if he don't die with dysentery or some other camp complaint. Gloriously will he uphold the stars and stripes if he has to carry them himself.

Major Wilson, in behalf of the gallant boys, responded patriotically. He was followed by Brigadier Major Blake, who modestly insisted that all the glory of this war was not to be claimed for the Tenth Indiana. They had done no more than their duty. Major Blake gave others the credit that was justly their due—precisely as a gallant soldier would. A brave man is always magnanimous. Major Blake's effort was among the most eloquent of his life, and he is known among the foremost of our orators, and he is likewise illustrating himself as a military man. The speeches having been made, the regiment was marched off to quarters—Mr. Holloway, the Governor's Private Secretary, having seen that everything was duly provided in this regard.

A friend of ours who visited the Catholic Academy in this city, conducted by Sister St. Ambrose, Superior, states to us that in respect to the accommodations of the building for pupils and boarders there is no where to be found a building so well adapted for its purposes. Its halls are airy, its porches are wide and convenient both as respects school rooms and sleeping rooms; its ceilings are lofty with windows affording ample illumination throughout the building, and in all its appointments the Academy is worthy of the efforts of the indefatigable Superior, and of the sisters of the mother academy, who, through the efforts of the congregation of this city, have sustained and encouraged the institution.

This is a branch of the institution of the "Sisters of Providence of St. Marys of the Woods," founded by Mother Theodore, which is now enjoying the fruits of long labor and of trying circumstances. The Mother Institute is now erecting and about completing a magnificent building forming on a plan enlarged sufficiently to accommodate the increased and still increasing number of pupils who are desirous of receiving education under its tuition.

The Mother of this Institution, Mother Cecilia, was until the demise of Mother Theodore, Superior of the Academy at St. Marys, and into her care and management is confided the superintendence of the Mother Institution and its branches.

We may say that the success which the Academy here has met with is ample evidence of the necessity which required its establishment. Its prosperity, under the present management, will be commensurate with the growth, importance and intelligence of our city and people.

DISCREPANCY.—On Saturday last, a soldier, armed with a musket and bayonet, met two ladies on Illinois street, and immediately proceeded to charge upon them. The ladies endeavored to get out of his way, but he laid hands upon them and said that he would shoot them if they did not give him money. Mr. Henry Merritt, seeing what was going on, stepped forward, and capturing the military gentleman, the ladies had an opportunity of escaping. We have not heard whether this soldier was called upon to answer to a civil authority or not.

A WOMAN IN SOLDIER'S CLOTHES.—A virtuous young lady from Lafayette, was yesterday discovered in Capt. Hervey's company, enlisted, as she fondly hoped, for the war. The proclamation of the President was read to her, and she was innocently sold out of camp, much to her chagrin. If the young lady desired to be grammatically sound in this paragraph that she was sold out, she should have said "she was sold out by the Captain found out, we are authorized to say, he was very indignant. He would not, if he knew it, permit anything of that kind.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The Rev. Father Dr. Maria, S. J., of St. Louis, preached an eloquent and edifying sermon at St. John's (Catholic) Church, yesterday. The vast edifice was crowded with eager listeners. The Rev. Father is on his way to Cleveland, there to give a retreat. His eloquence and his piety and his amiable manners were everywhere esteemed and rendered him successful in his holy mission.

Captain Fryberger, we notice in the Cincinnati Enquirer, is in that city on business connected with the artillery company he is now raising. It will be at home a day or two at his headquarters, at the Palmer House.

The beautiful rain which fell over this region on Saturday night, was of infinite benefit to the growing crop, especially to fields which had been planted late. A good Providence is taking care of us.

Robert A. Cook has been appointed Assistant Surgeon of the 12th Regiment, viz Dr. Cassberry, resigned.

The first regimental parade of the 20th Regiment, Col. Brown, will be a new one. The evolutions of the men were magnificent.

Col. Brown's Regiment, the 20th Indiana, will have probably some day this week.

CONGRESSIONAL.
WASHINGTON, Saturday, July 27, 1864.
SENATE.—The joint resolution approving the act of the President was taken up.

Mr. Johnson, of Tennessee, proceeded to speak at length in favor of the resolution. His speech was listened to with great interest, and he was referred to Mr. Breckinridge's late speech. He quoted from the Alabama papers that a man who was desirable, and also from Mr. Russell's letter to the London Times, which was quoted from the Richmond papers, which said rather than submit to the United States they would go under the rule of the amiable Queen of Great Britain. He quoted from a Memphis paper, which said, "if necessary, let Harris be King and the Mayor of Memphis be Duke." He also quoted from various other newspaper documents and contended that it was plain there was a desire to change the character and nature of the Government.

HOUSE.—The House passed the Senate bill appropriating $2,000,000 to pay for the transportation and maintenance of the Tenth Indiana in the rebellious States, and the organization of such persons for their protection against insurrection and domestic violence.

Mr. Morrill suggested a modification which Mr. McClernand accepted, that the Committee of Ways and Means be instructed to report a bill with a bill on the basis of $20,000,000 by direct taxation and that such other sums as may be necessary to be raised by the personal income or wealth of the country.

Mr. Stevens spoke of the injurious effect of the impression going abroad that the tariff to be levied on the importation of goods from the United States is to be one thing one day and another thing the next.

Sunday Night's Dispatches.

From Alexandria.
ALEXANDRIA, July 27.—Mrs. Hinsdel, whose husband is a member of St. Michaels' regiment, which is now in Virginia, was taken up by her husband at Centerville during the engagement on Sunday, and watched there the return of the soldiers, looking for her husband. Failing to see him she supposed him a prisoner at Minnaweb. She was captured and conveyed her thither, and employed her as her hospital nurse.

Thursday she procured a pass from Gen. Heugart and his consent to leave. She walked to Alexandria where she arrived this morning fatigued and exhausted. Her husband was not a prisoner, but returned with his regiment. She reports to be at the junction a large number of our wounded.

The enemy say they have over 1,000 prisoners. Mrs. H. brings verbal messages from several of our soldiers to their friends and says that the wounded are well cared for.

Mr. H. says that the Confederates buried their dead as fast as they could be recovered, and that the enemy represented that they had but about 500 killed, but their wounded exceed 1,500. She also reports that the Confederates buried their dead as fast as they could be recovered, and that the enemy represented that they had but about 500 killed, but their wounded exceed 1,500.
