THE BOYS IN BLUE.

A very large audience was in attendance at the camp-fire of the Boys in Blue, at Central Hall, last evening. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, with overflow extending out into the approaches.

The meeting was called to order by Colonel H. H. Linnell, who called upon the Amphion quartet for a song. The singers were Mr. Baunton, first tenor; Mr. Groves, second tenor; Mr. Bailorson, first bass, and Mr. Auerbach, second bass. They gave a vocal number, which was well received, and sang a soldiers' glee as an encore.

Mr. B. K. Clark, a staff officer of the Department Commandery of the Boys in Blue of California, was then introduced. He expressed the object and methods of working of the organization of the Boys in Blue, and said the organization was headed by their old commander, General U. S. Grant. [Long applause.]

SUICIDE OF MRS. PRITCHARD.

Mrs. W. L. Pritchard at an early hour yesterday morning, while sitting under a tree in the garden, took her own life. She has for several years past been in very poor and declining health, and which has at times more recently seemed to impair her mind, and frequently causing great despondency.

During these occasions she often manifested great fear of harm to her son or others, and at other times expressed herself as if life was tiresome to her. Probably while under this condition of mind, interested in the temporary aberration, she was led to the taking of her life, the circumstances of which, as shown at the inquest, being as follows: Night before last her son, W. L. Pritchard, Jr., who is living at home, was out in the evening till a late hour, and his mother, fearing something happened to him, went out in search of him, and when she returned he was at home. It was late in the night. She said she had been looking for him, and thought he was killed. She seemed excited, and she got her to go to bed, and tried to get her quiet; laid down beside her and talked, and they both fell asleep. When she awoke, she found her son's clock yesterday morning, and he found that she had gone. He got up, spoke to the Chinese servant, and they started to look for her; went to the back door, and there saw her hanging by a rope, suspended by the neck in the grape arbor at the rear of her residence. They at once gave alarm, and neighbors immediately came to the scene, finding her dead and her body cold. She had gone upon a step ladder, and fastened one end of a piece of clothes line to the top of the ladder, and the other around her neck. She thus swung off from the ladder, and death ensued from strangulation. When found she wore a very natural and life-like appearance, and showed no signs of violence. The step ladder stood by her, upon one of the steps of which one foot rested lightly, and she was dressed in her night attire. The coroner was at once notified, and soon came, and the body was removed to the house, where an inquest was held last evening.

The inquest was held last evening, and the jury returned a verdict of suicide. The coroner was at once notified, and soon came, and the body was removed to the house, where an inquest was held last evening.
