Counting the Electoral Vote.

WASHINGTON, January 28th.—The electoral vote are to be counted one week from next Wednesday, but as yet there is very little prospect of a speedy revision of the returns to govern the proceedings. It is the intention of the Democratic party managers to call up the bill to amend the Electoral Code to continue their filibustering opposition indefinitely, and of the further certainty that at least four or five Democrats will vote against Mr. Randall's efforts to procure its passage. The principal difficulty arose is that when the vote of Georgia shall be reached by the majority, an objection will arise whether or not it shall be counted. If the Vice-President assumes the sole right to count the vote, and either records it or throws it out, it will be subject to objection. In 1857 the State of Wisconsin cast the Electoral vote on the day after that prescribed by law in the case of the election of Governor of the State, and when in the Joint Convention Wisconsin was called the tellers held the vote, and the Vice-President announced it by a unanimous vote. Hypothetically it did not effect the result, but the two houses separated and debated the question for two days, but finally agreed nothing except to adopt a resolution to notify Buchanan that he had been elected President and Breckinridge Vice-President. If there is a tie in the electoral vote, the President will be chosen by the Senate and the Vice-President by the House.

Proposed Postal Telegraph.

WASHINGTON, January 28th.—Kirkwood introduced a bill in the Senate today to amend the United States Postal Telegraph Company of Iowa to extend its operations all over the United States, a measure which would increase the rates for postal service in connection with it, which are: One cent for drop letter delivery, two cents for ordinary delivery, and such rates as may be fixed by the Postmaster-General for special delivery, when a receipt may be demanded by the sender.

MANAYUNK (Pa.), January 28th.—Richard Hayes' cotton yarn mill was today damaged by fire to the extent of $100,000. Thomas H. Ketchum, the manager, was burned, and several others narrowly escaped.

CHICAGO, January 28th.—The extensive picture frame manufactory of Sammons, Nichols, and Clark is burning. It was destroyed a few months ago when located on Randolph street.

CHICAGO, January 28th.—The loss by the Sammons & Clark fire is $27,000 to $30,000, according to the insurance companies.

LONDON, January 28th.—In the House of Commons today Light Hon. Hugh C. Childers, Secretary of War, announced that Sir George Colley had been killed at the battle of the Tloah, on the 26th inst. "Attack on the pass repulsed. Casualties heavy, but not yet known. I hold the capture of the Tloah as a dash, and the loss of the Tloah as a disaster. The Secretary of War said he believed the English attack had been repulsed."

LONDON, January 28th.—A dispatch from Durban gives the following account of the capture of the Tloah: "The British advance guard, consisting of a portion of the Fifty-eighth Regiment and a force of horse and foot, was engaged in the morning. The attack was at first partially successful, but subsequently the Boers were strongly reinforced and repulsed. The British troops with heavy loss were suffering severely, and were unable to maintain their former positions, but General Sir George Colley must now await the infantry portion of the force before he can advance to the Tloah."
