The Duke of Richmond made some very significant remarks at a dinner and his dinner in London yesterday. He said he was irreconcilably opposed to the importation of cattle from America or anywhere else. In his opinion this had been the cause of the dining pleuro-pneumonia, foot and mouth disease, and all other ills that bovine flesh is heir to. He believed it was the imperative duty of Parliament to pass a law which should permit the importation of dead meat only. His Grace assured his hearers he would make resolution to this effect at the next session of Parliament, and would use his best endeavors to see that it became a law. His Grace was cheered loudly at the conclusion of his remarks.

DIABOLICAL CONSPIRACY.

A terrible crime has been brought to light in Alameda county through the death and repentance and confession of one of the conspirators. In the month of July, 1880, one Robert Peacock was arrested upon a charge of assaulting a little girl named Edith Martin. The case was tried before Judge Greene, in Department Two of the Superior Court of Alameda county. The principal witnesses were Mrs. Mary Martin, mother of the child, the child herself and medical experts. The testimony which the child had given was so convincing that the jury appeared conclusive, and Peacock was found guilty and sentenced to fourteen years imprisonment in San Quentin, where he now is. Immediately after Peacock's conviction Mrs. Peacock disappeared, taking her daughter with her, and the affair was forgotten.

Not long ago Mrs. Martin became an inmate of the Alameda county Infirmary. Her sickness began to grow upon her when she began to realize that her life would be of short duration. On Wednesday afternoon, believing herself to be then dying, Mrs. Martin sent for Dr. Burdick, the Superintendent, and stated to him that she wished to make a confession to him under oath, and that she would make amendments for a great injury she had worked upon an innocent party. Accordingly Dr. Burdick sent for Justice of the Peace, Allen and Notary Public J. M. Posten, before whom the dying declaration and confession was made. The confession was to the effect that the charge preferred against Robert Peacock was false; that it was trumped up by herself and Peacock's wife, who was anxious to secure his property; that she (deponent) had for two years been criminally intimate with Peacock, and Mrs. Peacock was cognizant of the affair; that Mrs. Peacock suggested to her the idea of getting her husband out of the way in order that she might secure his property, and that she (deponent) was to receive $500 as her reward. The woman stated under oath that she injured her child in order that the appearance of having been violated, and taught her the lesson she was to repeat in Court.

The trouble with his shins.—A young fellow went to a doctor to have his legs examined, and there came near a consultation of physicians over the case. His shins were black and blue in spots, and he didn't know what was the matter. He said when attending dances and was waiting, he often felt peculiar sensations on the shins bones as though he had been struck with something hard, but he didn't know that it was nervous prostration. The doctor went to the next dance, and when the young man felt the peculiar sensation he whistled, stopped waiting and led the girl up to the doctor. It was soon discovered that the trouble arose from the small leaden bullets that girls wear in the bottom of their shoes to make them stiffer. The young man only danced quadrilles now, Peck's Sun.
