Chute Opera House.
Friday and Saturday evenings next the Daly's appear in "Vacation" and "Upside Down." The Dalys were here less than two years ago and won instant success. In "Vacation" there is, besides hours of merit, an athletic exhibition of special merit. "Upside Down" is a comedy of which nothing is known here. The company has on its roster Thomas A. and George Daly, "Lions" Mac and George and Blanche Sherwood, H. C. Dietz, Miss Emma Jones, Ince, George W.
Dorison, Lizzie Daly, Frank Fisher and George Clark, who are all well known and are known to be competent, and others represented to be of good capacity. The company has had a marked success in San Francisco recently. Unless in the last two years the Dalys have lost favor, all their entertainments here will be of the merit of the merriest order and draw large houses.

Must Render an Account.
Judge Armstrong yesterday ordered a citation to issue directing L. C. Chandler to appear in the Superior Court on Friday, December 14th, and render an account of all moneys received by him belonging to the estate of E. G. Brown, deceased. The citation was issued on the petition of S. B.
Smith, Public Administrator, which sets forth that Chandler has collected $1,129 belonging to said estate and has failed and refused to account for it. E. G. Brown, deceased, was a resident of New Jersey, and left property in this city consisting of a piece of improved real estate on K street, between Front and Second streets, at the time of his death he had placed in the hands of L. C. Chandler to collect the rents.

A GRAND BALL.

One of the grandest social events of the season was the annual promenade concert and ball of the Grand Army of the Republic, at the State Capitol, last night.
The Capitol building was brightly illuminated throughout with electric lights and gas-jets, while the decorations of the different chambers and offices on the second floor under direction of the janitor, L. M.
Landsberg, were neat, appropriate and most admired. As this was looked upon as the leading social event of the season, every one on the tip-toe of expectancy and the number who participated was fully up to that looked for by the management. The Grand Army of the Republic, three wide-awake, active Posts in this city, and their rosters contained the names of many of the leading and successful business men of the city.
As social organizations they are a grand success, and their camp-fires and parades are of great interest. The boys live over again their days on the tented field as they sit around the festal board, drink their wine out of tin cups and tackle hard-tack.

About 8 o'clock the guests began to arrive. They filled the entrance of the Capitol building by Major Wm. H. Ennis, who extended a hearty welcome, and gave the guests the right of admittance. The Adjutant-General's room was used by the gentlemen, while the ladies deposited their wraps in the rooms of the Adjutant-General, where they were carefully by several lady attendants. These rooms were handsomely decorated with bunting, floral and other decorations.
The State Library was also used as a reception room, and State Librarian Wallis is planning and preparing for the elaborate and tasteful decorations.

The floor of the Assembly Chamber was carpeted for dancing. The music stand was erected in the east of the chamber over the Speaker's desk. It was of superb construction, and so completely filled the chamber with music, that the evergreens and smilax that the Hussar Band that occupied it looked as though they were playing in the hall. All around the gallery, suspended from the chandeliers and gas jets, were small American flags, while in the center of the hall was a fair Oaks beautiful sika banner.

Long before 9 o'clock the building was filled and all the available space both in the hallways lobby and gallery was occupied. The First Artillery Band played march music in the east of the chamber until the time for the grand march when they took their position in the west gallery of the Assembly Chamber. At 9 o'clock the grand march commenced, led by Colonel Kellogg, the Grand March was played by the Hussar Band, and was accompanied by the members of the First Artillery Band. The Grand Army of the Republic members were all in full uniform, as were also the members of the First Artillery Band. The participated. Citizens who took part were in full dress. Brigadier-General Sheehan and his staff, Colonel Guthrie and his staff, Captains and Lieutenants of the First Artillery Regiment were out in goodly numbers. The ladies in their handsome and brilliant costumes never showed off to better advantage.

The Husar Band played dance music, and the Artillery Band played march music. Both bands had twenty musicians each, and their music was clear, appropriate and well received.
The Senate Chamber was also hand-somerly decorated. In the center of the hall was a tent, in which a colored individual dispensed lemonade and drinks to the thirsty "without money and without price." Here the "old comrades" who did not care to dance, and the young ones who wished to have a quiet chat with their lady-loves, found a quiet retreat with all the accommodations that their hearts could desire.

At 11 P. M. Grand Commander T. H.
Goodman, of San Francisco, arrived. He was accompanied by Assistant Adjutant General T. H. Taylor; J. L. Rockwell, Secretary of the Soldiers' Home; George Waltz, Post Commander of the General George H. Thomas Post, and a member of the Soldiers' Home Association. Commander Goodman was escorted by his body-guard, the National Guard of California, G. A. R., Captain J. Knowlton, Jr., First Lieutenant S. D. Goe, Second Lieutenant Eugene Wagoner, Quartermaster H. H. Bacon, Commissary J. J. Franks, First Sergeant T. C. Martell, Second Sergeant William McElroy, Third Lieutenant H. B. York, Corporals F. L. Turpin, L. Howell, A. B. Cole, J. A. Page, J.
C. Cannon, Captain J. P. Noyes, and others. The Commander and his body-guard was met at the entrance of the Capitol by the First Artillery Band, playing "Hail to the Chief," and escorted to the Adjutant-General's office, thence to the Assembly Chamber. The body-guard made a very fine appearance.

The dance was participated in by a large number, and all present pronounced the entire affair a grand success.

At 12 o'clock the music ceased in the hallways on the first floor by John Haub, the well-known actor. By the following were the committees in charge were as follows: Of Arrangements—W. B. Mayfield, H. Stevenson, J. N. Larkin, H. H. Richards,

WHO IS RIGHT?

The statement was published a few days since that the District Attorney had notified the three members of the Board of Supervisors who held over under the last Act of the Legislature that they must receive the $25 per month which it has been alleged was drawn without authority of law. It seems this was a mistake, and that the District Attorney was in error. The question of the right of these Supervisors to $75 per month will be settled in another way. It is understood that an agreed case has been made up, by which the matter will be settled by the Supreme Court. Auditor Johnson will draw warrants for the pay of the three Supervisors for December $30, instead of $75, the amount they have been drawing. They will demand $75, and on that basis will be paid by the District Attorney, and on the warrants drawn by the Auditor and they are entitled to it under the law.
