

DAILY RECORD-UNION

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, 1889.

The RECORD-UNION is the only paper on the coast, outside of San Francisco, that receives the full Associated Press dispatches from all parts of the world.

SAN FRANCISCO AGENCIES.

This paper is for sale at the following places: Joseph F. Wiseman, No. 620 Market street, who is also sole Advertising Agent for San Francisco; the principal News stands and Hotels, and at the Market-street Ferry.

FURTHER REASONS FOR A LIBERAL POLICY.

The Managing Board of the Home for Feeble-Minded Children are ladies and gentlemen of philanthropic impulses. They are above the suspicion of having any selfish ends to conserve by reason of their relation to the institution.

Now the fact is that they are not asking for enough. There are over 500 unfortunate in the State whose claims for admission to the Home must in time be recognized, and as our population augments, the number will increase.

Moreover, it must be kept in view that this institution is not to be wholly dependent. It is one into which industrial occupations are already and will be largely introduced, and the Home, if properly equipped now, will certainly become, if not wholly, very largely self-supporting.

It is no longer a question, shall we put these children to work, or are they capable of work? That is already settled in the affirmative. The proper equipment of the institution for employment of the inmates of the Home is therefore necessary. They must have workshops and full complements of tools.

The Superintendent points out that "It is no longer a question, shall we put these children to work, or are they capable of work?" That is already settled in the affirmative. The proper equipment of the institution for employment of the inmates of the Home is therefore necessary.

AN UNWISE PROPOSITION.

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 1 is a proposition that it will be well to defeat. It provides that those whose estates do not exceed $500 shall be exempt from assessment, and hence from taxation.

DANGEROUS PROVISIONS.

The election reform bill of Senator Goucher is the bill agreed upon by the Federation of Trades. Its provisions regarding election booths, issuance of all tickets by the Government with all candidates' names printed upon one ticket; the inhibition of ticket or ballot peddling, and the provision that the elector must procure his ballot from the clerk in the election booth; and the further provision that the elector shall enter a booth where none can observe him, and there mark on the ballot for whom he votes, seem to be proper enough and look in the direction of radical and needed reforms.

If brief, these provisions, after requiring all the ballots to be bound in stub book form, with 200 ballots in a book, require that both stubs and ballots must be numbered consecutively. If we stop right here, the scheme is sufficiently open to objection. The numbering precludes, it is true, the possibility of ballot-box stuffing, since the election board must return the numbered stubs and the ballots, and they must correspond—and for that would be commendable; but beyond that virtue the numbering system puts it within the power of the clerks delivering the ballots to make note privately of the number of an elector's ballot, and thus of ascertaining in the canvass precisely how he voted.

A WISE PROPOSITION.

The proposition reflected in Assembly Bill No. 6 to establish jute works at the Folsom Branch Prison is commendable. Within a year that prison will be equipped with the finest water power on the coast. It will be literally free power in which every dollar of expense inseparable from steam power will be eliminated. It ought to be availed of, therefore, for active employment of the convicts confined there, for without industry there can be no reform and no complete government in the prison. The manufacture of bags is the only industry that is left to the State prisons against which the Trade Unions do not raise their hand. If it is a right thing to do to employ the convicts at San Quentin at jute looms with artificial motive power for the machinery, it will be a still better thing to put any new machinery for jute manufacture at Folsom to employ the convicts there, and utilize a free water power that otherwise will run to waste. It needs no extended calculation to prove what a saving such a policy will make in the matter of motive power. Whatever it costs per horse-power daily for steam will be wholly saved to the State, and these sums in a very few years will aggregate an astonishingly large figure.

STRONG INDORSEMENT.

The California Fruit Union has passed the following resolution: Resolved, That the California Fruit Union, representing the fruit-growing and shipping interests of California, express hearty indorsement of the proposed London exhibit; to that end our representatives in the California State Legislature are respectfully urged to use all honorable means to create and maintain said exhibit in a manner commensurate with the magnitude and importance of the interests represented.

The California Fruit Union is composed of experienced, clear-headed and calculating business men. They are partly fruit and vine growers and partly shippers of California products to the East. They know as well, if not better than others, the needs of California in all things relating to our exterior markets. The whole subject-matter of the proposed London exhibit has been before them in the press for two months and more and they are entirely familiar with it. The adoption of the resolution by the unanimous vote of such a body is therefore a most important and forcible indorsement, and ought to be received by the Legislature as the coolly considered judgment of a representative body of producer and heavy tax-payers.

ANOTHER REASON FOR THE EXHIBIT.

At the opening of the new headquarters of the Viticultural Commission in San Francisco the other day, Commissioner Rose of San Gabriel, said: In his judgment, the present trouble in marketing grapes was not due to the dealers, but to the fact that the production was greater than the consumption. He expressed himself as confident that the industry would become one of the greatest in the State, and said that the present project could only be successful by means of forbearance and indulgence on the part of the Commissioners and the producers. The syndicate which recently purchased his place was finding the best market for its products in England. The speaker emphasized the great need of keeping the wine up to a standard of excellence.

While the closing expression is wisdom, no matter what or where our market is, it gains additional force from the remarks preceding it. In the English market we should look for the foothold we have every reason to believe we will gain in Europe. How then can we better gain attention for our vine products than by exhibiting them in the center and heart of European trade and travel—London?

CONSUL-GENERAL SEWALL, of Samoa, says the dispatches, is deeply interested in the Samoan situation and is anxious to return to his post, but is more anxious that the people of the United States should arouse themselves to an intelligent appreciation of the importance of maintaining the independence of the islands, in order to thus properly maintain an interest there. But if the Administration of Mr. Cleveland, which sent Mr. Sewall out to Samoa to displace Mr. Greenbaum for presuming to hoist the stars and stripes at the request of poor old King Malietoa, had any clear idea of what true American foreign policy is, Mr. Sewall would not be so disturbed in mind. Indeed Mr. Sewall would be practicing law in Maine, and the American officers who defended American honor in Samoa would not to-day be humiliated and smarting under the rebuke of a Democratic Administration.

It is to be regretted that Captain Mullan and his claims to percentage on Federal payments to California, of certain allowed claims, should get into the legislative season. There are enough important matters to attend to without this old-time friction interrupting. But if Mullan's claims must become matters for legislative investigation, it ought to be had at once and got out of the way. The appointment of Mullan as State Claim Agent at Washington was unwise in the first place and of very doubtful legality in the next, and the bargain that he claims was made with him was top-heavy with liberality to Mullan. It was a blunder on the part of the Legislature of 1883 to recognize Captain Mullan as State Agent, and we do not believe the body had the power to do so without direct legislation by bill upon the subject.

A BILL has been introduced in the Assembly to provide for the enlarging, strengthening and improving of the State Printing Office building. It is an imperative need that such work should be done. The State has exceedingly valuable property in the structure that should not be exposed to unusual risks. The building should be strengthened to meet the demands made upon it and the machinery and stock introduced into it. The sum of $11,000, it is believed, will be sufficient to pay for the needed improvements and enlargement, and it ought to be voted without any hesitancy whatever, after a fair examination of the building and the valuable uses to which it is put.
