

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION.

DISASTROUS FLOODS THROUGH PENNSYLVANIA.

Entire Towns Washed Away and Hundreds of Lives Lost--A Bursting Dam.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD--UNION.)

PITTSBURG, May 31st.--The flood at Johnston has resulted in an awful catastrophe. It is said that the reservoir above the town broke about 5 o'clock this evening and an immense volume of water rushed down the Allegheny river, carrying with it death and destruction. About 1000 of its occupants were swept away and many people drowned.

There is no communication with Johnston, but the telegraph operator in the Pennsylvania Railroad tower at Sang Hollow, twelve miles east of Johnston, reports that at least seven-five dead bodies floated past. The wires are all down, and no one has been seen since Johnston.

There is no way to get to the scene of the disaster and full particulars are hardly to be obtained. Every effort is being made to do so. There will be no train through to the East before to-morrow.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT. PITTSBURG, May 31st.--A sudden freshet is reported in the North Fork river, east of Johnston, Pa. In the Allegheny mountains. Two-thirds of Johnston is said to be under water, and railroad and telegraph poles are washed out. Pittsburgh has had no water communication with Johnston for three hours.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT. GREENSBURG, May 31st.--A report has just been received from the great portion of Johnston has been flooded and hundreds of lives lost. Houses are being washed out and people who are free are panic-stricken and fleeing to the mountains. At a point near New Florence eighty persons have been seen floating down the river on drift wood.

That but two roofs of houses in Johnston can be seen. The Covington and New Florence bridges have been washed out, and all the buildings along the Conemaugh and all the buildings along the New Florence and Johnston rivers have been swept away. Railroad towers have been abandoned by the operators.

TWO HUNDRED DEAD BODIES. PITTSBURG, May 31st.--The reliable information received from Johnston officials, who aver that over two hundred dead bodies have been seen floating down the stream at Johnston alone, while along the line many additional bodies have been seen. It is asserted that there are but two houses in Johnston properly above the water line. A special train bearing Pennsylvania Railroad officials and other persons, accompanied by the necessary instruments open up at the nearest point, but little reliable information can be obtained.

ENTIRE VILLAGE DESTROYED. BRADDOCK, Pa., May 31st.--En route to the scene of the disaster, the telegraph wires being down absolutely for six or seven miles beyond Braddock, the cause of the disaster, and being in an unworkable shape for three or four miles distant, it was not until about 10 o'clock that the line of the effect of the tidal wave could be learned. The chief officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad received most of their information from the signal tower at Sang Hollow, six miles west of Johnston. At that point the signal tower was destroyed, and the men in the signal tower of the railroad company. His name is unknown, but he said that with his wife and two children and two sisters he was swept over the breast of the new stone railroad bridge at Johnston, and the bodies of his wife and children, and they were all drowned so far as he could tell.

The railroad operator officially reports that before dark they were able to count 119 persons clinging to buildings and wreckage or drowned and floating in the current. It is estimated that the credit of the damage in the town proper must be in the nature of a clean sweep. As early as 10 o'clock, houses were being carried down the river, and many of the people from the town to places of safety on the regular trains and hastily improvised rafts.

Some reports report the number of lives lost at 100. A telegram from New Florence states that the water is twenty-three feet above the normal stage at every bridge on the river is swept away.

An artificial lake three miles above the town is reported to be overflowing with an average depth of twenty feet, burst. A great body of water poured into the Allegheny river, and several hundred persons would have been killed had not the people seen the alarm, and the inhabitants in low lands left their homes and fled to higher ground. The water rose so rapidly and so high that railroad telegraph operators were reported to be at least fifty bodies have been floating in the river past Johnston. Some were not dead, and were clinging. Some were drifting, but could not be rescued.

EXTENSIVE LANDSLIDE. HARRISBURG, Pa., May 31st.--A great landslide is reported to have occurred. The water is said to be ten feet deep on the Pennsylvania Railroad track.

WATER AT WILLIAMSPORT. WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 31st.--Reports at 10 o'clock to-night from points up the river are alarming. At Clearfield the water is considerably higher than in 1885. Two miles below the town of Clearfield there are fears for the safety of the boom at Lock Haven. A large force of men is at work on the boom here, trying to make it secure. The water is expected to reach here by morning. It is feared that 15,000,000 bushels of grain will be lost. It is raining hard.

RELUCTANT WATERS. The Situation at Harrisburg--In the Center of the Flood. HARRISBURG, Pa., May 31st.--This city has been in the middle of the deluge all day long. There has been a steady down-pour since before daylight this morning, and up to 10 o'clock to-night four and a half inches of rain had fallen. Danger of a disastrous flood in the Susquehanna river is imminent.

Paxton creek, which separates East Harrisburg from the main section of the city, is rising to a height of ten feet higher than during the great flood of 1885. People along some of the streets have been taken from their homes in boats at 10 o'clock to-night, and are sitting, at late hour, and there are grave fears for the safety of the people on the river.

FEARFUL DESTRUCTION OF LIFE. Estimated That the Lost Will be Fully Fifty. GREENSBURG, Pa., May 31st.--The course of the torrent from the broken dam at the foot of the lake to Johnston is almost as rapid as the water in the Allegheny. One point the water passed through a narrow channel, and the dam lay the town of South Fork, where South Fork itself empties into the Conemaugh river. It was the town of Mineral Hill, that had 800 inhabitants. It has not been heard from, but it is said four-fifths of it has been swept away.

Four miles further down on the Conemaugh river, which runs parallel with the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was the town of Mineral Hill, that had 800 inhabitants, 90 per cent. of the houses being on a flat and close to the river. It seems impossible at this time to hope that any of them have escaped.

Six miles further down was the town of Conemaugh, and here alone there was a topographical possibility of the spreading of the flood and the breaking of its force, continued 2,500 inhabitants, and must be almost devastated.

Woodville, with 200 people, lay a mile below Conemaugh, in the flat, and one mile further down were Johnston and a cluster of sister towns, Cambria City and Conemaughborough, with a total population of 30,000. On made ground, and stretched along right at the river's verge were the immense iron works of the Cambria Iron and Steel Company, who have $5,000,000 invested in their plant. Besides these there are many other large industrial establishments on the bank of the river, and how badly they are damaged, and possibly over a thousand. The report of the loss of the towns above named cannot yet be confirmed.

AT HUNTINGTON. People Driven From Their Homes and the Growing Crops Destroyed. HUNTINGTON, Pa., May 31st.--Incessant rain during the past seventy-two hours has overflowed the streams to an unusual degree, to-day's downpour being the heaviest yet known here. In consequence of the heavy rain, the water has risen to the Bedford branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the undermining of the railroad at Mount Adams, Bedford was forced to suspend its service. It is said to be outside world, and is likely to remain so for several days.

The rise in the Paxton branch at Everett is so great to-night as to submerge the principal streets, compelling many to attempt to desert the town. The Junia river here is made solid picture, rising up to buildings, timber, and farm buildings, with here and there carcasses of horses and cattle.

Ten families in Portstown, a suburb of this town, driven from their homes this evening, and much of their household goods were washed away.

The great majority of the immediate vicinity of Huntington is nearly all destroyed, and it is feared that this will be the result all over the country.

VARIOUS REPORTS. Late Information from all the Flooded Sections Very Alarming. PHILADELPHIA, May 31st.--Dispatches received up to midnight from the Pennsylvania Railroad indicate that the situation is hourly growing worse.

The effects of the storm are now being felt on the middle division of that road, extending between Harrisburg and Altoona. Landslides and washouts are reported along the line between Harrisburg and Altoona, and it is feared that the Pennsylvania Railroad is nearly all destroyed, and it is feared that this will be the result all over the country.

At the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan Asylum on Burling street it was found that Mrs. Dudley had been there, but had not been seen since. The case is now in the hands of the police, and it is feared that this will be the result all over the country.
