VISITING JOURNALISTS.

Preparations for Receiving Them in Proper Style. At noon on the 25th of this month a special train will reach this city having on board about one hundred members of the Western Associated Press. These gentlemen are the owners and managers of the great daily newspapers of the Western States, who come to take a look at California. They will visit several sections in the State—the Sacramento, San Joaquin, Napa and Santa Clara valleys, and go as far south as Merced. The State Board of Trade, at its meeting on Tuesday, appointed a committee to arrange a proper reception of the excursionists and enlighten them in regard to the resources and beauties of California.
