HIDE-HUNTERS FINDING THEIR ILLEGAL TRAFFIC HALTED.

A Thousand Deer-Skins That Did Not Get to Market—The Feeling in Tehama County.

The recent institution of suits in this county, and also in Napa and Sonoma counties, against persons engaged in the deer-hide traffic, is having good effect. All over the State the attention of prosecuting officers and sportsmen is being called to the subject, and communications are pouring in upon the officers of the Fish and Game Commission, giving information regarding the operations of the vandals who are violating the law.

It is a fact that you are to be the Democratic nominee for Governor? "That is a matter too far off for present consideration. Candidly speaking, I should like to be elected, but I think it an honorable ambition, but the party has abundant timber. My candidacy is prospective and depends on future developments.

POLITICAL PROSPECTS.

Senator Jones Talks About Democratic Candidates for Governor. Senator Albert F. Jones, who was spokesman for the Orville delegation at Sacramento on Tuesday, fair location, and who is very prominent as a Democratic candidate for Governor, was met by a Record-Union reporter, and being questioned on State politics, said:

"Like all Democrats, my faith is as strong in defeat as in victory. I think the elements at work now strongly indicate a united Democratic phalanx next year to meet a divided Republican and American party. However, the Republican party will, from present indications, want Senator Stanford to succeed himself. This is a very serious matter, and I think it is consequently a hard fight for the State ticket."

LADIES' MUSEUM ASSOCIATION.

The Ladies' Museum Association met Tuesday at Pioneer Hall. Vice-President Mrs. C. E. Grunsky presiding. Mrs. May Gregory being absent from the city. There was an excellent attendance, and a commendable spirit was manifest to continue the organization and to enlarge its purposes and better define its methods. The ladies were of one mind that the organization was of much practical benefit to the community; that it fills a field no other does, and that it is one of the most efficient auxiliaries to the California Museum Association. It is also a useful means of bringing ladies into pleasant relations with each other, who otherwise do often and themselves laboring together in public interest on common lines. "The aims of the society," said one of the members, "are wholly unselfish, and all its work is for the promotion of ends that have in them neither religious, reform, nor anything but pride in the city and its advancement."

Some considerable time had been spent in free conference. The report of the Treasurer was then made. Mrs. Bonheim reported the funds on hand, after payment of bills, to be about $100. The exact amount was undetermined, as money had been paid in after she had entered the hall. The membership in good standing was 108. The Treasurer indulged in a few remarks and encouraging remarks, and advised in her report that the Association was an endeavor to maintain the highest standards in the Sacramento School of Design, and to be awarded to young people with strong tastes for designing, who are so situated as not to be able to attend to their studies in addition to giving the time necessary to pursue their studies in the school. She outlined the character of the classes to be given to competitors for such places. This suggestion was subsequently adopted, and the details were referred to the Executive Committee.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then entered upon, with the following result: President, Mrs. C. E. Grunsky; Vice-President, Mrs. William Ingram, Jr.; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Willis; Treasurer, Mrs. A. Bonheim. A resolution ordered that an Executive Committee be created to carry out the orders of the association, and for it to elect its members between the meetings, and the following were chosen: The President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and the Executive Committee. Mrs. H. Curtis, Mrs. J. A. Woodson, Mrs. D. Lubin and Mrs. C. E. Grunsky.

The President of the California Museum Association was sent for, and on arriving was introduced to the meeting. By request he outlined the plans of the Association for the coming year, and the various schemes that were under consideration in relation to both Association and the California Museum. He mentioned the fact that the Association is now in the hands of a group of interested persons, and that the interests are in common, and generally the views of the Directors regarding the administration of the affairs of the elder institution, and the fact that the auxiliary society could render it.

Mrs. Ritch tendered to the Association a proposition to have a series of social entertainments during the winter, and the offer was accepted by the Executive Committee, which was ordered to meet on Monday next. The Association then adjourned, with the expressed determination on the part of the members present to do active work in addition to the roll of membership of the California Museum Association, in selling the number of scholars in the school of design, in rendering assistance when desired at the Art Gallery, on occasions when the city requires prominent bodies; and also in accepting donations to the museum collection at the Art Gallery, and as one lady concisely summed it up, "to do all we can for Sacramento."

There Are Other Stonecutters. Secretary of State Hendricks, one of the State Capitol Commissioners, said to a Record-Union reporter yesterday, regarding the stoppage of work by the twelve stonecutters on the Capitol grounds, that the work would not be resumed until the stonecutters had to be employed. It was desired that the wooden steps be replaced with granite previous to the meeting of the National Congress. He regretted that the work had stopped at this time, in view of the fact that there was no time to be lost. The law clearly requires that the granite be taken from the Folsom State Prison quarry. The stonecutters understood this, and have never objected to working on such stone.

The Natural Gas Project. At various times in the past two or three years there have been attempts made to get citizens interested in a proposition to prospect for gas-wells in the vicinity of this city. The movement at last appears to have taken shape, and a company has been organized for about fifty shares, at $100 each, or one-half the number that it is proposed to sell for the purpose of meeting the expense of boring a well. The estimated cost of this will be about $10,000.

At the Metropolitan Theater this evening Miss Minnie Madden will appear in Steele Mackay's masterpiece, "In Spite of All." She will be supported by well-known actor George Osbourne and a selected company—the same that she had in San Francisco in her successful engagement at the Alcazar. Miss Madden is a natural artist, and her performance here was discovered in her method talent of a superior order. The Boston Home Journal pronounced her "the most successful actress in the world, a surprising actress." "She has," says the same critic, "that inward comprehension and seldom manifested dramatic artist." The Detroit Free Press classes her with those actresses whose charm is accounted for by the statement that it is personal magnetism. She is a charming singer, and a most successful dramatic performer, and the details of her performance of the better order. The prices are 50 and 75 cents, and no charge for reserving seats.

Under the management of Messrs. Hayman and French, the remarkably successful play, by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," will be presented at the Metropolitan Theater November 6th and 7th and for one matinee. The same precocious character who appeared in the play here last year ago, are with the troupe—Flossie Ethyl and Willie Edinger. Otherwise the company is entirely new. It is a most interesting and successful play, and the interest in a child have been staged that have achieved such a success as this. A second season of the play in San Francisco proved so profitable for the management as to induce the first and its spectators to argue that they had seen it last spring. Whatever may be the differences of opinion concerning the merits of the play, the sympathy is undeniable. "It is an idyl," says the Boston Herald, "of the home presented in dramatic form. It is a rare gem in this day of sensational melodrama, to sit within the influence of so pure a play and feel the heart strings throbbing reverently to its sweet and delicate tones. Elsewhere the announcement of prices and the opening of the box sheet are given.
