

SLOW-ACTING LIGHTNING!

WHY THE ELECTRIC RAILROAD FRANCHISE HANGS FIRE.

Mr. Henry is Satisfied With It, But the Stockholders are Not—Hints of a Possible Lawsuit.

During the session of the City Trustees yesterday the Mayor read a letter from Edwin K. Aisp, Secretary of the Central Street Railway Company, refusing on the part of the company, to accept the franchise as granted to Mr. Henry, believing that the bonds issued under such a franchise would be of little value and not a safe investment for capital.

Grove L. Johnson, attorney for Mr. Henry, read to the Board a short history he had written of Mr. Henry's relations with the Central Street Railway Company, mentioning the most important clauses in the agreement, one of which was to the effect that Mr. Henry was to be given possession of the road if he could obtain the necessary changes he desired in the present city franchise. Mr. Henry did so and called upon the owners of the road and demanded the possession of the same, in compliance with the provisions of the contract. Under the ordinance, as amended, he was ready and anxious to begin the conditions of the contract. He demanded from the other parties, both as shareholders and directors, that they comply with their agreement but they refused to do so. The reasons given for the refusal were entirely foreign to the agreement, and in no manner concerned the money on the road, although Mr. Henry has no objection whatever to making them known to anybody who may inquire for them. The fact remained, however, that they have declined to turn over the road, in accordance with the terms of the contract. Mr. Henry stood prepared to spend $100,000 of the city of Sacramento in equipping the road, electrically, under the provisions of the agreement. He was ready to begin the work and to have the road in running order within the time specified. He was confronted, however, at the outset, with the positive refusal of the shareholders to surrender to him the possession of the road, or to permit him to carry out his contract.

In this dilemma he presents the matter fairly and squarely to the Board of Trustees. In the hope that, by so doing, he might be better able to determine precisely what remedy he should invoke to compel the shareholders to live up to their agreement and thus permit the city of Sacramento to benefit of a modern first-class electric street railway. By the expenditure of the money on the road, the company's property would be greatly enhanced in value, and the security afforded the city's bondholders, instead of being impaired or in any manner affected injuriously, would be increased and enlarged to an extent corresponding to the additional rolling stock, motive power, machinery, etc.

Naturally, Mr. Henry was desirous of proceeding carefully in a matter involving so much to himself and the people of Sacramento. It was only on the 20th instant that the refusal of the shareholders to comply with their agreement was made known to Mr. Henry. He could not decide in a moment what course he should pursue; but, inasmuch as the ordinance authorizing the city to take the road, if the necessary changes were made, was already in force, he decided to accept it, and he asked the Board to extend the time within which the company might file its acceptance, for a period of thirty days from date, that he might in the meantime devise the best means of enforcing his contract with the shareholders, and thus enable him to furnish the city of Sacramento with the street railroad so much desired, as he believed, by all its people. This request was granted only by the action of the company's stockholders, in violation of their contract.

Mr. Johnson then stated that the Board passed an ordinance extending for thirty days the time within which they should accept the refusal of the electric company. All the members agreed to this, the rules were suspended and the ordinance read twice and passed.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION. The Mayor's and Trustee McLaughlin's Views on Collecting Water Rates. It will be remembered that a couple of months ago Mayor Comstock and Trustee McLaughlin voted to discharge one of the water collectors. Since then the receipts have fallen off about one-half. At yesterday's session of the Board, Trustee McLaughlin wanted to know whether or not the collection made by the Clerk of the Water Works were falling off or being increased since the discharge of one of the clerks. The Mayor said the collections were not as large as usual, but he believed the employees were at fault, and that if they had attended to their duty they would have succeeded in making better returns. Trustee McLaughlin said that he would send the Clerk of the office last Thursday and found the office locked, and that he would write a letter to the Mayor, asking that he be preferred written charges and try him, if he believed that official guilty of misconduct. The Mayor said that he would do so, and might at some future day.

Mr. McLaughlin then submitted a proposed ordinance, authorizing the Clerk of the Water Works to employ two additional deputies, who should hold office at the pleasure of the Board of Trustees, and receive a salary each of $100 per month, and to be to collect water rates in the First and Second Supervisor Districts, and report to the Board monthly all of the persons who were delinquent in payment. Another section of the proposed ordinance provided for dispensing with the services of the Water Inspector. The ordinance was laid over for consideration one week.

JOHN SULLIVAN'S INJURY. An Autopsy Shows that His Life Could Not Have Been Saved. Yesterday afternoon an autopsy was held by Dr. C. B. Nichols, City Physician, on the body of John Sullivan, who died on Sunday evening, having attended the autopsy on the skull caused by a fall from a wagon. The examination was made in the presence of Drs. G. L. and G. C. Simmons, Dr. W. A. Briggs, and Dr. Sutcliffe. The fact was revealed that the exact location of the fracture was at the base of the skull, and that the character was not apparent until the skull had been bared; also that death would have resulted from the extravasation of blood on the opposite side of the head, even could the fracture itself have been otherwise successfully treated.

Three of the surgeons present made the following voluntary statement last evening concerning the case, and the other will do so to-day, he having been out of town last evening. SACRAMENTO, September 22, 1890. We, the undersigned, physicians and surgeons of Sacramento, having attended the autopsy on the body of John Sullivan, who was injured on Friday, the 19th inst., and died on Sunday, the 21st inst., and who was brought to the Receiving Hospital and there treated by Dr. C. B. Nichols, City Physician, and who died on Sunday, the 21st inst., of the injury that there was an extensive fracture of the base of the skull, which extended into the base of the brain, and that the character was not apparent until the skull had been bared; also that death would have resulted from the extravasation of blood on the opposite side of the head, even could the fracture itself have been otherwise successfully treated.

WANT MORE MONEY.

DISCONTENT AMONG THE STREET-CAR EXTRAMEN.

They Say They Were Not Properly Paid for Their Over-Time and Make Threats.

The Central Street Railway did a thriving business during the fair weeks and employment was given to a large number of men as extra conductors and drivers in order to handle the crowds. These extramen, it is understood, were promised the same wages as the regular men, and everything ran along smoothly.

But the fair is over now and the relations between the company and the extramen are not so harmonious. The temporary employes are not growing out of having to give up their jobs, but they claim that the company has not acted fairly nor lawfully with them as regards wages. Twelve hours constitute a day's work for street-car men, and for all work done over that time they are paid at the rate of thirty cents an hour. In this case the regular men all received their usual wages, as well as the thirty cents an hour for over-time.

But not so with the extramen. When they presented their demands they were informed that they would be allowed but fifteen cents an hour for over-time. These demands were refused, and they accepted this amount and painted on their banner, "Thirty cents or nothing."

But not so with the extramen. When they presented their demands they were informed that they would be allowed but fifteen cents an hour for over-time. These demands were refused, and they accepted this amount and painted on their banner, "Thirty cents or nothing."

A committee from the extramen was busy yesterday ascertaining what courses should be taken to right their wrongs. A little sum in arithmetic convinced them that such a sum for the amount of work which they were doing would not amount to enough to pay an attorney's fee.

They then sought legal advice regarding the proper manner in which to bring a criminal action against the company. It was suggested by the attorney that in 1887 it is made compulsory for street-car corporations to report their men but twelve hours a day, and for all over that time 30 cents an hour must be paid.

"We won't go to the expense of suing for our money," said one of the extramen to the Chief of Police and City Attorney, however, that Kelly was intoxicated and led into the affair by Anderson. When Anderson was examined in the Police Court he testified to the fact that he was the whole story, and it was on his testimony that Anderson was held to answer.

City Attorney Hart asked Judge Buckley to be lenient on account of Kelly's good character, and the Court let him off with a fine of $20.

New Incorporations. The following articles of incorporation were filed in the Secretary of State's office yesterday: Pacific Construction and Improvement Company of San Francisco. Capital stock, $250,000. Directors—J. W. Smith, Abner Doble, J. J. Sawyer, R. K. King and M. J. Keller.

Farmers' Warehouse Company. Principal place of business, Ambrose Switch, Yuba County, California. Capital stock, $5,000. Directors—R. H. Olmsted, William O'Hara, W. W. Fanzler, J. L. Crane and Eber Haines.

Only an Ordinary. "John McIntyre, stand up. You are charged with being drunk on the Sabbath on the public streets. Were you?" "Guess I was, Judge."

"Guess I was, Judge." "What was his commission, Mr. Officer?" said Judge Buckley turning to Officer Eldred.

"Well, he was drunk, your Honor, that was all that brought him down in an express wagon."

Shooting Scores. The following scores were made on Sunday by members of Company A at the 200-yard range:

Executive Appointments. The Governor yesterday commissioned Orel Harvey, of Sacramento county, a Director of the Stockton Asylum for the Insane, vice himself, failed to qualify.

Fall in the Temperature. The Signal Service temperature at 5 A. M. and 5 P. M. yesterday was 59° and 74° with gentle southerly winds and a cloudless sky. The highest and lowest temperature was 82° and 55°, against 80° and 49° on the same date last year.

Time Pen-Work. A set of Masonic resolutions on the death of Francis Foster, executed with a pen and India ink, at the Sacramento Business College, attracted much attention at the State Fair. The exhibit of the college was a model of penmanship, for best single sample and for pen drawing.

Drowned While Bathing. A little boy, named Mariano Jacintho, was drowned in the river on Sunday near the City ranch, about four miles below this city. He was swimming in the stream when he slipped out of sight, and his body has not yet been found, although men were engaged in searching for it yesterday with trawling irons.

AMUSEMENTS.

Maud Granger is to appear at the Metropolitan Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday next.

She then went to the Sacramento and was going public and the commendation of her art was practically unanimous. Since then it is certified she has made great advance in beauty by the way of dressing and a whirl of successes.

Whether or not the emotional is just what the new opera long for most, just what a question. But there is no question that for those who want their sympathies swayed as they are by the music, the opera is a great treat. It is the one piece of acting that will mean that there is no raving and tearing of garments, and that the audience will be satisfied to see the artist in his element.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

THE BARBERS.

The Barbers' Association held a meeting last evening. President George O'g in the chair.

The principal matter under discussion was the proposed early closing movement. Reports were received to the effect that nearly every shop in the city was now closing every evening at 8 o'clock.

The Board agreed to meet some evening during the week and have a consultation with Mr. Jones, Hon. Grove L. Johnson and City Attorney Hart on the subject.

There is a law which provides that policemen regularly chosen shall hold their positions until discharged, for cause, after a proper hearing and on charges filed with the Police Commissioners.

If the fifteen men who served in 1889 should plead this act in substantiation of their claim, and the Courts should sustain it, it would seem to open up a long line of cases.

It would be believed that the fifteen men were entitled to their salaries, and the cost of a suit would thus be avoided.

DOG EXPERT.

HE IMPARTS SOME VALUABLE INFORMATION TO JUDGE BUCKLEY.

John Bennick, the ancient offender, was in the Police Court again yesterday—this time on a charge of disturbing the peace.

On Sunday he attempted to take a dog belonging to a lady from Grass Valley, and when the lady remonstrated Bennick called her vile names.

"Didn't steal no dog, Judge," asserted Bennick, when asked what he had to say. "It was my dog, so it was. Somebody must've put a collar with that lady's name on it on the dog, and I wanted to see if I could get it."

"I brought that dog down with me from the mountains—him an' his brother. The brother died, though, from eatin' plizen rabbit."

"What kind of a dog was it?" asked Judge Buckley.

"He was a Virginia fox hound, and the other was a shepherd."

"How do you account for that, if they were brothers?" asked the Judge.

Bennick scratched his head, and thought. He finally explained, though, that it often happened that brother dogs didn't look alike at all.

The story was a little too thin for the Judge, however, and he sentenced the dog-fancier to ten days imprisonment.

FLYNN'S EURLOUGH. He will Go Back to the County Jail for Some Time.

Thomas Flynn, the belligerent young man who, as soon as he was released from the County Jail Sunday, went on a glorious "drunk" and terrified the neighborhood of Seventh and K streets, was very pent in the Police Court yesterday.

Complains charging him with vagrancy, disturbing the peace and drunkenness were read to him, and he pleaded guilty to the two latter charges, but maintained that he was not a vagrant.

Police officer Eldred and a special officer described how Flynn had been upon the sidewalk for three months and upon with violence if they refused. When officer Eldred attempted to arrest him the young man assaulted the officer and had to be thumped into submissiveness.

Flynn whined for mercy, saying that he had not done anything wrong, and that he was in Sheriff McMullen's charge, and that the sudden resumption of his bibulous habits "knocked him out." He said he did not know what he was doing, but very well remembered the drubbing he received at the officer's hands.

Judge Buckley found him guilty, and will sentence him to day.
