SUGAR-GROWING AS AN INDUSTRY.

The bounty of two and one and three-quarters cents per pound offered by the Government on certain grades of domestic sugar, and the placing of sugar generally on the free list, is a measure, the exact results of which cannot be foretold with certainty. Just now there is a disposition to declare that it will result in a domestic product equal to the entire consumption in the United States. It remains to be seen whether this will be the result. Speculation on the subject is little better than mere guess work.

As soon as the ports of the United States are opened for free sugar, a new factor will set up. Bearing in mind that the value of the bounty was from 99.95 to 108.69 per cent. of the value of the article, and the extent of the encouragement of importation now offered will at once be perceived. Admitting the sugar of the world free may have the effect of killing the entire industry of the United States. The bounty to be paid should be equal to the difference between the cost of producing the article in this country and in the countries entering into competition with our domestic production. The question, therefore, is, will this bounty offset the cheap labor of Germany, the better climatic advantages of the West Indies and other sugar-producing countries of the world?

Another question is, will the admission of sugar free into America encourage its production in Brazil, or generally encourage its production where cane sugar may be grown economically?

The payment of the bounties offered under the McKinley Act is another thing which will have to be looked to very carefully. The producer of sugar, under the laws, to be entitled to the bounties shall have filed prior to January 1st of each year with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, a notice of the place of production, with a general description of the equipment and the methods employed by him, with a careful estimate of the amount of sugar he proposes to produce in the coming year, and the number of maple trees to be tapped, in the case of maple sugar; also an application for a license to so produce, to be accompanied by a bond conditioned that he will faithfully observe all the rules and regulations that shall be prescribed for such manufacture and production of sugar.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, upon receiving the application and bond, shall issue the license asked for, designed, but the license shall not extend beyond one year from its date. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, shall from time to time make rules and regulations for the manufacture of sugar, and under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, shall exercise a supervision over all manufacturers. And for the payment of the bounties, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to draw warrants for such sums as may be necessary, when certified by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The measures thus outlined involve the appointment of a large number of agents in the Internal Revenue Department. It will expand the Internal Revenue equipment of the United States many fold. As originally presented to the House, the bill contained no provision punishing any one who would knowingly refine, or aid in refining sugar imported into the United States, but the Senate amended the bill by providing that any person knowingly refining or aiding in refining any sugar upon which a bounty has already been paid, or applied for, or any person entitled to a bounty, who shall apply for or receive the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall pay a fine not exceeding $5,000 or be imprisoned for a period not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

This bounty is a penalty fixed for claiming a bounty on sugar manufactured out of the country, but that will not prevent frauds being practiced any more than the penalties attached to frauds on the revenue at the present time can prevent them from being practiced. A very large portion of the sugar imported into the country will be so mixed with the domestic article that the Government will be paying a bounty on the imported article. From the very outset, therefore, this false factor will run through the ledger account of home production. The bounty on the production of domestic sugar is also a bounty equal to $40 per ton upon any frauds which may be practiced and the only safeguard against these frauds is the vigilance of the Collector of Internal Revenue. It will not be long before sugar importing rings will be formed and systematic attempts inaugurated to defraud the country on sugar from foreign production.

As to the beet sugar industry, beet sugar may be profitably grown almost anywhere south of the Ohio river. Up to this time, the production of beet sugar in this State has been unprofitable. The experiment of enterprising citizens of this State and the failure of that experiment is still fresh in the minds of many; and the bounty of $40 per ton upon sugar may encourage the growth of sugar beets, but the problem still to be solved will be, can sugar be produced abroad for two and one and three-quarters cents per pound less than the cost of its production in the United States? If it can, the imported article, on which no duty has to be paid, will stand upon equal footing with the domestic product, and if it should prove that there is a margin under this head in favor of foreign sugar, the market will be given over wholly to the foreign article.

Whoever, therefore, predicts any revival of sugar production must be prepared to show that they have completely mastered all the real factors of the problem, and must be prepared to answer definitely and specifically all questions relating to the relative cost to the consumers in the United States of the foreign and domestic product. The consumer will take the cheapest article.

There were plenty of errors on both sides. Score:

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Assad Farrar Tells of Bartlett's Cruelties in Africa.

BURCHELL TO BE HANGED TO-DAY. Bismarck Refuses to Allow Emperor William to Revise His New Book.

THE AFRICAN SCANDAL.

Assad Farrar Described the Cruelties Practiced by Bartlett.

LONDON, November 13th.—The Times this (Friday) morning, in connection with the Stanley-Bartlett matter, publishes the full text of Assad Farrar's affidavit. He describes how Bartlett, after Stanley left Yamboua, finding food scarce, employed armed Sudanese to attack the neighboring villages, but that the deserters. He then had recourse to capturing native women and demanding food for their ransom. He says that he saw Assad relates how Bartlett had ordered the men to be given from 25 to 1000 lashes for various offenses. He speaks in numerous cases of the stealing of food, the thieves being punished with 100 or more lashes until their death was torn.

In one case Bartlett ordered the punishment stopped, but when the victim recovered somewhat he was given 150 more lashes and then was compelled to walk ten hours in the sun daily, heavily chained. This continued for two months, when the victim's sores became gangrenous. Bartlett then relieved him for a week and Doctor Bonney gave him medicine, after which the punishment of marching to the sun was resumed. The man finally decomposed and was recaptured and shot.

Assad says the officers had plenty of food, but that the men in camp were dying and dying daily. "Often," he says, "we asked the Major to issue a little rotten rice to the men for the invalids, but this was impossible. The camp became a miserable sight, yet none of the officers appeared to care. Assad refers particularly to Ward and Troop, saying that they seemed content, having everything they wanted, and were disinclined to march.

Referring to the Jameson incident, Assad says that Jameson expressed to Tippoo Tip a curiosity to witness cannibalism. Tippoo told Jameson he had been eating a slave. Jameson then paid six handkerchiefs for a ten-year-old girl. The girl was then taken to the cannibal's tent, where she was wanted to see her eaten.

The girl was tied to a tree. Then one of the natives stabbed her in the belly. He was soon dead. Then the natives cut her up. Some took the legs, arms and other parts to their tents, while others took the entrails to the river and washed them. Jameson in the meantime making rough sketches of the horrible scene.

Assad then describes the officers going to Stanley Falls at the end of May. He speaks of Jameson's anger at the quarrel of Bartlett with Selin Mahomed, and of the anxiety of both to seek or receive pardon. Stanley was dead or in prison, as rumored, Bartlett believing that if he could release Stanley from imprisonment he would be made a Colonel.

Bonney also makes a further statement this morning, to the effect that the cannibal incident was the cause of the death of both Jameson and Bartlett.

Assad told the Congo State authorities, and they excited over the case. He says he was in the Congo State, and he would be blamed, and Bonney says he has seen the violence which led to the girl's death to this cause.

BOGROV'S ESCAPE. The President of Honduras Had to Fight His Way Out. SAN SALVADOR, November 13th.—President Bogrov is in receipt of a telegram from the President Bogrov of Honduras, in which the latter admits that he had been forced by Sanchez to evacuate the capital and temporarily set up his Government at Tamara, a small place a few leagues from Tegucigalpa. During the night, Bogrov, by a flight, escaped with his family and a few followers to the mountains.

Bismarck Angry. BERLIN, November 13th.—The brief reference made by the Emperor to the quarrel between Emperor William and Bismarck is not adequate in the eyes of the public, who has been waiting for weeks and has caused the most painful excitement in official and literary circles. Bismarck threatens to remove the publication to England if necessary to evade the power of the Emperor. If he should do so the book will be confiscated through all Germany.

Burchell to be Hanged to-Day. Burchell will be executed to-morrow for the murder of Benwell. He is preparing to meet his death with as much calmness as though he were making arrangements to go merely on an earthly journey. Yesterday he hosted his guests with up his farewell correspondence. He then took down the neckties, pictures, clothing, etc., in his cell and packed them in a trunk.

The Sheriff's officers are superintending the erection of the scaffold and arranging the preliminaries for the execution of Burchell to-morrow morning. Burchell, though repeatedly urged by his wife to make a full confession, refused to do so, and asserts he did not actually do the shooting.

A DOCTOR'S CONFESSION. He Doesn't Take Much Medicine, and "Humbly" of course it is. The so-called science of medicine is a humbug, and has been from the time of Hippocrates to the present. Why, then, do we have the medical tribes in the medicine man? "Very frank was the admission, especially when it came from one of the biggest young physicians of the city, who whose practice is among the thousands, though he has been graduated but a few years," says the Buffalo Courier. "Very cosy was his office, too, with its cheerful fire, its Queen Anne furniture, and its many lounges and easy chairs. He stirred the fire, lit a cigar, and went on.

"Take the prescriptions laid down in the books and what do you find? Poisons, mainly, and nauseating stuffs that would make a healthy man an invalid. Why in the world do we send our children to school for their studies, when we can find any one who can tell us how to cure a doctor who does a doctor know the effect of his medicine?" he asked. "He calls, prescribes and goes away. The only way to judge would be to stand outside of his office, watch the patient. This cannot be done. So, really I don't know how he is to tell what good or hurt he does. Sometimes you, you remember, the Boston Globe sent out a reporter with a stated set of symptoms. He went to eleven prominent physicians and brought back eleven different prescriptions. This just shows how much science there is in medicine.

There are local diseases of various characters for which nature provides positive remedies. They may not be included in the regular physician's list, perhaps, because of their simplicity, but the evidence of their curative power is beyond dispute. Kidney disease is cured by Warner's Safe Cure, a strictly herbal remedy. It is the product of every year write as does H. J. Gardner, of Pontiac, E. I., August 7, 1890: "A few years ago I suffered more than probably ever will be known outside of myself, with kidney and liver complaint. It is the old story—I visited doctor after doctor, but to no avail. I was at Newport, and Dr. Blackman recommended Warner's Safe Cure. I commenced the use of it and found relief immediately. Another doctor took three bottles, and I truthfully state that it cured me."

DEPARTMENT ONE—ARMSTRONG, JUDGE. Thursday, November 13th. People vs. Standard Cox, burglary—Charge dismissed. Natoma Water and Mining Company vs. John Hancock et al.—$12,000. Department Two—Van Fleet, Judge. Thursday, November 13th. Thomas H. Davis, a native of England, admitted to citizenship; witnesses, M. Hughes and G. W. Nichols.

The confidence of people who have tried Hood's Sarsaparilla in their preparation, is remarkable. It has cured many who have failed to derive any good whatever from other articles. For diseases of the blood, pure blood or low state of the system it is unsurpassed.
