ADJUTANT-GENERAL FOX, of Connecticut; Col. Barber, of the 1st Regiment of Connecticut, and Col. Church, quartermaster-general, of Michigan, are in this city making arrangements for the visit of their regiments to this city on route to the Yorktown celebration. The regiments will stay here about two days.

THERE has been received at the White House, through the Japanese embassy, a handsome wood box, containing elegant papers and envelopes, tied with gold and silver string, the whole being a testimonial of regard for the President from the students of the High School at Nagasaki, Japan. The letters are in the Japanese language, and are accompanied with a photograph of the school building.

THE rumor that Postmaster-General James proposed resigning, to accept a bank presidency, is without foundation. The Postmaster-General has no such idea. The report arose from the fact that the Lincoln National Deposit of New York held a meeting recently, and General James is one of the directors of that bank. His presence was mentioned in the newspapers, and from that fact, Mrs. Fischer wrote her attention to the wants of lady patrons.

A PETITION, signed by some seven hundred citizens and business men of East Washington has been received at the Post-office Department, requesting the establishment in that section of the city of a postal station similar to the one in Georgetown. Assistant City Postmaster Parker says that he expects it will be done as soon as Postmaster Angier returns, as the people of East Washington are greatly in need of this postal convenience.

THE TRAINING SHIPS--Rear-Admiral Rodgers, now at Newport, R. I., reports the arrival there of the Constellation, Dale, Standish and Mayflower, and that they have all done good and earnest work and are in excellent condition and discipline. The Standish and Mayflower, with the cadet-engineers on board, have since sailed for Boston, and the Constellation and Dale left Newport to-day on a cruise. Admiral Rodgers has directed the commanders of the four ships to arrive at Annapolis on the 28th instant so that they may be put out of commission on the 1st of September and the cadets given leave to return to their homes until the 28th of that month. Admiral Rodgers says he has been much gratified by the appearance of these ships and of the cadets on board.

THE YORKTOWN CELEBRATION--Secretary Hunt has addressed an order to Rear-Admiral Wyman commanding the North Atlantic squadron, advising him of the purpose of the Navy Department to participate in the centennial celebration, and directing him to send all the available vessels of his command to Yorktown on or before October 15 prepared to take part in the ceremonies to be there observed on the same month. The training squadron will also report to Admiral Wyman at Yorktown, and such other war vessels as may happen to be available at the time. The vessels bringing troops from other States will be assigned places in the line, and will be ordered to be in readiness to receive the navy. The Tennessee will be the centre ship. Special attention is to be paid to the pilots of the Chesapeake and those of Virginia are to be notified to keep a lookout for French vessels, and an officer of the navy will be detached to meet them and point out the place at which they are expected to anchor. A tug is to be placed at the disposal of the French commander should he desire to send to Baltimore or Norfolk for supplies. Some persons of distinction may not be able to obtain accommodations on shore, and Commander Wyman is instructed to entertain such persons on board the Franchise, exercising a nice discretion in the selection of his guests. The vessels of Admiral Wyman's command will remain at Yorktown until the ceremonies end. Admiral Wyman is directed not to give the crews of any of the vessels liberty on shore.

Hunting a Train Robber.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 8.--It is believed that Palle Wells, one of the Winston train robbers, with a band of fifteen other outlaws, is now concealed in the Great Swamp, on the bank of the Missouri River, opposite Atchison. A well-armed party to surround and capture the highwaymen is now being made up by the officers of Buchanan County, Riverton, Iowa and Kansas City.

Innocent Parties Arrested.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.--The two men arrested yesterday and put in jail at McKeesport on the supposition that they were a part of the numerous gang now believed to be hiding about Deaf Man's Hollow, have been identified as innocent citizens, and will be discharged at once. They bear a striking resemblance to two of the gang of outlaws, but have nothing to do with them.

ANOTHER OPERATION.

ON THE PRESIDENT TO-DAY.

The Doctors Pronounce it a Success--They Assert Their Satisfaction with the President's Condition--His Symptoms Not Alarming--The Incision Made to Prevent, and Not to Meet a Difficulty--The Anxiety of the People.

There has been a change for the worse in the President's condition since our last report on Saturday, and it is feared that another pus cavity has formed. Acting upon that presumption preparations have been made for a thorough exploration of the wound, for the purpose of ascertaining, if possible, the point at which the flow of pus is interrupted. The President suffered somewhat from the excessive heat on Saturday, it being found impracticable to keep the temperature of his room much below 90° without closing the doors and windows, and this was not deemed advisable.

The Afternoon Fever.

was rather higher than usual, but it subsided before 10 o'clock, and the patient slept well without morphia or any other anodyne. Yesterday he took his nourishment as usual, and slept at intervals, but his pulse and temperature rose to the points which always excite alarm.

The Consulting Physicians.

Drs. Hamilton and Agnew, remained with the President yesterday, and their names were appended to the morning and evening bulletins.

The Theory that another pus cavity had formed was strengthened yesterday by a summons to Mr. Taintor, Prof. Hall's assistant, to call at the White House to consult with the physicians regarding the

for the probable purpose of ascertaining the exact course of the wound from the surface of the body to the spot where the ball is lodged, and, if possible, to discover whether there is a pus cavity or other obstruction, and its exact location. The electric probe is a flexible tube about twelve or fourteen inches long, through which fine flexible wires run, which are attached to an indicator at the end which is inserted into a wound. In endeavoring to locate a ball the instrument is gradually pushed forward, following the channel into which it may be inserted until it reaches an obstruction. As soon as the ball is reached by the probe, the indicator is affected, and the result is at once apparent to the person performing the operation, who is also informed in the same way of the existence of any obstruction in the path of the wound.

What Dr. Bliss Says.

In discussing the President's condition last night Dr. Bliss said that the flow of pus was deemed perfectly satisfactory, and that there was nothing in the color or odor of the discharge to indicate that it was at all unhealthy; that there was no soreness about the wound, and that there was no indication of any operation by the surgeons in charge; that the President was simply suffering from traumatic fever, the effects of which had been somewhat elevated by the intensely hot weather of the past day or two; that if the pus had been at all unhealthy in character, it had been detected by any obstruction, it could readily have been detected by the odor of sulphurated hydrogen, which would be an unmistakable evidence that the flow from the wound was obstructed at some point along the track of the ball. It was also stated that in the presence of the very gradual rise in temperature did not indicate anything like the formation of a pus cavity, but that the increased temperature was the result of traumatic fever entirely.

A Better Bulletin Than Expected.

The regular bulletin this morning was as follows: EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 8, 8:30 a. m.--The President is in a comfortable night, and slept well without anodyne. The rise of temperature of yesterday afternoon subsided during the evening and did not recur at any time through the night. At present he appears better than yesterday morning. Pulse, 94; temperature, 98.4°.

FRANK H. HAMILTON, J. K. BARNES, D. HAYES AGNEW, J. J. WOODWARD, D. W. BLISS, ROBERT REYBURN.

The above bulletin was of a more satisfactory character than was expected after the unfavorable symptoms of the past two days, when there were other features, however, in connection with the case that showed that as they pretended to be. Dr. Hamilton had arranged to go to New York Saturday night, but was still here this morning. Dr. Agnew, who left here Saturday night, and is still here. Both the consulting physicians were present at the examination of the patient this morning. They both arrived at the Mansion at 7:30 o'clock, which is fully three-quarters of an hour earlier than they ever came before, and it was soon evident to the President's attendants that something unusual was in progress in regard to the President's case. The physicians were in consultation for over two hours, and the utmost secrecy was manifested in regard to their deliberations. It was pretty generally understood, however, that some Important Operation or Experiment in regard to a pus cavity proposed to have formed in the wound had been made. All doubt in regard to this question was dispelled about 11 o'clock, when the following bulletin was issued:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 8, 10:30 a. m.--It having become necessary to make a further opening, to facilitate the escape of pus, we took advantage of the improved condition of the President this morning. Shortly after the morning bulletin was issued he was etherized, the incision extended downward and forward, and a counter opening made into the track of the ball, below the margin of the twelfth rib, which it is believed will effect the desired object. He bore the operation well, and has now recovered from the effects of etherization, and is in excellent condition.

FRANK H. HAMILTON, J. K. BARNES, D. HAYES AGNEW, J. J. WOODWARD, D. W. BLISS, ROBERT REYBURN.

The bulletin indicates that the physicians attribute the President's high fever of the past two days to an obstruction in the passage of the wound, and that another operation was necessary to facilitate the discharge of pus.

The Electric Probe.

was not resorted to in exploring the track of the wound as was expected. The result of the examination strengthened the theory that the original pus cavity along the path of the ball, had been dammed up just below the margin of the twelfth rib, and to get at this the incision was extended downward and forward and a counter opening made into the track of the ball, just below where the obstruction was believed to be.

The Operation was a Severe One, and it was found necessary to administer ether. It will be remembered that ether was only used at the first operation in sprinkling the parts to be operated upon, and its use in the present case would seem to show that the President was stronger than on the former occasion. The operation is said to have been successful, and is expected to give the desired relief in an uninterupted escape of pus. The President stood the operation well, and is now, according to the bulletin, in excellent condition.

No Second Pus Cavity.

The talk about a second pus cavity seems to be without foundation. The physician's theory is that in some way, the pus became clogged up in the cavity already operated upon, and in accumulating there had closed it up and shut off all means of discharge. The cause of the obstruction was the healing of the cavity from the outside surface, and causing the discharge of pus from beyond that point to accumulate there. At the request of the other physicians, the operation of again freeing the channel of the wound was performed by Dr. Agnew, who it will be remembered, also handled the ball at the former operation.

Another Explanation From Dr. Bliss.

Dr. Bliss was seen by a Claric reporter just after 12 o'clock, and in answer to the usual question as to how the President was, he said: "He is sleeping now and doing nicely." He also stated that he believed the good effects from the operation this morning would be seen in a short time. The President, he thought, would be better to-night than he has been for several days past. Dr. Bliss was clearly of the opinion that the recent unfavorable symptoms were due to the accumulation of pus in the cavity, and now that a free opening has been made, they have no further apprehension of trouble from that source. The first incision was just above the twelfth rib, which was in some measure responsible for the secretion of pus, and in order to relieve this secretion and do away with any future danger from that source the incision this morning was made below the twelfth rib, and the flow of pus was facilitated.

Anxiety Again Asserting Itself.

The bad news about the President in the morning papers caused a decided increase in the number of visitors at the White House to-day, and the feeling of anxiety and uncertainty again asserted itself. Secretary Blaine, who has not called at the White House in the morning since the removal of three weeks ago, was among the first callers to-day. Secretary Hunt and Postmaster-General James were also early on hand, but did not remain very long, having been assured by the physicians that the President was getting along pretty well. Postmaster-General James brought with him an invalid's chair, which had been sent to him by the President for use in his convalescence. It is an elegant affair, of the Eastlake style, and was constructed expressly for the President's use, being so arranged that when he is sitting in it, his hand can be reached and dressed without causing him to change his position. From present indications the President will not be able to use it for some time to come.

The Operation Performed to Prevent Trouble.

At 1 o'clock Dr. Bliss stated that the President had fully recovered from the effects of the operation.

Dr. Hamilton returned to New York this afternoon at 1:15 p. m. He stated that the President had borne the operation satisfactorily, and was at that hour (1 o'clock) doing well.

"Do you think the trouble has been met, doctor?" was asked.

Dr. Hamilton replied: "There is no trouble," was the reply. "We made the incision to prevent trouble, and the object seems to have been accomplished."

"And you don't think there is any cause for alarm?"

"None at all. He will be better from this operation," Dr. Bliss replied.

Dr. Reyburn also gives the same cheering information, that the President had rallied from the operation and was now resting quietly.

Secretary Blaine to Minister Lowell.

Secretary Blaine, who said the other day that he would not send any more dispatches about the President's case, has changed his mind. The President's condition, to-day sent the following: Lowell, Minister, London: During the past three days the President has periodically experienced a rise of temperature, indicating another obstruction to the flow of pus.

A surgical operation was performed at 9 o'clock this morning by Dr. Agnew, assisted by all the surgeons in attendance, by which a free communication between the pus centres and the surface of the body had been established.

The operation was performed under the influence of ether. The President endured it well, and at 10:30 p. m. is doing as well as could be hoped.

(Signed) BLAINE, Secretary.

At 1:30 p. m. the President's pulse was 100. He had no fever, and was sleeping comfortably.

3 P. M.

At 3 o'clock reports from the sick room were that the President was sleeping quietly and that all his symptoms were of a most encouraging character. No particular change has occurred in his condition since noon, when his pulse was 100 and his temperature and respiration normal. So far there have been no indications of fever, and it is thought has entirely rallied from the operation of this morning. The physicians say there is no cause for alarm, and express satisfaction with the progress of the case.

A UTOPIAN SCHEME.

To Proclaim Liberty to All the World and All the Inhabitants Thereof.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.--A row which occurred among the delegates in the Clan-na-Gael Council led to an angry withdrawal of the dynamite faction. The meeting was adjourned, and many others, and at one time the breaking up of the council was threatened. The seeming difficulties were, however, adjusted after the morning session. The succeeding members return to-day in apparent harmony. The meeting to-day is expected to be of great importance, as the committee on future action will report a general plan as follows: Funds are no longer to be expended in open warfare upon the British government, but are to be used to create and maintain agitation for the benefit of the cause of Irish liberty.

A grand factious meeting is to be organized, with aims as follows: The existing British government is to be changed, and the united states of Great Britain formed of England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland. The American possessions are to be annexed to the states of America. The independence of Australia is to be declared, and a republic formed among the English speaking people of South Africa, including Cape Colony and Natal, to unite with other neighboring districts and form a South African republic. The resident population of India is to be organized, with aims as follows: The existing British government is to be changed, and the united states of Great Britain formed of England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland.
