GETTING WORSE.

A Grave Crisis at Hand. Deep and Increasing Anxiety

Worse This Afternoon.

Special Dispatch to THE EVENING OPBITIC. ELBERON, Sept. 16--3 p. m.--The President is worse this afternoon, and a serious crisis is evidently close at hand.

The discharge from the wound is less free than usual and is of a vicious quality, causing great anxiety.

The pulse is very variable. Boynton and MacVeagh say there is deep and increasing anxiety.

The weather is stormy and rainy.

Great Anxiety for the President's Condition.

A dispatch from Long Branch, received this afternoon, says a very grave crisis is believed to be at hand, and great anxiety is expressed for the President's condition.

DEPARTMENTS.

TREASURY RECEIPTS TO-DAY: Internal Revenue, $801,696.90; customs, $978,600.50.

NATIONAL BANK NOTES were received for redemption to-day to the amount of $153,000.

M. B. CHALEE was to-day commissioned postmaster at Heathsville, Northumberland County, Va.

COL. CORBIN, Assistant Adjutant-General, leaves here to-night for Long Branch, where he goes to see the President.

THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT is preparing its "Blue Book," which covers the two years past. It is, at present, engaged in the mail messenger service and mail contractors' service throughout the country. It will be a month before the "Blue Book" is completed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE has been granted to EUGENE R. C. RAY, Surgeon William J. Simon, Surgeon H. M. Wells, Chief Engineer G. B. Garvin, Mate H. C. Fuller, Commander William H. Gibson, Civil Engineer A. G. Menzies, Capt. William B. Fitzhugh, and the leave of Paymaster C. D. Mansfield has been extended until the 30th.

ARMY ORDERS.--Leave of absence for eight months on surgeon's certificate of disability with permission to leave the Department of the Columbia, has been granted Capt. Stephen G. Whipple, First Cavalry. Leave of absence for one year, from September 1, 1881, on surgeon's certificate of disability, is granted Capt. Thomas Drury, Second Infantry.

NAVAL BULLETIN.--Ordered--Lieut. Commander C. H. Pendleton, to the navy-yard, Boston; Pay-Director A. H. Gilman, as inspector of provisions, etc., at the Boston navy-yard. Detached--Midshipman Frank M. H. Osterick, from the Lackawanna, and ordered to the coast survey steamer McArthur; Pay-Director M. Abbot, as inspector of provisions, etc., navy-yard, Boston, ordered to settle accounts and await orders.

THE EUROPEAN SQUADRON.--A dispatch from Ville Franche, September 3, from Rear Admiral Howell, commanding the European station, reports the movements of his squadron as follows: Flag-ship Trenton, expected to arrive on the 7th instant at Hampton Roads, Va.; Galena, at Leghorn, Italy; Nipic, at Ville Franche; Quinquabaug, on way to Marselles, thence to Port Mahon. The health of the squadron is excellent.

THE CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS reports that the total values of the exports of domestic breadstuffs from the United States during the month of August, 1881, were $35,547,721, and during August, 1880, $31,734,897; for the two months ended August 31, 1881, $45,584,228, and for the two months ended August 31, 1880, $42,964,537; for the eight months ended August 31, 1881, $157,656,205, and during the corresponding period in 1880, $185,321,222.

What Came of a Dispute About Garfield and Arthur.

Henry King, who was serving a life sentence at Clinton Prison, New York, for a murder committed in New York, was yesterday sentenced at Plattsburg to be hanged on November 4 for murdering Michael Hamilton, of New York, a fellow convict.

During a discussion in the prison laundry on July 13 about the assassination of President Garfield, King and Hamilton disputed as to whether Garfield or Arthur was the better man, when Hamilton called Arthur a coward, and King challenged Hamilton to a fight. The fight resulted in a draw, where King struck Hamilton twice on the head with an axe, inflicting fatal wounds. During the trial King said that he intended to murder Hamilton.

THE OPERATION ON SENATOR HILL. The operation performed on Senator Hill, of Georgia, last week by Prof. Gross, of Philadelphia, was much more extensive and serious than the first. Besides cutting off a portion of the tongue it was found necessary to take out the sub-maxillary and lymphatic glands, and also the whole floor of the mouth. The Atlanta Constitution learns that about one-half of Mr. Hill's tongue has been cut away in the two operations, but adds "it is not thought that it will interfere seriously with his articulation."

AT FRANKLYN COTTAGE

No Material Change in the Patient's Condition.

Bulletins Not Satisfactory.

How the President Passed the Night

Dr. Boynton's Gloomy View of Affairs.

Statements of the Bulletins.

The following was issued yesterday evening: "ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 15--6 p. m.--The President has passed a quiet day, sleeping a little. He has coughed occasionally, the expectation being less purulent. A great variety of nourishment has been taken, without discomfort. He was placed upon the invalid chair and remained forty-five minutes in a position a little more elevated than on previous occasions. At 12 m. to-day his temperature was 98.9; pulse, 102; respiration, 21. At the evening dressing (half-six p. m.) the temperature was 99.2; pulse, 104; respiration, 21." [Signed by the three physicians.]

The following was sent last night to Minister Lowell by Attorney-General MacVeagh: "The President's condition does not appear to have undergone any material change to-day, all his symptoms continuing substantially the same as yesterday, except that the expectation from the right lung has been rather less difficult and less profuse. He is still very weak, and, as this weakness is due to the condition of the blood, while it continues grave anxiety must also continue."

Not Reassuring.

It cannot be said that the news received yesterday from Long Branch as to the condition of the President is of such a character as to allay anxiety or increase hope. While the official bulletins claim that the President has passed a quiet and comfortable day, they are so guarded in tone as to lead to the belief that they were prepared carefully in order to prevent any undue expectation. The nourishment which the patient took yesterday was of the most sparing character, and the dispatch sent to Minister Lowell last night again hints at the possibility of future complications retarding recovery.

Hope and Despondency Alternating.

A despatch to the Baltimore Sea dated yesterday says: "Probably the most remarkable and significant fact connected with the preservation of the President has been the exhibition of will-power on his part and the determination to overcome all obstacles that stood in the way to recovery. Occasionally, however, he has become despondent, and said to those with him that he thought the struggle for life would be in vain. He became in this way this morning about three o'clock after a severe coughing spell. He was weak and exhausted, and turning his head to the faithful Dr. Boynton, who was in attendance, he became despondent, and said: 'I am afraid bringing me here will prove a roaring fiasco.' Dr. Boynton told him not to be discouraged, but to keep up his courage, and that he could pull through yet. After hearing Dr. Boynton talk for some minutes in a reassuring manner, the President dropped his head, apparently resigned, and the most noteworthy incident of last night's watch. At a late hour to-night very little additional can be learned. The rough and violent weather drove everybody indoors, and the surgeons would not respond to calls, but sent the usual stereotyped phrase: 'The President is resting quietly, and bids fair to have a good night.' Notwithstanding these assurances, there is more apprehension of unfavorable news to-morrow than for some nights past. A good bulletin in the morning will be the cause of joyful surprise. Even those persons who take the extreme view of the case, and who think the President's recovery is only a question of a few weeks, feel somewhat disturbed, and manifest more than ordinary anxiety."

How the News is Furnished.

The managing editor of a city paper to-day received the following telegram from his Long Branch correspondent: "There is no use for me to remain here any longer. All the news from the sick-room is furnished the press by Dr. Bliss, who admits me in the form of enema, and the boys can't stand it."

The correspondent will be brought home in a reclining chair to-morrow.

This Morning's Bulletin.

The official bulletin this morning was as follows: "ELBERON, Sept. 16.--At the examination of the President at 8.30 this morning, the temperature was 98.6; the pulse, 104; and respiration, 21. The pulse rise during the night was not as pronounced as it usually has been. There was at times considerable acceleration of pulse. He, however, slept comparatively well and took stimulants and nourishment as directed. The cough was somewhat more troublesome during the first part of the night, and the expectation rather more purulent. The discharge from the wound is less abundant, and not quite as healthy in appearance. The pulse, however, has more volume, and his general condition does not seem materially changed in any respect."

"D. W. BLISS, 'FRANK H. HAMILTON'"

The History of the Night.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 16.--Gen. Swain and Col. Rockwell divided the night between them, and their observations entered into the make-up of the bulletin. General Swain says: "The President slept well and a great deal, but was somewhat restless at times. Taking the night as a whole, it was favorable, and I think his condition this morning is excellent and quite up to that of yesterday. In the early morning the President coughed a great deal and raised much mucus, but he did it so easy and with less trouble than previously."

Col. Rockwell said the President slept continually from half past three to six o'clock, and in the morning took some porridge and brandy milk-punch. Colonel Rockwell was asked regarding the report circulated that the President had had a recurrence of the exhaustive night sweats. He replied that there was not a word of truth in the rumor, and not the slightest foundation for it in fact.

Dr. Agnew's Return to Philadelphia.

ELBERON, Sept. 16--10.55 o'clock a. m. Dr. Agnew went to Philadelphia on an early train. He was not present at the morning dressing. He will return this evening. The weather to-day is cold and stormy. The President's room is kept at 72° to 75° by day. The room is lined with cork so as to exclude drafts.

Dr. Boynton's Gloomy View.

Dr. Boynton, after the morning dressing, appeared rather gloomy. He said: "Of course I still have hopes, but there does not appear to be much ground for them. I certainly see no reason for sanguine belief in recovery, which the recent picturing of the case seemed to produce. The President has been having ups and downs, but on the whole I think that now he is really lower than forty-eight hours ago. I think there has been a gradual, but no marked, loss, and his general condition shows it. The discharge from the wound is of a less healthy character, and the expectation of the gland has not ceased. Bed-sores have again made their appearance. For some time there had been none. He formerly had some, and was much troubled and annoyed by them. They disappeared, and there has been no return recently from them. They have again made their appearance. These sores are the result of the greatly exhausted condition of the patient and his long continued confinement to bed. He is in a very weak state. The sores are troublesome. There is no material change in the lung trouble, but the continuance causes disturbing dreams, extending into waking hours. His hallucinations continue, and are more prolonged. They now exhibit themselves in the day time. The President's mind is under these hallucinations much more of the time than formerly. The prospects to-day are not encouraging. I am not willing to grant that there is sufficient ground for any sanguine assurance that the President will recover, although I do believe he has sufficient vitality to bear his present load, and, perhaps, carry it safely through."

Grave Apprehensions Felt Here.

Dr. Boynton has returned to the city. He declined to be interviewed. He admitted, however, that the President was by no means out of danger. Considerable apprehension prevailed about the city to-day. The morning bulletin brought no cheerful tidings, and on all sides the impression prevailed that the President was worse than he had been for some time. A private telegram received at the Treasury yesterday to-day announced the fact that the President's cough was more frequent, and that his general condition was less encouraging than it had been at any time since his arrival at Long Branch. Private Secretary Lowell sent a usual daily dispatch to the White House, but it was simply corroborative of the morning bulletin.

ANOTHER SCANDAL.

This Time It is Located in the Sixth Auditor's Office.

Considerable of an excitement prevails in the Sixth Auditor's office over the reported discovery of a series of very disgraceful episodes that have been going on for some months. The parties interested are several clerks and a single lady clerk, the sister-in-law of a prominent Government official. This same young woman became involved in a similar scandal at the Post-office Department about eighteen months ago, but the matter was squelched on account of her family connections. It was stated by her friends at the time that she had been sent out of the city, but it appears that after her return she was reinstated as a clerkship. It is stated that the matter is being investigated by the Sixth Auditor and that a number of parties have been summoned as witnesses.

Honors to the Memory of Gen. Burnside.

Early yesterday morning four companies of the Bristol veterans proceeded to Edgewater farm, the summer residence of Gen. Burnside, and escorted his remains to St. Michael's Church, the streets being thronged by many mourners. The services in the church were conducted by Rev. Dr. Locke, after which the body was viewed by nearly the whole population of the town. At 11 o'clock the remains were placed on a special train, and with a guard of veterans and the Bristol committee, conveyed to Providence and placed in the rotunda of the City Hall. Col. Morris, in behalf of the Bristol committee, surrounded the body in a few pathetic words, to which Col. Wm. Goddard responded on behalf of the State committee in a brief and touching speech. Guards were then posted, the remains placed in state in the draped hall, and the people, who had gathered in hundreds, were admitted to pass rapidly by and gaze upon the face of the coffin here.

The General's horse Major, that bore him through the war, was killed yesterday afternoon. The animal had become helpless, and the General had arranged for its death whenever it could be killed without his knowledge.

Reporting Beats to the State Department.

Just after President Garfield was inaugurated there was an influx here of office-seekers of every class, and also of parties desiring to whom the name should be made themselves solid, if such a thing was possible.

Among the latter were holders of office in the consular service. They flocked from all points abroad into Washington, and at one time were as thick as bees. Many of these office-seekers were straightforward and unpretentious before they left the city and were compelled to stand off hotel proprietors and others when ready to depart, promising to liquidate in the near future. A number did as they promised, but a number of others did not, and at present the office-seekers are howling to get even and have not hesitated to report the beats to the Department of State.

Geo. F. Timms & Co.

although their new store is far from being completed, will have their stock on display to-morrow, and will not refuse to show to any wishing to make purchases. They announce no formal opening at present.

Contributions for the Michigan Sufferers.

The contributions for the Michigan sufferers continue to roll in. There was contributed to-day by employees of the United States Treasury office $85. More work has been contributed from this office, but many of the clerks are out of the city.

Yesterday the clerks in all the Government offices, as well as a number of business men, made liberal contributions, and the sum realized will amount to several hundred dollars. There should be still further contributions.

Will of William H. Ward.

To-day the will of William H. Ward, our best-known real estate lawyer, was filed in the Register's office, and was admitted to probate and recorded. All his property is given to his wife during her life, and letters testamentary were to-day issued to her under a bond of $4,000.

MESSRS. J. S. POWELL AND H. C. WAMPLER, of this city, were registered in Baltimore yesterday.

Trouble in the Trades-Union Congress.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--The "Fair Trade" delegates expelled yesterday forcibly entered the Trades-Union Congress to-day, and created a disturbance. There was a great row and much excitement, but they were finally permitted to remain until the new discussion on the subject now going on should be ended. The "Fair Trade" delegation finally refused absolutely to withdraw from the convention, and a deputation was sent to consult with the Home-Secretary's Office and procure official advice. Meanwhile police assistance was procured, and the congress adjourned temporarily.

Cornering Cotton in Liverpool.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--Owing to the attempt of Liverpool brokers to make a corner in cotton, some of the Oldham mills have stopped work. A combination to artificially advance the price of cotton is understood to be very strong. A number of the most wealthy houses of the trade are members of the ring.

Lancashire Stopping Work.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--Reports from the Lancashire Mill districts say that the employers are stopping work to-day, and there is every indication that all the mills will shut down unless some change should occur in the condition of the cotton market.

Land League Convention.

DUBLIN, Sept. 16.--The Land League Convention on resuming resumed the discussion of the provisions of the Land bill, which was interrupted by last night's adjournment. The discussion will probably occupy the entire day.

Regulating the Egyptian Army.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--It is reported that England has accepted the proposal of France to appoint a mixed military commission, with a view to the regulation of the Egyptian army.

Cutting Railroad Rates.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.--The Grand Trunk Railroad has reduced its passenger rate to Baltimore to $10. It is rumored that the Vanderbilt roads will form a combination between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore to meet all competition.

Parnell's Speech Condemned.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--The press strongly and generally condemns Mr. Parnell's speech at the opening of the Irish National Convention at Dublin yesterday, and say that it simply means social revolution.

Vigorous Campaign in North Africa.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--Gen. Farre is preparing an elaborate campaign in North Africa, to conduct which it is believed 100,000 men will be required. Strong reinforcements are arriving.

Concerted Action Against Nihilists.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--Count Saburoff and Prince Bismarck have agreed to take concerted action against the Nihilists, and the co-operation of England and France has been requested.

Peace Established in Basutoland.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--Gen. Sir Hercules Robinson telegraphs to the War office that peace is established in Basutoland.

The Doncaster Cup.

LONDON, Sept. 16.--The Doncaster cup was won to-day by Petronel, Tristram second, and Du Barry third.

Current Rumors in Wall Street.

Special Dispatch to THE EVENING OPBITIC. NEW YORK, Sept. 16.--The Vanderbilt following, especially the railroad men, were taking very blue last night over the unsettled railroad matters. John Tillinghast said there was a big war going on and affairs were very shaky. Joe Mills said John Newell had stated to him that there were absolutely no prospects yet of compromise. Still Vanderbilt tells his friends that the next dividend on Lake Shore will be 2 per cent., and also the three next regular following payments, and if straight Michigan dividend will be 1 per cent. The bulls claim that another large short interest was secured yesterday, and there will probably be another upward turn to-day. Sage declares he has sold no stocks lately. He has none for sale, and has great confidence in higher prices. Henry Hart says he is bullish on Pacific Mail for 75. He says the business of the line is large and remunerative, and the Central American trade is simply booming.

Mr. Dowd's friends say that the Hannibal & St. Joe lawyers will to-day advise against the issue of new stock against the convertible bonds, and unless the shorts settle privately they will have to climb for their stock at 400 or 500. The 100 shares sold yesterday at 300 was by Ford, and was bought by Cox. Ten shares sold at 400, or 400 for the lot. The Manhattan Elevated people claim that the New York Elevated will not succeed in recovering control of their property, and say Manhattan is going to 50 again.

The Central Pacific people say there will be a great rise in their stock later on, and there are large orders in the market to buy it if it should decline. The bulls generally believed in a rally in the market to-day which would hold.

The Wagner Palace Car Company has been reorganized, and the former general superintendent of the Iron Mountain Railway Company has been elected vice-president. Gould & Sage have taken $2,000,000 of the new stock, and the Wagner cars are to be put on all the Gould roads and the Pullman withdrawals.

The bears in telegraph stocks declare that it is evident from the statement of Dr. Green, and also of one of the directors, that the company has since January 1, sold securities to the Treasury and have realized over $300,000, which has been credited as current revenue. Only $400,000 in cash has gone into the Treasury during the last quarter, which has all been expended for new work. The street is full of points to buy Reading.

Bloody Deaths.

W. H. Conner was shot and instantly killed by Frank Strother at Jackson, Tenn., on Wednesday, because Conner was opposed to Strother marrying his daughter.

John Hoarling, marshal of Carroll, Holt County, Mo., was killed Wednesday night while attempting to arrest a drunken man named Jeff Williams. The murderer was lodged in jail.

There are new revelations in the alleged poisoning cases in Lancaster, Pa. The bodies of the families of Dr. Bugbee and Mr. B. G. Towne have been exhumed. Arsenic was found in the stomach of Mrs. Towne, but no poison was discovered in that of Dr. Bugbee. Arsenic was also found in the vitals of Mr. Towne and Dr. Bugbee. It is also asserted that there is substantial proof that Dr. Bugbee, Mr. and Mrs. Towne died from the use of whisky in which arsenic had been placed. The officers believe that they know who the guilty parties are.

Annie Martin, aged 18 years, residing with her father near Winona, Minn., was shot and instantly killed by some unknown person Wednesday night. Suspicion rests upon a discarded lover.
